19TH YEAR NO. 18.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1902.

TWO CENTS.

HALF A YEAR OF PROSPERITY

A Very Successful Business by the East Liverpool Potteries
Company.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

Edward J. Owen Retires From the Board—Report of the Past Six Months Gratifying Beyond All Expectations of Those Interested.

Edward J. Owen, a director of the East Liverpool Potteries company, retired from the board of directors of
that company at the annual meeting
of the stockholders held in the directors' room of the company at Fourth
and Broadway last evening. Out of 23 stockholders only three were absent. Reports of the officers were presented which showed that since
the company was organized a large
business was handled.

The election of directors resulted
as follows: Robert Hall, Sr., John J.
Purinton, George C. Murphy, Frederick B. Lawrence, Noah A. Frederick
and George W. Meredith.

The directors will meet probably this evening to elect officers for the year.

Soon after the company was organized last year a meeting of the officials
was held, at which time it was decided that if the company should make but a small per cent on its capital during the first six months of their career, matters would be satisfactory. Instead of this, and through the efforts of some of the officials,
four times the per cent decided upon
at the first meeting was made,
which showed profits from an immense
business.

After the new officers are elected
it is likely that some change will be made in the present office force.

A VEXED QUESTION.

After Three Weeks More Than Two
Sprigs Entitle Printers to Dinner Ware Prices.

The dispute of the printers, which
has been under discussion by members of the standing committees of the Western Manufacturing Pottery Association and those representing
the Brotherhood was settled at a joint meeting of the committees yesterday afternoon in the Pottery club. Many meetings had been held a while without the printers' dispute was considered, but at the session yesterday,
final agreement was reached.

It was decided that on and after February 10 only two sprigs shall be placed on fruits and saucers instead
of three sprigs, as is now being used
in some potteries. If firms decide to place three sprigs on fruits and sau-
cers, the printers shall receive the regular dinner ware price, 5 3-4 cents a dozen. If two sprigs are used the price has been set at 4 1-2 cents a dozen.

The reason the potters were given
three weeks' time to make this change
was for the purpose of having new copper plates made. As soon as these are completed, the new schedule will become operative.

The meeting yesterday afternoon
lasted from 4 until 5:30 o'clock, but
as there are other questions to be presented to the board another session will be held soon.

NO AGREEMENT YET

Between Youngstown People And Local Men Projecting a Pottery There.

Thomas V. Burton and E. W. Fisher
have returned from Youngstown,
where they met a committee from
the board of trade and discussed the inducements which are being offered
by that city to locate the new pottery.

The gentlemen are highly pleased
with the treatment accorded them
by Mahoning's capital, but until certain further details are forthcoming
as to agreement plans cannot be outlined.

PROBATE MATTERS

Inquiry As to a Will—Sale of East
Liverpool Property
Ordered.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
The will of Jacob Beight has been presented in court and Howard Ferris, of Cincinnati, has been commissioned to take the testimony of Dr.

C. F. McCloud, the only surviving witness.

Mary Wells, of East Liverpool,
brought action against Ida Wells,
asking to be permitted to sell property in which the defendant has an interest. As the defendant is an imbecile, Arthur E. Bowdler has been appointed trustee for the suit. In the same suit W. K. Gaston, of East Liverpool, has been appointed guardian
of Alvin, Roy and Kenneth Mercer,
minors. Upon investigation the court
has ordered the real estate sold.

ENGINEER HILL CONDEMNED IT

THE EXPERT FOUND FAULT
WITH RESERVOIR WORK.

A Startling Discovery By a Local Newspaper Causes Much Amusement.

Reporters of the News Review staff
were much amused today on hearing
a number of discussions among interested business men over the "startling discovery" story published last night concerning the new water works
reservoir.

The fact that the discovery referred
to was so "startling" to that paper
that it published an account of it more than a week after the News Review
had done so, served as a huge joke
to hundreds about town, who knew
all along that the account as first
published was correct and reliable.

Since the time the News Review
called exclusive attention to the defects in the reservoir many inspections have been made by capable engineers, all of whom fully substantiated
the statements made in its columns. No person, only those directly interested, offered any contradiction,
excepting that which came from the
"fly-up-the-creek" organ as the result
of humiliation over an important and legitimate "scoop."

Additional details concerning the reservoir have reached the News Review, tending to prove conclusively
that no mistake was made in the
claim that the basin is likely never to be made safe in its present location.

A prominent business man is authority for the claim that Engineer
Hill, who came here from Philadelphia to inspect the reservoir after the big break occurred in the wall, told
the members of the water works board
and other officials that the reservoir
had been badly located. It is also claimed that the engineer expressed
the opinion that its construction was
at fault and that the walls would never hold the pressure expected of them.

When the News Review makes
"startling discoveries" it doesn't wait
to print them a week or 10 days after
the facts of the discoveries become
the main topic of public comment.

JOLLY HUNTING PARTY

Will Leave Tonight in Search of Raccoons in Vicinity of Sprucevale.

Raccoons that stray too far away
tonight from their happy homes in the vicinity of Sprucevale will be responsible if their carcasses find a resting place in the game bags of a party of local sportsmen who propose
to go hunting.

Mayor Davidson, whose appetite
for coon meat is said to be insatiable,
and who is claimed to be such a splendid marksman that he can hit the
"bull's eye" without even sighting his
gun, will head the hunting party,
among which will be Pat and Dan Mc-
Nicol, George and Ed Davidson, Jack
Powell, Frank Dickey, William Ferguson, together with several others. All
will leave in a sled tonight and drive
to Sprucevale, where the onslaught

RAILROAD PROPERTY

Claims Agent With Auditor Adams
Going Over the East Liverpool Appraisement.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
W. R. McKay, assistant tax and claims agent of the Pennsylvania company, is in the county auditor's office with Auditor Adams adjusting the apprais-ment of the company's property in East Liverpool.

McCoy-Kilmer.

At the home of the groom on Seventh street, Rev. J. W. Gorrell performed the ceremony uniting the lives and fortunes of Edgar H. Kilmer and Miss Mazie O. McCoy. Mr. Kilmer is
employed as decorator at the Severs
china works, while the bride has a host of friends in the city who will wish them well.

Definite Announcement That the Pennsylvania Company Will Soon Give Attention to the Needs
of That Prosperous Part of the City.

It has been definitely announced
that a freight and passenger station,
to cost not less than $6,000 will be built in the East End the coming
spring or summer by the C. & P.
Railroad company. In fact, the matter has progressed so far, that at the next meeting of council plans for the new building will probably be presented for the consideration of that body.

When W. D. Wood, engineer of maintenance of way, and other officials of the Pennsylvania company,
were in the city last week conferring
with councilmen, the idea of the railroad company building a large brick
station on property in the East End
opposite the National pottery, was presented. It was suggested by the official that a building similar to the new station recently opened at Leets-
dale, Pa., be built in the East End.
This station is of brick and is considered to be one of the best on the Western division of the Pennsylvania
lines. A councilman advised Mr. Wood
that such a station would likely be acceptable to council and information
was given immediately that the matter would be brought before the directors of the C. & P. road at Cleveland at a meeting which was to be held a few days after the visit of the railroad officials to this city.

Mr. Wood, it is said, favors such a station for the East End, and it is intimated that his opinion has much weight with higher officials. If built
the new building will be divided into
a freight and passenger department,
one being separated from the other by
a siding.

Under the present method manufacturing potters owning plants in the East End load their ware into cars,
and for the transferring of these cars
to the main freight station on Walnut street, a fee of $2.50 is charged
by the railroad company. It is averred that by so doing the company
loses between $5 and $6 a car, as it frequently occurs that casks are brought from the East End to the central station, from which they are taken to the wharf to be shipped for
the accommodation of the manufacturers. By having a distributing point
in the East End, it can be readily
seen that much money would be saved
by the railroad, and shipments would
be dispatched quicker than at present.

Surveyors have recently been running lines between Mulberry street
and Virginia avenue, along the main line, and it is understood that an additional siding will be built, leading
to the site of the new station.

LIQUOR CASES BEFORE THE COURT

JOSEPH VONDRAN FINED $20 AND COSTS ON THREE COUNTS.

Several Others Plead Not Guilty And Give Bond—A Curious
Mistake.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Common pleas court convened at 1
p. m. today. Attention was given for the first hour to liquor cases.

Joseph Vondran, of East Liverpool,
was fined $20 and costs on each of three counts for Sunday selling.

"Toughy" Walters, East Liverpool,
pleaded not guilty and renewed his bond. There are about six counts
against him.

Harry Eppley and "Kid" O'Handon, East Liverpool, pleaded not guilty and
furnished bond.

Martin Walsh, Lisbon, indicted on
six counts, pleaded not guilty.

Some mistake was evidently made
in the case of Gus McDermitt, East
Liverpool. A German named August
Schuttfeldt answered when the name of McDermitt was called and explained that the sheriff had insisted that he come over, and he did so, although
his name was not McDermitt. He was not employed as a bartender at the time charged in the indictment.

Wallace Shisler, New Waterford,
who has been in jail several days,
pleaded not guilty to the charge of
furnishing liquor to others. Shisler looks to be about 17. He admits that he bought liquor which he gave to
two boy companions, but claims that
all three of them "chipped in" to buy
the liquor.

The trial of those who have pleaded
not guilty will be set by the court,
perhaps for the latter part of next week.

INSTALLATION AND FEAST

of K. of C. and C. M. B. A. Will Be Held Tomorrow
Evening.

Officers recently elected by the Knights of Columbus will be installed
at their meeting Thursday evening by District Deputy Thomas J. Duffy. In
the Carroll club rooms on the same evening new officers will also be installed for the local branch of the
C. M. B. A. by Mr. Hogan, of Pittsburg.

After the completion of both installations a banquet will be given in Knights of Columbus hall by both orders. Addresses will be made at the banquet by officers of both organizations.

Sued on a $43 Board Bill.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
George Zimmerman, a Lisbon restaurant keeper, was awarded a judgment
for $43 against Robert Nace in Squire
Dickinson's court yesterday. The suit
was on a board bill.

THOMAS WHITE MAY LOSE
SIGHT AND LIFE.

He Was Injured on Monday And the Infirmary Directors Are Attending to His Case.

It has been found that Thomas
White, who was injured on Little Yellow Creek Monday by the blowing out
of a staybolt from a boiler, was more seriously hurt than was at first supposed. White is 54 years old and single. He has boarded at the residence of Hiram Kountz, between East Liverpool and Wellsville, and is there
at present.

The township trustees of East Liverpool were applied to for aid and
this morning turned the case over to the directors of the infirmary. Medical attention and a nurse have been supplied the patient, who may not recover.

His hands were frightfully scalded
and it is the opinion of the attending physician that White may lose his eyesight completely.

The injured man had gone to one of the wells of the Lawson Oil and Gas company to procure some oil. On passing the boiler he arrived just in time to be hurt. There was a terrifically hot steam and scalding water. He was at first taken to Wellsville for treatment.

The man is a stone quarryman by occupation, but has been employed as a laborer during the last several weeks by different men about Wells-ville and East Liverpool. He was not in the employ of the Lawson Oil and Gas company.

FELL INTO A DITCH

A Salem Lady Who Was Injured Demands $2,000 From the City.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Miss Sadie J. Probert, of Salem, has entered suit against that city for $2,
000. Her petition says that on April 9, 1901, she fell through a board covering into a ditch three feet deep on
was broken and she was seriously
bruised and shocked.

Since the accident her sufferings
have not permitted her to perform
her ordinary duties and her nervous
system, she says, is impaired.

PLEASANT CARD PARTY

Enjoyed By Young Folks at the Home
of Miss Martha Porter.

One of the prettiest card parties
which has been given among the younger set this season occurred yesterday afternoon when Miss Martha Porter entertained in honor of her
visiting friend, Miss Mame Scott, of Cambridge. Cards were the amusement, in which probably 40 ladies

took part.

The tally cards merited much comment, each being ornamented by a
fancy head in water color, the work
of Miss Nell Porter, a sister of the hostess.

The game ended, a very dainty
lunch was served, at which Miss Porter was assisted by Mrs. Charles Goodwin, Mrs. Will Reed, Mrs. John Goodwin, Miss Minnie Milligan and Miss Nell Porter. The enviable reputation
of Miss Porter as a hostess was verified and the hospitality of the Porter
home was greatly enjoyed by all present.

EAST PALESTINE MAN LOOKING FOR LOST HORSE.

With It Went a Top Buggy, an East Palestine Man And a Woman.

L. D. Overlander, of East Palestine,
is offering a reward for the return
of a horse and buggy hired at his stable on Friday, January 17. It was hired by Charles W. Eckerson, of East Palestine, and he was to return
the rig the next day. Neither the man nor the horse has since been heard from.

Eckerson is about 25, light complexioned and smooth faced and weighs about 140. He was accompanied by a fair complexioned woman
of about 20, rather stoutly built, who
is supposed to have been the wife of a man living east of East Palestine. The horse was a black one, weighing about 900 pounds, blind in the left eye, and
the vehicle a top buggy with maroon
running gear.

JOHN SHORT'S CASE

On Trial in Common Pleas at Lisbon.
Many Witnesses on Hand.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
The case of Ohio versus John Shorts,
East Liverpool, indicted for assault on
a little girl, began this afternoon and will probably last till some time tomorrow.
About 20 witnesses are to be heard.

Prohibition Alliance Branch.

A branch of the Prohibition Alliance has been formed in this city, its purpose is to do missionary work in the interest of the party. The following officers have been chosen:
President, J. C. McClain; vice president, W. E. Mercer; secretary, W. V.
Harris; treasurer, W. A. Weaver;
marshal, Jere McMillan; chaplain,
Rev. S. C. George. Meetings will be on the first and third Fridays of each month.

Union Barber Cards.

"Union" shop cards have been distributed to all union barbers. This was done late yesterday forenoon by
a committee of journeymen barbers
appointed to do this work at a meeting held Monday evening. The cards
are not very large, measuring but 6x8 inches, and are inclosed in a neat
gold frame. The individual cards will be distributed soon.

Dismissed at Plaintiff's Cost.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
The case of John W. Post against
Edwin M. Hukill and R. J. Wallace
has been dismissed at plaintiff's cost.
Post leased land from the plaintiff in Knox township for coal and oil privileges and agreed to assist in the payment of certain rentals, but the defendants failed to pay their share of
the rentals.

Archer's Committees.

In the state senate Senator Archer
is chairman of the committee on rules,
chairman of committee on finance and
member of the committees on public
works and public laws, federal relations, fish and game, industrial schools,
mines and mining, municipal corporations No. 1, penitentiary, railroads
and telegraph, taxation and schools
for imbeciles.

A Party for Little Folks.

Mrs. David Wallace, of Thompson
Hill, entertained yesterday in honor
of the birthday of her little daughter,
Doris. The hours were from 2 to 5.
About 22 little folks were present
and helped to make memorable the
third birthday of their tiny hostess.

Lectured on Russia.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, of New York city, lectured here last evening
on "Russia," under the auspices of the young people's societies of local churches. There was a large audience.

USED HIS CLUB ON A PRISONER

Officer Salsberry Had an Encounter With a Treacherous
Colored Man.

BEGGED TO BE RELEASED

And While the Policeman Was Mo-
mentarily Off His Guard the Cul-
prit Attacked Him—Subdued And Jailed With Difficulty.

Policeman Frank Salsberry had a rough encounter last night with W.
H. Woods, a local colored man, whom
he undertook to arrest. The prisoner was intoxicated and looking for trouble when the officer came upon him
and a fight ensued.

Previous to the man's arrest other officers warned him to go home, but
he refused and continued to make trouble in the vicinity of the Turner
hall until Salsberry was compelled to interfere.

When the officer took hold of Woods
he began to beg off, promising to go
home, and while thus expostulating,
which caused Salsberry to anticipate
no fear of an attack, the prisoner
made a vicious pass at him and a clinch resulted.

Though taken at a disadvantage the
policeman fought off his antagonist
until he finally got hold of his club,
which he then wielded with telling
effect. Woods was soon subdued,
after which he was taken to jail in
the patrol. This morning he was fined $9.60 and is yet behind the bars.

The police say he is a treacherous
and desperate character and experience has warned them not to take any chances with him in case of trouble.

MORE LIGHT WANTED

Residents of Pleasant Heights Say
the Streets Are Unsafe.

Complaint has been made by residents of Pleasant Heights about the manner in which that section of the city is lighted during the night. Yesterday morning the street lamps along Lisbon road stopped burning about 5
o'clock.

Joseph Harmon, employed in the sagger shop of the D. E. McNicol pottery, while coming to work yesterday
morning accidentally stumbled over
a large stone in the roadway, causing him to fall heavily on the ground
and injuring his head. This stone
was within a few feet of a pole from
which is suspended an arc lamp, but could not be seen on account of the darkness, the lamp being out.

ARNOLD'S FUNERAL

The Victim of the East End Accident
Laid to Rest
Today.

The funeral services of Albert Arnold, of the East End, who was drowned
on Sunday, occurred this morning at 9 o'clock from St. Aloysius' church.
High mass was said and Father Smyth
delivered the sermon.

Killed By C. & P. Train.

Toronto, January 22.—Westbound
passenger train No. 309, on the C. &
P. railroad, leaving here at 12:42 p.
m., struck and instantly killed an unknown man near Mingo yesterday
afternoon. The man was poorly dressed, and is thought to have been a tramp. The body was horribly mangled.

Better Is Indicted.

Canton, January 22.—William Better, formerly a clothing merchant at Minerva, but now of Cleveland, was indicted for obtaining the signature
of Wm. J. Adams, better known as "McKinley's farmer," to a note for
$2,500 by false pretense.

Special Meeting Tonight.

A special meeting of the committee
who have charge of the arrangements of the ladies' social to be given in the Elks' home on the evening
of February 4 will be held this evening.

Mystic Circle Social—The Fraternal Mystic Circle will give a social and entertainment at G. A. R. hall tomorrow evening. An interesting program has been arranged and an elaborate supper will wind up the evening's entertainment. J. D.
Grimes, one of the supreme officers
of the lodge, will be present.

Miss Mazie O. McCoy. Mr. Kilmer is
employed as decorator at the Severs
china works, while the bride has a host of friends in the city who will
wish them well.

pany Will Soon Give Attention to the Needs
of That Prosperous Part of the City.

It has been definitely announced
that a freight and passenger station,
to cost not less than $6,000 will be
built in the East End the coming
spring or summer by the C. & P.
Railroad company. In fact, the matter has progressed so far, that at the
next meeting of council plans for the
new building will probably be presented for the consideration of that
body.

When W. D. Wood, engineer of
maintenance of way, and other officials of the Pennsylvania company,
were in the city last week conferring
with councilmen, the idea of the railroad company building a large brick
station on property in the East End
opposite the National pottery, was presented. It was suggested by the official that a building similar to the
new station recently opened at Leets-
dale, Pa., be built in the East End.
This station is of brick and is considered to be one of the best on the Western division of the Pennsylvania
lines. A councilman advised Mr. Wood
that such a station would likely be
acceptable to council and information
was given immediately that the matter would be brought before the directors of the C. & P. road at Cleveland at a meeting which was to be
held a few days after the visit of

the railroad officials to this city.
Mr. Wood, it is said, favors such a station for the East End, and it is
intimated that his opinion has much
weight with higher officials. If built
the new building will be divided into
a freight and passenger department,
one being separated from the other by
a siding.

Under the present method manufacturing potters owning plants in the East End load their ware into cars,
and for the transferring of these cars
to the main freight station on Walnut street, a fee of $2.50 is charged
by the railroad company. It is
loses between $5 and $6 a car, as it
frequently occurs that casks are
central station, from which they are
taken to the wharf to be shipped for
the accommodation of the manufacturers. By having a distributing point
in the East End, it can be readily
seen that much money would be saved
by the railroad, and shipments would
be dispatched quicker than at present.

Surveyors have recently been running lines between Mulberry street
and Virginia avenue, along the main
line, and it is understood that an additional siding will be built, leading
to the site of the new station.

COSTS ON THREE COUNTS.

Give Bond—A Curious
Mistake.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Common pleas court convened at 1
p. m. today. Attention was given for
the first hour to liquor cases.

Joseph Vondran, of East Liverpool,
was fined $20 and costs on each of
three counts for Sunday selling.

"Toughy" Walters, East Liverpool,
pleaded not guilty and renewed his
bond. There are about six counts
against him.

Harry Epley and "Kid" O'Handlon, East Liverpool, pleaded not guilty and
furnished bond.

Martin Walsh, Lisbon, indicted on
six counts, pleaded not guilty.

in the case of Gus McDermitt, East
Liverpool. A German named August
Schuffeldt answered when the name of McDermitt was called and explained that the sheriff had insisted that he come over, and he did so, although
his name was not McDermitt. He was
not employed as a bartender at the
time charged in the indictment.

Wallace Shisler, New Waterford,
who has been in jail several days,
pleaded not guilty to the charge of
furnishing liquor to others. Shisler
looks to be about 17. He admits that
he bought liquor which he gave to
all three of them "chipped in" to buy
the liquor.

The trial of those who have pleaded
not guilty will be set by the court,
perhaps for the latter part of next

of K. of C. and C. M. B. A. Will Be Held Tomorrow
Evening.

Officers recently elected by the Knights of Columbus will be installed
at their meeting Thursday evening by District Deputy Thomas J. Duffy. In
the Carroll club rooms on the same
evening new officers will also be in-
C. M. B. A. by Mr. Hogan, of Pittsburg.

After the completion of both installations a banquet will be given in Knights of Columbus hall by both orders. Addressees will be made at the banquet by officers of both organizations.

Sued on a $43 Board Bill.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
George Zimmerman, a Lisbon restaurant keeper, was awarded a judgment
for $43 against Robert Nace in Squire
Dickinson's court yesterday. The suit
was on a board bill.

SIGHT AND LIFE.

He Was Injured on Monday And the Infirmary Directors Are Attending to His Case.

It has been found that Thomas
White, who was injured on Little Yellow Creek Monday by the blowing out
of a staybolt from a boiler, was more
seriously hurt than was at first
supposed. White is 54 years old and single. He has boarded at the residence of Hiram Kountz, between East
Liverpool and Wellsville, and is there
at present.

The township trustees of East Liverpool were applied to for aid and
this morning turned the case over to
the directors of the infirmary. Medical attention and a nurse have been
cover.

His hands were frightfully scalded
physician that White may lose his
eyesight completely.

The injured man had gone to one
of the wells of the Lawson Oil and
passing the boiler he arrived just in time to be hurt. There was a terrible burst in his face of steam and scald-ing water. He was at first taken to Wellsville for treatment.

The man is a stone quarryman by
occupation, but has been employed as
a laborer during the last several weeks by different men about Wellsville and East Liverpool. He was not in the employ of the Lawson Oil and Gas company.

A Salem Lady Who Was Injured Demands $2,000 From the City.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Miss Sadie J. Probert, of Salem, has
entered suit against that city for $2, 000. Her petition says that on April
9, 1901, she fell through a board cov-
was broken and she was seriously
bruised and shocked.

Since the accident her sufferings
have not permitted her to perform
her ordinary duties and her nervous

PLEASANT CARD PARTY

of Miss Martha
Porter.

One of the prettiest card parties
which has been given among the
younger set this season occurred yesterday afternoon when Miss Martha Porter entertained in honor of her
visiting friend, Miss Mame Scott, of Cambridge. Cards were the amusement, in which probably 40 ladies

took part.

The tally cards merited much comment, each being ornamented by a
fancy head in water color, the work
of Miss Nell Porter, a sister of the hostess.

The game ended, a very dainty
lunch was served, at which Miss Porter was assisted by Mrs. Charles Good-
win, Mrs. Will Reed, Mrs. John Good-
win, Miss Minnie Milligan and Miss
Nell Porter. The enviable reputation
of Miss Porter as a hostess was ver-
ified and the hospitality of the Porter
home was greatly enjoyed by all present.

EAST PALESTINE MAN LOOKING
FOR LOST HORSE.

With It Went a Top Buggy, an East Palestine Man And a Woman.

L. D. Overlander, of East Palestine,
is offering a reward for the return
of a horse and buggy hired at his stable on Friday, January 17. It was hired by Charles W. Eckerson, of East Palestine, and he was to return
man nor the horse has since been
heard from.

Eckerson is about 25, light com-
plexioned and smooth faced and
weighs about 140. He was accompanied by a fair complexioned woman
of about 20, rather stoutly built, who
is supposed to have been the wife of a man living east of East Palestine. The
900 pounds, blind in the left eye, and
the vehicle a top buggy with maroon
running gear.

JOHN SHORT'S CASE

Many Witnesses on Hand.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
The case of Ohio versus John Shorts,
East Liverpool, indicted for assault on
a little girl, began this afternoon and
will probably last till some time tomorrow.
About 20 witnesses are to be heard.

Prohibition Alliance Branch.

A branch of the Prohibition Alliance has been formed in this city, its
purpose is to do missionary work in
the interest of the party. The fol-
President, J. C. McClain; vice president, W. E. Mercer; secretary, W. V.
Harris; treasurer, W. A. Weaver;
marshal, Jere McMillan; chaplain,
Rev. S. C. George. Meetings will be on the first and third Fridays of
each month.

Union Barber Cards.

"Union" shop cards have been distributed to all union barbers. This
was done late yesterday forenoon by
appointed to do this work at a meeting held Monday evening. The cards
are not very large, measuring but 6x8 inches, and are inclosed in a neat
gold frame. The individual cards will be distributed soon.

Dismissed at Plaintiff's Cost.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
The case of John W. Post against
Edwin M. Hukill and R. J. Wallace
has been dismissed at plaintiff's cost.
Post leased land from the plaintiff in Knox township for coal and oil privileges and agreed to assist in the payment of certain rentals, but the defendants failed to pay their share of
the rentals.

Archer's Committee.

In the state senate Senator Archer
is chairman of the committee on rules,
chairman of committee on finance and
works and public laws, federal relations, fish and game, industrial schools,
mines and mining, municipal corporations No. 1, penitentiary, railroads
and telegraph, taxation and schools
for imbeciles.

A Party for Little Folks.

Mrs. David Wallace, of Thompson
Hill, entertained yesterday in honor
of the birthday of her little daughter,
Doris. The hours were from 2 to 5.
About 22 little folks were present
and helped to make memorable the
third birthday of their tiny hostess.

Lectured on Russia.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, of New York city, lectured here last evening
on "Russia," under the auspices of the
young people's societies of local churches. There was a large audience.

USED HIS CLUB ON A PRISONER

Officer Salsberry Had an Encounter With a Treacherous
Colored Man.

And While the Policeman Was Mo-
mentarily Off His Guard the Cul-
Jailed With Difficulty.

Policeman Frank Salsberry had a
rough encounter last night with W.
H. Woods, a local colored man, whom
he undertook to arrest. The prisoner
was intoxicated and looking for trouble when the officer came upon him
and a fight ensued.

Previous to the man's arrest other
officers warned him to go home, but
he refused and continued to make
trouble in the vicinity of the Turner
hall until Salsberry was compelled to interfere.

When the officer took hold of Woods
he began to beg off, promising to go
home, and while thus expostulating,
which caused Salsberry to anticipate
no fear of an attack, the prisoner
made a vicious pass at him and a
clinch resulted.

Though taken at a disadvantage the
policeman fought off his antagonist
until he finally got hold of his club,
which he then wielded with telling
effect. Woods was soon subdued,
after which he was taken to jail in
the patrol. This morning he was fined $9.00 and is yet behind the bars.

The police say he is a treacherous
and desperate character and experience has warned them not to take
any chances with him in case of trouble.

MORE LIGHT WANTED

the Streets Are Unsafe.

Complaint has been made by residents of Pleasant Heights about the manner in which that section of the city is lighted during the night. Yesterday morning the street lamps along Lisbon road stopped burning about 5
o'clock.

Joseph Harmon, employed in the
sagger shop of the D. E. McNicol pottery, while coming to work yesterday
morning accidentally stumbled over
a large stone in the roadway, causing him to fall heavily on the ground
and injuring his head. This stone
was within a few feet of a pole from
which is suspended an arc lamp, but
could not be seen on account of the
darkness, the lamp being out.

Laid to Rest
Today.

The funeral services of Albert Arn-
old, of the East End, who was drowned
on Sunday, occurred this morning at 9 o'clock from St. Aloysius' church.
High mass was said and Father Smyth
delivered the sermon.

Killed By C. & P. Train.

Toronto, January 22.—Westbound
passenger train No. 309, on the C. &
P. railroad, leaving here at 12:42 p.
m., struck and instantly killed an unknown man near Mingo yesterday
afternoon. The man was poorly
dressed, and is thought to have been a tramp. The body was horribly mangled.

Better Is Indicted.

Canton, January 22.—William Better, formerly a clothing merchant at Minerva, but now of Cleveland, was
indicted for obtaining the signature
of Wm. J. Adams, better known as
$2,500 by false pretense.

Special Meeting Tonight.

A special meeting of the committee who have charge of the arrangements of the ladies' social to be given
in the Elks' home on the evening
of February 4 will be held this evening.

Mystic Circle Social—The Fraternal Mystic Circle will give a social
and entertainment at G. A. R. hall
tomorrow evening. An interesting program has been arranged and an elaborate supper will wind up the
evening's entertainment. J. D.
Grimes, one of the supreme officers
of the lodge, will be present.

EAST END

REV. HUGH A. COOPER

A Former East End Pastor, Goes to a Large Church in Iowa.

The following is taken from the Paola (Kan.) Western Spirit of the date of January 17: "Rev. Hugh A. Cooper, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of this city, surprised the members by tendering his resignation to take effect on February 1, 1902. He goes to Centerville, Ia., a city of 7,000, on the Rock Island railroad, about 180 miles northeast of Kansas City—a larger field on a higher salary.

"Mr. Cooper has been here over eight years and leaves the church the strongest financially and in membership it has ever been. While the elders reluctantly join in his request of the presbytery to accept his resignation, the whole church membership regret his going. Rev. and Mrs. Cooper, and their two promising boys, Lester and Hugh, will move to Centerville the first week of next month."

The reverend gentleman began his pastorate in this city in 1890. He held the charges of the West End and the East End churches, but, after three years moved to Paola, Kan.

DOLLS' RECEPTION

Entertainment to Be Given By Junior League of Erie Street M. E. Church.

The Junior League of the Erie street M. E. church will give a dolls' reception at the home of Mrs. Sarah Dawson, of St. George street, beginning tomorrow afternoon and continuing all week.

Tomorrow will be known as "American day," when the children will have the dolls dressed in American styles. Friday will be "oriental day," when the dolls' costumes will be fashioned after those of the Chinese, Japanese and others of the oriental countries. Saturday will bear no particular description.

Japanese lanterns will illuminate the premises about Mrs. Dawson's home and every possible effort put forth to make the event a success.

ROOF OF A BARN FELL

Crushing a Cow Beneath It—The Heavy Snow Fall an Inconvenience.

The weight of the snow on the roof of a log barn on William Ellsworth's farm, northeast of Helena, caused the barn to collapse this morning. A heavy timber broke the back of the cow which was killed. Although the barn contained several more head of live stock they were uninjured.

The fall of snow caused a practical suspension of out-of-door labor on newly started building improvements.

The operation of street cars was interfered with in the early hours, but they soon got to running and no serious accidents are reported.

Presented at the Entertainment Given at the Second Presbyterian Church.

The Second Presbyterian church was filled last evening and the musical and literary entertainment was of a high order. Several recitations and readings were given by Miss Florence Sweeney, of Amsterdam, O. She is a fine elocutionist and impersonator. At the conclusion she gave a pathetic recital on the late President McKinley that was rapturously enjoyed.

Selections by Miss Edith Caylor and Edward McCombs, of New Brighton, Pa., and other numbers were felicitous. The entertainment was a financial success.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

An illustrated lecture will be given Friday evening at the Second U. P. church.

Philip Cross, residing with his parents on First avenue, who has been ill for the past two weeks with pneumonia, is recovering.

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Reed, of Erie street, who has been ill with typhoid fever for several weeks, is improving.

Miss Lizzie Smith, of Service, Pa., who is seriously ill with pneumonia

at the residence of Lincoln Morley, was slightly improved this morning. Miss Florence Sweeney, of Amsterdam, O., is a guest of Mrs. W. E. Baird on Mulberry street. She will be entertained with a luncheon by the Misses Carman this evening.

Frank Searight, of the East End, who has been employed on the Denver Post for several months, left Denver yesterday for Los Angeles, which place he expects to make his future home.

Rev. John Hanley, of the East End, who has been preaching at the U. P. church at Canton for several weeks, is expected to return to his home on Pennsylvania avenue within a few weeks.

FELL FROM A TIPPLE

Toronto Man Fatally Injured at the Miner Fire Brick Plant.

Toronto, January 22.—Clifford Baker fell from a 40-foot tippie at the Miner fire brick works and received injuries that will prove fatal.

PENNSYLVANIA TREASURER.

Col. Barnett Has Retired and Harris Takes His Place.

Harrisburg, Jan. 22.—Frank S. Harris was formally declared elected state treasurer here, when the commission chosen at the last session of the legislature computed the returns of the fall election.

The commission was composed of Governor Stone, Judge Simonon, Senators Scott, Emory, Higgins and Mertz, Speaker Marshall and Representatives Thompson, Leard, Graybill, Palm, Reiff and Castner.

The vote for judge of the supreme court was not computed, Judge Potter's election having been certified by the state department.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

Mt. Olive, Ark., May 17, 1901. Messrs. Ely Bros.—Please send me one bottle of Cream Balm, family size. I think it the best medicine for catarrh in the world. Very respectfully, J. M. SCHOLTZ.

AN UNEQUALLED RECORD

There Is a Rapidly Increasing Volume of East Liverpool Evidence Rolling Up For the Great Medicine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

It would seem that hardly anyone can take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills without receiving marked benefit. The wonderful action of this medicine in putting people on their feet who are in a weak run down condition is the talk of every place they are known. It is only a short time since they first came to East Liverpool, but today they are more in evidence for merit with East Liverpool people than all other medicines combined.

Mr. B. L. Updegraff, of 269 Fifth street, East Liverpool, Ohio, says: "As a general and nerve tonic I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, East Liverpool, Ohio. I was at the time feeling run down and nervous, not up to the mark in health, and needed a tonic. The medicine did its work nicely, and I regained tone, strength and energy again."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

EAST END

REV. HUGH A. COOPER

A Former East End Pastor, Goes to a Large Church in Iowa.

The following is taken from the Paola (Kan.) Western Spirit of the date of January 17: "Rev. Hugh A. Cooper, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of this city, surprised the members by tendering his resignation to take effect on February 1, 1902. He goes to Centerville, Ia., a city of 7,000, on the Rock Island railroad, about 180 miles northeast of Kansas City—a larger field on a higher salary.

"Mr. Cooper has been here over eight years and leaves the church the strongest financially and in membership it has ever been. While the elders reluctantly join in his request of the presbytery to accept his resignation, the whole church membership regret his going. Rev. and Mrs. Cooper, and their two promising boys, Lester and Hugh, will move to Centerville the first week of next month."

The reverend gentleman began his pastorate in this city in 1890. He held the charges of the West End and the East End churches, but, after three years moved to Paola, Kan.

DOLLS' RECEPTION

Entertainment to Be Given By Junior League of Erie Street M. E. Church.

The Junior League of the Erie street M. E. church will give a dolls' reception at the home of Mrs. Sarah Dawson, of St. George street, beginning tomorrow afternoon and continuing all week.

Tomorrow will be known as "American day," when the children will have the dolls dressed in American styles. Friday will be "oriental day," when the dolls' costumes will be fashioned after those of the Chinese, Japanese and others of the oriental countries. Saturday will bear no particular description.

Japanese lanterns will illuminate the premises about Mrs. Dawson's home and every possible effort put forth to make the event a success.

ROOF OF A BARN FELL

Crushing a Cow Beneath It—The Heavy Snow Fall an Inconvenience.

The weight of the snow on the roof of a log barn on William Ellsworth's farm, northeast of Helena, caused the barn to collapse this morning. A heavy timber broke the back of the cow which was killed. Although the barn contained several more head of live stock they were uninjured.

The fall of snow caused a practical suspension of out-of-door labor on newly started building improvements.

The operation of street cars was interfered with in the early hours, but they soon got to running and no serious accidents are reported.

Presented at the Entertainment Given at the Second Presbyterian Church.

The Second Presbyterian church was filled last evening and the musical and literary entertainment was of a high order. Several recitations and readings were given by Miss Florence Sweeney, of Amsterdam, O. She is a fine elocutionist and impersonator. At the conclusion she gave a pathetic recital on the late President McKinley that was rapturously enjoyed.

Selections by Miss Edith Caylor and Edward McCombs, of New Brighton, Pa., and other numbers were felicitous. The entertainment was a financial success.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

An illustrated lecture will be given Friday evening at the Second U. P. church.

Philip Cross, residing with his parents on First avenue, who has been ill for the past two weeks with pneumonia, is recovering.

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Reed, of Erie street, who has been ill with typhoid fever for several weeks, is improving.

at the residence of Lincoln Morley, was slightly improved this morning. Miss Florence Sweeney, of Amsterdam, O., is a guest of Mrs. W. E. Baird on Mulberry street. She will be entertained with a luncheon by the Misses Carman this evening.

Frank Searight, of the East End, who has been employed on the Denver Post for several months, left Denver yesterday for Los Angeles, which place he expects to make his future home.

Rev. John Hanley, of the East End, who has been preaching at the U. P. church at Canton for several weeks, is expected to return to his home on Pennsylvania avenue within a few weeks.

Toronto, January 22.—Clifford Baker fell from a 40-foot tippie at the Miner fire brick works and received injuries that will prove fatal.

Col. Barnett Has Retired and Harris Takes His Place.

The commission was composed of Governor Stone, Judge Simonton, Senators Scott, Emory, Higgins and Mertz, Speaker Marshall and Representatives Thompson, Leard, Graybill, Palm, Reiff and Castner.

The vote for judge of the supreme court was not computed, Judge Potter's election having been certified by the state department.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

Mt. Olive, Ark., May 17, 1901. Messrs. Ely Bros.—Please send me one bottle of Cream Balm, family size. I think it the best medicine for catarrh in the world. Very respectfully, J. M. SCHOLTZ.

AN UNEQUALLED RECORD

There is a Rapidly Increasing Volume of East Liverpool Evidence Rolling Up For the Great Medicine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

It would seem that hardly anyone can take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills without receiving marked benefit. The wonderful action of this medicine in putting people on their feet who are in a weak run down condition is the talk of every place they are known. It is only a short time since they first came to East Liverpool, but today they are more in evidence for merit with East Liverpool people than all other medicines combined.

Mr. B. L. Updegraff, of 269 Fifth street, East Liverpool, Ohio, says: "As a general and nerve tonic I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, East Liverpool, Ohio. I was at the time feeling run down and nervous, not up to the mark in health, and needed a tonic. The medicine did its work nicely, and I regained tone, strength and energy again."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

OFFICIALS ACCUSED.

Miners' Officers Charged With Shielding Pearce Who Was Short In Accounts.

INVESTIGATION WAS ORDERED.

Committee Appointed For the Purpose—Accused Woman Who Discovered of the Former Secretary.

Indianapolis, Jan. 22.—Charges against President Mitchell, Secretary Wilson and the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, were the first order of business before the convention yesterday afternoon, and the unexpected announcement that the charges would be taken up caused a flurry of excitement in the convention. President Mitchell, in addressing the convention, said:

"The election of officers was to have been the first thing on the program today, but I have to say with deep feeling and regret that charges have been made by Miss Millie Meredith, an ex-employee of the national office, affecting myself as president of the national body, against your national secretary, Mr. Wilson, and also against the national executive board.

Wanted an Investigation.

"The time has come for the election of national officers. I am unwilling to have this proceed until these charges have been heard. I therefore ask the convention to hear these charges and I will ask Mr. William D. Van Horn, of Indiana, to take the chair while the charges are being heard."

When Mr. Van Horn took the chair Delegate Love, of Iowa, moved that the convention go in closed session and that all newspaper representatives be excluded while these charges were heard.

Delegate McKay, of Pennsylvania, opposed the motion.

Delegate Nichols, of District No. 9, in the anthracite region, said that some delegates seemed too anxious to have the charges aired. He thought those making the charges ought to ask permission to appear and make them. A committee was appointed to escort Miss Meredith to the convention hall to explain her charges.

Miss Meredith insisted on reading the charges herself, despite the fact that those in the rear of the hall were unable to hear her. The statement concerned the alleged defalcation of ex-Secretary-Treasurer Pearce, and alleged that President Mitchell and Secretary-Treasurer Wilson did not give out all the facts concerning Pearce's actions and that they "willfully lied" to the miners' committee a year ago. She demanded an investigation of the books to see how much Pearce's alleged defalcation really was. Miss Meredith intimated that both Mitchell and Wilson sought to protect Pearce and for that reason did not give out all the facts, and charged that Pearce frequently presented bills for double the amount of purchases. She also said that Pearce's "extra money" amounted to $2,000 a year, while Mitchell and Wilson reported that he had taken only $150.

Miss Meredith declared that Mitchell allowed Pearce to go away as a "sick man," and send in his resignation from French Lick Springs.

At the conclusion of Miss Meredith's statement Secretary-Treasurer Wilson arose and spoke at length. He denied the truth of the statement, and said it was the outgrowth of spite. Miss Meredith, he said, was recently let out as an assistant secretary. She is the young woman to whom a gold medal was presented for discovering the Pearce shortage.

Mitchell Made a Denial.

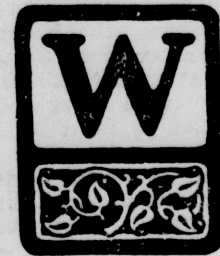

Later on Mr. Mitchell addressed the delegates, denying the stories contained in Miss Meredith's statement. His remarks were frequently interrupted by applause.

President Mitchell made affidavit that the statement he made to the miners' convention a year ago was the truth, and the whole truth. He submitted the affidavit to the convention.

Following the conclusion of President Mitchell's statement there was a protracted discussion, many delegates being desirous of being heard at the same time. A resolution was

Uncle Sam's Money

By Secretary of the Treasury LESLIE M. SHAW

WE HAVE A VOLUME OF COINED SILVER NOW IN THE VAULTS OF THE UNITED STATES SUFFICIENT TO FILL A CORNCRIB 8 FEET WIDE, 10 FEET HIGH AND 1,250 FEET LONG. THIS VOLUME COMMERCE REFUSES TO ABSORB.

In lieu thereof the government issues a warehouse receipt commonly called a silver certificate—stamps upon a piece of paper the statement that there have been deposited with the United States treasurer twenty silver dollars, to be paid to the bearer on the surrender of the receipt. But there is no provision for the exchangeability of either the silver or the certificate at par with gold.

Under present conditions there is no danger in this. The balance of trade is in our favor. We sell abroad $500,000,000 per annum more than we buy abroad, and this requires the importation of $500,000,000 of gold per annum or the purchase or redemption of $500,000,000 of outstanding national, municipal or personal obligations or the investment of that much money in foreign securities.

But these conditions may not last forever, and as soon as we begin to export gold in any large amounts the timid will begin to cast about for a place of safety. Knowing that this great volume of silver is not exchangeable or redeemable in gold, this timid fellow may deem it wise to hoard a little gold against a possible danger, and the next timid fellow will be induced to hoard also.

Please do not understand me as saying that silver certificates should be redeemable in gold; nor do I say that the national bank notes should be redeemable in gold. I am speaking theoretically and not advocating any specific measure. It might be safe to make national bank notes legal tender and redeemable in silver certificates and the silver certificates redeemable in silver if silver were redeemable in gold.

All I contend for is that every note signed by a solvent debtor, every draft on a solvent merchant, every deposit with a solvent bank, every piece of paper that circulates as money and every coin shall ultimately be payable, redeemable or exchangeable in the standard coin of this country. In no other way can it be protected from discount.

offered during the confusion expressing confidence in President Mitchell and the other accused officials and condemnation for Miss Meredith, but it was voted down, and National Organizer Evans submitted a substitute resolution calling for the appointment of a committee of seven to investigate all charges and report to the convention. This was adopted. President Van Horn appointed the following committee: J. H. Kennedy and Samuel Lynch, of Indiana, districts No. 8 and No. 11; W. D. Ryan, of district No. 12, Illinois; T. D. Nichols, district No. 1, Pennsylvania; J. D. Wood, district No. 23, Kentucky; W. H. Haskins, district No. 6, Ohio; Richard Gilbert, district No. 2, Pennsylvania.

Chairman Kennedy will call the committee together at once and the work of investigation will begin.

LAUTARO ALMOST HELPLESS.

Had No Steam Up When Attacked. Gunner First Man Killed In Battle.

Panama, Colombia, Jan. 22.—An exchange of prisoners was responsible for Monday's disaster to the government. From the former the revolutionists heard of the plans of the government. The Lautaro's circulating pump was out of order and she had no steam up when she was attacked by the Padilla.

The Padilla, which was recently painted white so as to deceive the government officers as to her identity, advanced unrecognized to a spot about 300 metres from the Lautaro. She then began firing at the Lautaro. The position of the latter prevented her from using her two big guns mounted forward, but she returned the Padilla's fire with her small after guns. Her gunner, however, was the first man killed. The foreign crew of the Lautaro refused to obey orders.

General Alban, who displayed daring courage, was shot on the steamer's deck.

General Garcia, a veteran officer, has been appointed military commander of the district in succession of General Alban. Senor Arjona is the civil governor.

It is believed that the revolutionary warships were damaged.

The capture of Panama by the revolutionists is considered impossible, owing to the number of government troops there.

New York, Jan. 22.—The Colombian consul, Mr. Bugard, received the following dispatch yesterday from Panama, dated Jan. 20:

"General Alban attacked the rebel fleet today and perished on board steamship Lautaro. Have turned over command and am prepared to defend city with 1,000 men."

The dispatch was signed by Arjona, who was General Alban's secretary.

Panama, Colombia, Jan. 22.—General Herrera, the revolutionary leader, informed Captain Mead, of the United States cruiser Philadelphia, that he came here to prevent the Colombian government using the steamer Lautaro against the Liberals. He had accomplished this, and therefore retired.

The revolutionists had 17 wounded in Monday's engagement. The number killed cannot be precisely ascertained.

Of the government forces five men were killed and four wounded.

NO RELEASE FOR BERKMANN.

Pennsylvania Superior Court Decides That He Is Not Entitled to Special Clemency.

Scranton, Jan. 22.—The superior court decided that Alexander Berkman, who attempted to assassinate H. C. Frick in 1892, must serve his full term of 21 years, less the usual allowance for good behavior.

Berkman's attorney recently asked for his release, claiming the benefit of the new commutation law passed by the last legislature.

Berkman was convicted on six indictments and was sentenced to a term of imprisonment on each. In the petition presented to the superior court Berkman claimed that three of the indictments charged no offense against the state laws and that he had served the time imposed for the other indictments, less the time taken off by the new law.

Fitzsimmons Injured by Fall.

New York, Jan. 22.—Robert Fitzsimmons, the ex-champion heavyweight pugilist, fell down a flight of stairs in the Orpheum theater, in Brooklyn, yesterday. It was believed that he seriously injured himself. He complained of very severe pains in his back and side and it was feared his spine had been hurt.

TAX CORPORATIONS.

A Bill Introduced In Ohio Legislature--Endorsed by Nash.

ANOTHER TAX LAW OFFERED.

It Also Has the Endorsement of the Governor--The Two Measures, If Enacted, Expected to Yield Not Less Than $1,600,000 In Revenues.

Columbus, Jan. 22.—Two important tax bills endorsed by Governor Nash were introduced in the legislature. One provides for an annual tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent upon the authorized capital stock of all Ohio corporations and upon the proportion of capital stock of foreign corporations represented by property or business in Ohio. All companies paying excise taxes are exempted.

The other law increases the excise tax from 1/2 to 1 per cent upon the gross receipts of electric light, gas, pipe line, railroad, electric railway, express, telegraph, telephone and messenger and signal companies. It is estimated that the two bills, if enacted into laws, will yield not less than $1,600,000 in revenues.

One of Georgia's Useful Educators is Grateful For What Pe-ru-na is Doing For Suffering Humanity.

F. A. Curtright, A. B., Principal of the Georgia Normal and Industrial Institute, and editor and proprietor of the "Georgia Helping Hand" writes the following glowing words concerning Peruna, and its efficacy in the cure of catarrh.

He says: "I was induced to try Peruna by the advice of a friend, and certainly believe that suffering humanity would be relieved if they only gave Peruna a fair trial. Would that I could frame words sufficient to express my gratitude for the benefits derived from its use."—F. A. CURTRIGHT, Greensboro, Ga.

Hon. W. N. Roach, United States Senator from North Dakota, in a letter written from Larimore, North Dakota, says:

"Persuaded by a friend, I have used Peruna as a tonic, and am glad to testify that it has greatly helped me in strength, vigor and appetite. I have been advised by friends that it is remarkably efficacious as a cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—W. N. Roach.

Senator Roach's wife recommends Peruna also. She says: "I can cheerfully recommend your excellent remedy, Peruna. Indeed, I know of no other remedy as good as yours. It is a grand tonic, and many of my friends have used it for catarrh with good results."—Mrs. W. N. Roach.

The most common phases of summer catarrh are catarrh of the stomach and bowels. Peruna is a specific for summer catarrh.

Mr. Wm. Hebley, Duquesne, Pa., writes:—"I am cured of catarrh of the stomach of two years standing. I had it so bad that I could not eat anything but milk. I doctored with several doctors and they could give me relief for a short time only. I saw Peruna recommended and thought I would try it, and I now think I am cured of catarrh. I have worked two months and did not lose a day."—Wm. Hebley.

Mr. Moses F. Merrill, Columbus, Cherokee Co., Kansas, Rural Route No. 3, writes:

"I had been troubled with systemic catarrh, which affected the lower bowels especially. I was troubled with running off of the bowels and troublesome catarrh of the bronchial tubes which caused spitting of thick mucus. Since taking Peruna my improvement has been wonderful. My bowels are regular as clock-work. I can now eat like other people and my vitals digest."—Moses F. Merrill.

OFFICIALS ACCUSED.

INVESTIGATION WAS ORDERED.

Indianapolis, Jan. 22.—Charges against President Mitchell, Secretary Wilson and the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, were the first order of business before the convention yesterday afternoon, and the unexpected announcement that the charges would be taken up caused a flurry of excitement in the convention. President Mitchell, in addressing the convention, said:

"The election of officers was to have been the first thing on the program today, but I have to say with deep feeling and regret that charges have been made by Miss Millie Meredith, an ex-employee of the national office, affecting myself as president of the national body, against your national secretary, Mr. Wilson, and also against the national executive board.

Wanted an Investigation.

"The time has come for the election of national officers. I am unwilling to have this proceed until these charges have been heard. I therefore ask the convention to hear these charges and I will ask Mr. William D. Van Horn, of Indiana, to take the chair while the charges are being heard."

When Mr. Van Horn took the chair Delegate Love, of Iowa, moved that the convention go in closed session and that all newspaper representatives be excluded while these charges were heard.

Delegate McKay, of Pennsylvania, opposed the motion.

Delegate Nichols, of District No. 9, in the anthracite region, said that some delegates seemed too anxious to have the charges aired. He thought those making the charges ought to ask permission to appear and make them. A committee was appointed to escort Miss Meredith to the convention hall to explain her charges.

Miss Meredith insisted on reading the charges herself, despite the fact that those in the rear of the hall were unable to hear her. The statement concerned the alleged defalcation of ex-Secretary-Treasurer Pearce, and alleged that President Mitchell and Secretary-Treasurer Wilson did not give out all the facts concerning Pearce's actions and that they "willfully lied" to the miners' committee a year ago.

She demanded an investigation of the books to see how much Pearce's alleged defalcation really was. Miss Meredith intimated that both Mitchell and Wilson sought to protect Pearce and for that reason did not give out all the facts, and charged that Pearce frequently presented bills for double the amount of purchases. She also said that Pearce's "extra money" amounted to $2,000 a year, while Mitchell and Wilson reported that he had taken only $150.

Miss Meredith declared that Mitchell allowed Pearce to go away as a "sick man," and send in his resignation from French Lick Springs.

At the conclusion of Miss Meredith's statement Secretary-Treasurer Wilson arose and spoke at length. He denied the truth of the statement, and said it was the outgrowth of spite. Miss Meredith, he said, was recently let out as an assistant secretary. She is the young woman to whom a gold medal was presented for discovering the Pearce shortage.

Mitchell Made a Denial.

Later on Mr. Mitchell addressed the delegates, denying the stories contained in Miss Meredith's statement. His remarks were frequently interrupted by applause.

President Mitchell made affidavit that the statement he made to the miners' convention a year ago was the truth, and the whole truth. He submitted the affidavit to the convention.

Following the conclusion of President Mitchell's statement there was a protracted discussion, many delegates being desirous of being heard at the same time. A resolution was

Uncle Sam's Money

By Secretary of the Treasury LESLIE M. SHAW

WE HAVE A VOLUME OF COINED SILVER NOW IN THE VAULTS OF THE UNITED STATES SUFFICIENT TO FILL A CORNCRIB 8 FEET WIDE, 10 FEET HIGH AND 1,250 FEET LONG. THIS VOLUME COMMERCE REFUSES TO ABSORB.

In lieu thereof the government issues a warehouse receipt commonly called a silver certificate—stamps upon a piece of paper the statement that there have been deposited with the United States treasurer twenty silver dollars, to be paid to the bearer on the surrender of the receipt. But there is no provision for the exchangeability of either the silver or the certificate at par with gold.

Under present conditions there is no danger in this. The balance of trade is in our favor. We sell abroad $500,000,000 per annum more than we buy abroad, and this requires the importation of $500,000,000 of gold per annum or the purchase or redemption of $500,000,000 of outstanding national, municipal or personal obligations or the investment of that much money in foreign securities.

But these conditions may not last forever, and as soon as we begin to export gold in any large amounts the timid will begin to cast about for a place of safety. Knowing that this great volume of silver is not exchangeable or redeemable in gold, this timid fellow may deem it wise to hoard a little gold against a possible danger, and the next timid fellow will be induced to hoard also.

Please do not understand me as saying that silver certificates should be redeemable in gold; nor do I say that the national bank notes should be redeemable in gold. I am speaking theoretically and not advocating any specific measure. It might be safe to make national bank notes legal tender and redeemable in silver certificates and the silver certificates redeemable in silver if silver were redeemable in gold.

All I contend for is that every note signed by a solvent debtor, every draft on a solvent merchant, every deposit with a solvent bank, every piece of paper that circulates as money and every coin shall ultimately be payable, redeemable or exchangeable in the standard coin of this country. In no other way can it be protected from discount.

offered during the confusion expressing confidence in President Mitchell and the other accused officials and condemnation for Miss Meredith, but it was voted down, and National Organizer Evans submitted a substitute resolution calling for the appointment of a committee of seven to investigate all charges and report to the convention. This was adopted. President Van Horn appointed the following committee: J. H. Kennedy and Samuel Lynch, of Indiana, districts No. 8 and No. 11; W. D. Ryan, of district No. 12, Illinois; T. D. Nichols, district No. 1, Pennsylvania; J. D. Wood, district No. 23, Kentucky; W. H. Haskins, district No. 6, Ohio; Richard Gilbert, district No. 2, Pennsylvania.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1902.

Governor Nash has called upon the people of Ohio to observe Wednesday, January 29, as McKinley day. The proclamation has been endorsed by the legislature, and the governor's example, in calling for the appropriate observance of the anniversary of the late president's birth, has been followed by the governors of other states and territories. It is proposed, as a special feature of the day, to make diligent effort to collect contributions for the national memorial to be erected at Canton. The Sunday preceding the 29th the churches of Ohio are requested to hold special memorial exercises and to give all who desire an opportunity to help to swell the monument fund. We trust that East Liverpool, which certainly has every reason to honor the name of McKinley and for gratitude and thanksgiving for his noble services and wise statesmanship, will see to it that both days are duly and fittingly observed. It has been decided that no concerted effort be made to raise money in the schools, but this does not mean that school children or other persons wishing to contribute to the memorial fund will be denied the privilege. Plans should be formulated at once for McKinley day, and East Liverpool should do her part nobly in response to the governor's suggestions.

Democrats in the house, according to a Washington dispatch, are discussing the advisability of opposing all the pending bills providing for the punishment of anarchists and persons who make an attempt upon the life of the president of the United States. This opposition is based on the broad ground that any such legislation would be a curtailment of states rights, and in violation of the constitutional guarantee of equal rights. Democrats in the house or elsewhere who oppose such universally desired legislation as is proposed will pursue a most effective method of plunging their party into deeper political disrepute than ever.

The commissioner of Indian affairs has ordered the Indians to cease putting paint on their face. He also wants them to have their hair cut. Congressman Curtis, of Kansas, who claims to understand Indians, does not believe the order will produce good results. Indians can be coaxed, but not driven. Mr. Curtis suggests every Indian should be given a showy uniform and told that he is a special policeman, charged with keeping good order in his neighborhood. This, he thinks, would settle the dress question and prevent disorder.

An alleged newspaper of this town said several days ago that the story of the walls of the new reservoir being cracked was a "reporter's dream." Now it reprints the information which the News Review gave its readers a week or two ago and calls it a "startling discovery." Sometimes that alleged newspaper, after ludicrous flip-flops, lights upon the truth, but it is usually one to seven days after it has ceased to be news.

The only duty we owe the Cubans is that of helping them to help themselves. Tariff concessions are necessary to fulfill this obligation. If the tariff duties are so heavy that Cuban industries cannot thrive there is small chance that the new Cuban government will thrive either.

Governor Nash demanded the resignation of the entire board of trustees of the Dayton hospital for the insane because he wanted trustees that could be trusted. The governor never hesitates to do his duty, however disagreeable it may be.

The Democracy of Ohio shows very little alacrity about accepting Tom Johnson's invitation to climb into his band wagon.

George Washington Cline.
The death of George Washington Cline, aged 28 years, 1 month and 21 days, occurred at his home on Trentvale street from pneumonia yesterday afternoon. He had been ill for several days and leaves a widow and several small children to mourn his death. The occupation of the deceased was that of a kilnman. Interment will be in the cemetery at Friendly, W. Va., and the remains will be shipped to that town tomorrow morning.

AT THE THEATER

"Are You a Mason?" the latest metropolitan comedy success, is an adaptation from the German of Laufs & Kratz, voted the most instantaneous comedy success of a decade. The future of the season, 100 nights at Wal-lacks', all summer at Power's theater, Chicago. Rich in humorous situations, a laugh in every line. "Are You a Mason?" is a series of high class comedy situations logically put together and artistically carried to a well conceived finale. Will be presented at the opera house January 27 by a strong company of farceurs and comedians.

"The Power Behind the Throne," in which Mildred Holland scored an emphatic success last year, will be retained by her the greater part of this season. The play is so dramatically strong and so gorgeously mounted and presented by an excellent company that a large house should greet Miss Holland at the Grand opera house on her return appearance here, Friday evening, January 24.

The successful play, "Lovers Lane," was the attraction at the stage hands' benefit last night. There was a good house. Some of the company were very clever in their roles, and the production was fairly satisfactory as a whole.

After some hesitation came an answer in the affirmative, "Y-y-yes." "Does not her singing please you?" "Well, no. Why does she howl?" declared one of the boys, with vexation. "So you wish to protest against her singing?" asked Lyeff Nikolaevitch in a serious tone. "Yes." "Then go out and say so or stand in the middle of the room and tell every one present. That would be rude, but upright and honest. But you have got together and are squealing like grasshoppers in a corner. I will not endure such protests."—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

A singer named Gordon once complained to Handel of the style of his accompaniments, which attracted the attention from the singer, saying that if he did not accompany him better he would jump upon the harpsichord and destroy it. "Very well," said Handel. "Tell me you will do that, and I will advertise it. More people will come to see you jump than to hear you sing."

How Needles Are Made.
Needles are all made by machinery. The piece of mechanism by which the needle is manufactured takes the rough steel wire, cuts it into proper lengths, files the point, flattens the head, pierces the eye, then sharpens the tiny instrument and gives it that polish familiar to the purchaser. There is also a machine by which needles are counted and placed in the papers in which they are sold, these being afterward folded by the same contrivance.

POTTERY NEWS

John Moses, for many years one of Trenton's foremost business men and very prominently connected with the pottery business of that city, died Monday night as the result of paralysis. Mr. Moses was more than 70 years of age. In 1863 he formed a partnership with the late Samuel K. Wilson and Isaac Weatherby, under the firm name of John Moses & Co. and purchased the Glasgow pottery. A few years later he acquired the interests of his partners in the pottery and has operated it ever since. At the time of his death he had been in the pottery business longer than any one in the city of Trenton, and was the first president of the United States Pottery association. He was most active and influential in procuring tariff legislation advantageous to the American potters, and for more than 20 years was the representative of the potters' association before the ways and means committee of congress. Mr. Moses was one of the organizers of the Trenton Flint and Spar company and its treasurer from the time of its organization.

The deal for the purchase of the American pottery at Toronto by the Union Pottery company, that was hanging fire for several months, has been declared off. Such was the announcement of an official of that company who was in the city yesterday. It is the intention of the Union company to greatly increase the capacity of their output, and if another factory cannot be purchased in this locality a new pottery will be built. The matter has been thoroughly considered by the officials and final decision has been reached.

Jiggermen's local No. 12 held an interesting meeting last evening in Brotherhood hall. The most important part of the meeting was the reconsideration of the new "bonus schedule" presented to the jiggermen of the Union Pottery company last week. This matter was discussed at the meeting last week, but no action taken. At the meeting last evening the schedule was rejected. Two candidates were obligated by the local last night.

It has been announced that work on the improvements to be made at the East End pottery will begin as soon as the weather opens. It is the intention of the company to build three new kilns, one glost and two biscuit, which will give the plant a six-kiln capacity. This change will cause quite an addition to be made in the number of employees in the factory.

"Ben" Harker, manager of the several plants of the Laughlin Pottery company, who has been confined to his home on Cook street for a week, was able to be out yesterday afternoon for the first time. He spent several hours at the office of No. 2 and it is said he will take a short trip for the benefit of his health.

William Calhoun, who has been employed at the Laughlin pottery for some time as a kilnman, has taken a position as bench boss on the glost end at the new pottery at Niles. Lot Haney, who was also employed as a kilnman at this pottery, has taken a position with Mr. Calhoun.

Everett Roe, of Third street, has taken a position as gilder at the Laughlin No. 2. He commenced work yesterday afternoon. He had been employed at the Sevres pottery in the same capacity since that plant was purchased from the Sebring brothers.

Lyman Earl, a kilnman at the Laughlin pottery No. 2, has secured a leave of absence for several days. He will enter the political arena, assisting one of the many candidates making the race for a county office.

J. M. Davis, a buyer from Oakland, Md., was in the city yesterday. He placed some large business with the K. T. & K. pottery and the National company. He will return to his home within a few days.

Clell Smith, the young son of W. C. Smith, of St. George street, a kilnman at Laughlin's No. 2, is ill with pneumonia. His condition was somewhat improved this morning.

William Chaney, employed in the warehouse of the National pottery, who has been off duty for several days on account of the death of his sister, returned to work yesterday.

During the holidays gas was placed in all three kilns at the East End pottery. In the past these kilns were fired with coal, and the change has made quite an improvement.

Albert Townley, an underglaze printer at Laughlin's No. 2, who has been absent from his bench since the holidays on account of illness, returned to work this week.

The East End pottery is having quite a run on its new toilet shapes recently placed on the market. They are the "Alaska" and "Dewey."

The Union pottery has orders booked for several carloads of ware. One car was shipped today and others will be shipped later in the week.

Frank Pittinger has taken a position as gilder at the National pottery. He commenced work yesterday afternoon.

The packers at the National pottery started to work on full time yesterday.

Caused an Emphatic Protest on the Part of Chester Merchants.

Business men of Chester were very indignant this morning owing to the invasion of five "pack peddlers" selling blankets and rugs. They say these peddlers in a few days can ruin the trade of the merchants for a year and they protested.

"Squire Johnston advised Marshal Allison to hunt them up and bring them before him and he would impose a fine upon them which would make them give Chester a wide berth hereafter. The marshal failed to find them.

FINED $5 AND COSTS

Result of "Babe" Rinehart's Alleged Attack Upon J. S. Pauley.

As a result of his assault upon J. S. Pauley yesterday morning, "Babe" Rinehart was fined $5 and costs by Squire Johnston.

Rinehart was before the squire upon another charge, that of crossing the bridge without paying sufficient toll, but the case was continued until next Tuesday. He was released upon furnishing a $200 bond, which was secured by Thomas Cunningham.

Coal Deal About to Be Closed.

The deal for the purchase of a large tract of coal land in Hancock county, which has been fostered by Aaron McDonald, of near Hookstown, for several months, will probably be closed not later than February 1. The papers will be delivered by Mr. McDonald at a meeting of the intended purchasers which will be held at Hookstown at that time.

Three Lots Sold.

Attorney Ingram, Henry Riley and James D. Johnston have purchased lots on Montana avenue, near Second street. The lots were owned by Ephraim Johnson and the purchasers may build dwellings. Mr. Johnson expects soon to record other sales.

CHESTER NOTES.

Miss Rebecca Finley is slowly recovering from a severe illness.

Mr. and Mrs. George Silverthorne are the proud parents of a girl baby, which arrived Monday evening.

Messrs. Charles A. Betz and Charles Froidevaux, of McKee's Rocks, will visit friends the latter part of the week.

A. B. Smith and wife went out to the Fairview oil fields this morning. Mr. Smith is a driller and is working in the Fairview territory.

WANT TO BE REPRESENTED BY DIVISION OFFICER.

Much Important Business Transacted at Their Meeting—New Candidates Initiated.

A meeting was held last night of Garfield camp, Sons of Veterans, and aside from considerable routine business two candidates were mustered into the order.

Arrangements were begun for the observance of Lincoln's memorial day and a committee appointed to make up a program, which will be submitted at the next meeting. Arrangements were also made for the division encampment, which will be held next May in Lancaster.

For some time it has been agitated by the members of the local order, which is one of the largest in the state, that an effort be made to get greater representation by the appointment of a division officer. It was decided to take measures to get a colonel for this city.

CRANBORNE TOLD THE TRUTH

Austrian Foreign Office Confirms His Statement—Germany Denies Hostile Attitude.

Vienna, Jan. 22.—Inquiries made by the Associated Press at the Austrian-Hungarian foreign office confirm the essential points of the statement made by Lord Cranborne, the British foreign under secretary in the house of commons, Monday. The dynastic relations of Austria with Spain, the queen regent being an archduchess of Austria, led Austria before the declaration of war between Spain and the United States to begin a peace propaganda, which was carried on not only in England, but throughout Europe. France was ready to second the efforts of Austria. Germany and Russia maintained a passive attitude. Great Britain was at first disposed to sign the proposed note, but after a confidential report from Washington, declined either to sign such a note as the Austrian ambassador proposed or to take any further steps. Afterwards Austria and France made direct representations at Washington, but ceased their efforts after the declaration of war, from that time forward relying on the efforts of the pope, who was backed by the tacit approval of all the powers.

Berlin, Jan. 22.—The following statement was handed to the correspondent of the Associated Press: "The foreign office declares with all positiveness that Germany, neither before the outbreak of the Spanish-American war nor during its course, proposed intervention to other powers. Neither did Germany support such a proposition made by other powers. It is true that in several instances suggestions (Anregungen) were made to the German government from another source, in the sense of intervention. But the German government, without exception, maintained a negative attitude toward such suggestions and made known its negative standpoint whenever occasion offered. It must further be remarked that it was not from an Austrian source (Nicht Gerade von Oesterreichischer Seite) that such suggestions reached the German government."

MAN TO BE EXTRADITED WANTED IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Denver, Jan. 22.—Governor Orman granted the requisition for the extradition of C. A. Weldon, now at Colorado Springs, and who is said to be wanted at Canonsburg, Pa., on a charge of obtaining $11,000 under false pretenses.

Colorado Springs, Jan. 22.—When it became known here yesterday that Governor Orman had granted the requisition for the return of C. A. Weldon, of this city, to Allegheny county, Pa., for trial on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, counsel for Weldon applied in the district court for a writ of habeas corpus, which is made returnable today. An attachment suit was begun against Weldon in the district court here by the National bank of McKeesport, Pa. The bank alleges that Weldon owes the institution $9,912. Weldon was secretary of the Weldon Grocery company, which was capitalized at $412,000, and made an assignment during the great Pennsylvania strike. Weldon was sent to jail pending the court's decision. A detective from McKeesport is on his way to this city to take the prisoner back.

APPEAL OF SCHLEY PRESENTED TO PRESIDENT.

Washington, Jan. 22.—After a conference lasting several hours with his counsel, Admiral Schley approved the appeal from the findings of the court of inquiry, and it was delivered to the president late yesterday afternoon by Mr. Teague. The appeal sets out the grounds of error upon points of law and fact alleged by Admiral Schley, and concludes with a lengthy argument in support of his contention that he has been unfairly dealt with. Admiral Schley and his counsel refused to make the appeal public. They say it must be given out at the White House.

Gov. Stone Is Subpoenaed.

Harrisburg, Jan. 22.—P. Gray Meek, of Bellefonte, the defendant in a libel suit, brought by State Treasurer-elect Frank G. Harris, was here and had had Governor Stone subpoenaed as a witness.

Attempt to Burn a Town.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 22.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to burn the town of Shinnston, in Harrison county. Trouble over illegal liquor traffic is said to be the cause.

The Front End.

A young couple had been married by a Quaker, and after the ceremony he remarked to the husband:

"Friend, thou art at the end of thy troubles."

A few weeks after the man came to the good minister boiling over with rage, having found his wife to be a regular vixen, and said:

"I thought you told me I was at the end of my troubles!"

"So I did, friend, but I did not say which end," replied the Quaker.

The Talipot Palm of Ceylon.

The talipot palm of Ceylon has gigantic fanlike leaves, which when fully expanded form a nearly complete circle thirteen feet in diameter. Large fans made of them are carried before people of rank among the Cingalese. They are also commonly used as umbrellas, and tents are made by neatly joining them together. They are used as a substitute for paper, being written upon with a stylus. Some of the sacred books of the Cingalese are composed of strips of them.

Silenced.

A young man in a railway carriage was making fun of a lady's hat to an elderly gentleman in the seat with him.

The young man was silent for the remainder of the journey.

Travel.

Travel frequently improves the human being, and it does the same for crude whisky, which, after a sea voyage, returns home ripened, and then there is the case of cottonseed kernels which go abroad from the United States and come home again as the "best quality" of olive oil—Mexican Herald.

Imagination.

It is imagination, rather than reason, that distinguishes man from brute, and no person who is devoid of imagination can know extremes of happiness or misery. Happiness greatly depends on the faculty for forgetting.

INVASION OF PEDDLERS

Caused an Emphatic Protest on the Part of Chester Merchants.

Business men of Chester were very indignant this morning owing to the invasion of five "pack peddlers" selling blankets and rugs. They say these peddlers in a few days can ruin the trade of the merchants for a year and they protested.

"Squire Johnston advised Marshal Allison to hunt them up and bring them before him and he would impose a fine upon them which would make them give Chester a wide berth hereafter. The marshal failed to find them.

FINED $5 AND COSTS

Result of "Babe" Rinehart's Alleged Attack Upon J. S. Pauley.

As a result of his assault upon J. S. Pauley yesterday morning, "Babe" Rinehart was fined $5 and costs by "Squire Johnston.

Rinehart was before the 'squire upon another charge, that of crossing the bridge without paying sufficient toll, but the case was continued until next Tuesday. He was released upon furnishing a $200 bond, which was secured by Thomas Cunningham.

Coal Deal About to Be Closed.

The deal for the purchase of a large tract of coal land in Hancock county, which has been fostered by Aaron McDonald, of near Hookstown, for several months, will probably be closed not later than February 1. The papers will be delivered by Mr. McDonald at a meeting of the intended purchasers which will be held at Hookstown at that time.

Three Lots Sold.

Attorney Ingram, Henry Riley and James D. Johnston have purchased lots on Montana avenue, near Second street. The lots were owned by Ephraim Johnson and the purchasers may build dwellings. Mr. Johnson expects soon to record other sales.

Much Important Business Transacted at Their Meeting—New Candidates Initiated.

A meeting was held last night of Garfield camp, Sons of Veterans, and aside from considerable routine business two candidates were mustered into the order.

Arrangements were begun for the observance of Lincoln's memorial day and a committee appointed to make up a program, which will be submitted at the next meeting. Arrangements were also made for the division encampment, which will be held next May in Lancaster.

For some time it has been agitated by the members of the local order, which is one of the largest in the state, that an effort be made to get greater representation by the appointment of a division officer. It was decided to take measures to get a colonel for this city.

CRANBORNE TOLD THE TRUTH

Austrian Foreign Office Confirms His Statement—Germany Denies Hostile Attitude.

Vienna, Jan. 22.—Inquiries made by the Associated Press at the Austrian-Hungarian foreign office confirm the essential points of the statement made by Lord Cranborne, the British foreign under secretary in the house of commons, Monday. The dynastic relations of Austria with Spain, the queen regent being an arch-duchess of Austria, led Austria before the declaration of war between Spain and the United States to begin a peace propaganda, which was carried out not only in England, but throughout Europe. France was ready to second the efforts of Austria. Germany and Russia maintained a passive attitude. Great Britain was at first disposed to sign the proposed note, but after a confidential report from Washington, declined either to sign such a note as the Austrian ambassador proposed or to take any further steps. Afterwards Austria and France made direct representations at Washington, but ceased their efforts after the declaration of war, from that time forward relying on the efforts of the pope, who was backed by the tacit approval of all the powers.

Berlin, Jan. 22.—The following statement was handed to the correspondent of the Associated Press: "The foreign office declares with all positiveness that Germany, neither before the outbreak of the Spanish-American war nor during its course, proposed intervention to other powers. Neither did Germany support such a proposition made by other powers. It is true that in several instances suggestions (Anregungen) were made to the German government from another source, in the sense of intervention. But the German government, without exception, maintained a negative attitude toward such suggestions and made known its negative standpoint whenever occasion offered. It must further be remarked that it was not from an Austrian source (Nicht Gerade von Oesterreichischer Seite) that such suggestions reached the German government."

MAN TO BE EXTRADITED WANTED IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Denver, Jan. 22.—Governor Orman granted the requisition for the extradition of C. A. Weldon, now at Colorado Springs, and who is said to be wanted at Canonsburg, Pa., on a charge of obtaining $11,000 under false pretenses.

Colorado Springs, Jan. 22.—When it became known here yesterday that Governor Orman had granted the requisition for the return of C. A. Weldon, of this city, to Allegheny county, Pa., for trial on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, counsel for Weldon applied in the district court for a writ of habeas corpus, which is made returnable today. An attachment suit was begun against Weldon in the district court here by the National bank of McKeesport, Pa. The bank alleges that Weldon owes the institution $9,912. Weldon was secretary of the Weldon Grocery company, which was capitalized at $412,000, and made an assignment during the great Pennsylvania strike. Weldon was sent to jail pending the court's decision. A detective from McKeesport is on his way to this city to take the prisoner back.

APPEAL OF SCHLEY PRESENTED TO PRESIDENT.

Washington, Jan. 22.—After a conference lasting several hours with his counsel, Admiral Schley approved the appeal from the findings of the court of inquiry, and it was delivered to the president late yesterday afternoon by Mr. Teague. The appeal sets out the grounds of error upon points of law and fact alleged by Admiral Schley, and concludes with a lengthy argument in support of his contention that he has been unfairly dealt with. Admiral Schley and his counsel refused to make the appeal public. They say it must be given out at the White House.

The Front End.

A young couple had been married by a Quaker, and after the ceremony he remarked to the husband:

"Friend, thou art at the end of thy troubles."

A few weeks after the man came to the good minister boiling over with rage, having found his wife to be a regular vixen, and said:

"I thought you told me I was at the end of my troubles!"

"So I did, friend, but I did not say which end," replied the Quaker.

The Talipot Palm of Ceylon.

The talipot palm of Ceylon has gigantic fanlike leaves, which when fully expanded form a nearly complete circle thirteen feet in diameter. Large fans made of them are carried before people of rank among the Cingalese. They are also commonly used as umbrellas, and tents are made by neatly joining them together. They are used as a substitute for paper, being written upon with a stylus. Some of the sacred books of the Cingalese are composed of strips of them.

Silenced.

A young man in a railway carriage was making fun of a lady's hat to an elderly gentleman in the seat with him.

Travel.

Travel frequently improves the human being, and it does the same for crude whisky, which, after a sea voyage, returns home ripened, and then there is the case of cottonseed kernels which go abroad from the United States and come home again as the "best quality" of olive oil.—Mexican Herald.

Imagination.

It is imagination, rather than reason, that distinguishes man from brute, and no person who is devoid of imagination can know extremes of happiness or misery. Happiness greatly depends on the faculty for forgetting.

CHAPTER IV. THE LAST DAY.

POLICEMAN WALLACE did not consider it necessary to subject his prisoner to the indignity of handcuffs, but he kept a firm hold on Alden's left arm just above the elbow as they left the house. Alden seemed to be entirely indifferent to this attention. When he reached the sidewalk, he bowed, bringing his cap to a halt. The cab in which he had come was beside the curb, and Alden, using his free hand, helped Brenda into the vehicle.

It is not customary for New York policemen to dally while their prisoners perform the genteel courtesies of polite society, but Alden's deadly calmness prevailed in this instance.

"Home?" he asked.

"St. Winifred's," replied Brenda. "Please tell him to drive fast."

Alden gave the order and then, addressing the young woman, said: "I shall be there soon. They dare not hold me."

Brenda would have spoken, but the horse suddenly started under the whip, and the cab lurched on the rough pavement. The last glimpse of Alden lifting his hat while the huge policeman gripped his left arm remained with Brenda, like a persistent nightmare that survives the dawn. The conventional courtesy stuck in her mind. It was a little picture of the old days, the time of small pleasures and easy living, so sharply brought to an end. Everything in life had suddenly become difficult. Words must be weighed and one's conduct guided by a plan, not left to mold itself into the forms of mere usage.

And thus she came to think of what she should do and say at the hospital. How meet the emergencies that might arise? Had Elsie regained her senses? Had she spoken, or did she lie dead at that moment in some small, bare room, watched by a stolid nurse who yawned and stretched herself as the day's work drew to a close? A portrait in a velvet frame—Elsie's mother beyond a doubt—recurred sharply to Brenda's memory, and she shuddered. It had stood on the dressing table—a woman not yet old; a pretty, smiling face. It was dreadful to think of that face smiling there all that afternoon, the eyes looking, yet seeing nothing, the lips unable to utter a cry.

"I must put it out of my mind," said Brenda to herself.

At the hospital there was little to be learned; nothing to be done. An elderly man who seemed to be in authority said: "The child is still living. We cannot predict the ultimate result of the injury as yet. You cannot see her nor send any message. Leave your address, and we will communicate with you in accordance with the event, whatever it may be. It will be useless to wait. If you are able to see her at all, there will be no great pressure of time."

Brenda rode to her home, and as the cab drifted through the clamoring whirled of the Avenue she was thinking that the white haired man had spoken almost tenderly of Elsie as "the child."

There was no mother in the MacLane mansion. She had been dead ten years. There was an aunt, an amiable old lady for whom Brenda entertained no little affection, but in the serious affairs of life she would as readily have taken counsel with her brother, who was not yet 12. Her father, for so strong a man as he was in the world of finance, was a weak man at home. He had no gift of sympathy, a deficiency which may have accounted for both the strength and the weakness. Brenda told him the story of her adventures as it has been here set forth, and he received it with painful surprise and lively alarm.

"Why did you go there?" he exclaimed. "What possible interest could you have in this wretched girl?"

"My dear father," she replied, with an excellent counterfeit of a smile, "let me remind you that my affection for Mr. Alden has been the one sincere emotion of a sadly artificial life. When I saw that terrible story, the first feeling I had was sympathy for Clarence. I wanted to do something for him, and I couldn't think of anything else but to go to her."

"The papers will be full of it!" he growled. "I have always been afraid of Alden. You know I could never reconcile myself to him."

"I remember that you always admired him," said she.

"A good many people admire him," exclaimed the old gentleman impatiently, "and they're all afraid of him. He is a headstrong, reckless, unscrupulous man, and I never should have permitted you to become engaged to him."

Brenda smiled without effort this time. She knew that her will would "Permit me to consider the legal aspects of the case,"

dominate her father's in any conflict, and that he would permit her to have her own way to the end of the story.

"I am not engaged to him any more," said she, and her father admitted cordially that that was something to be thankful for.

"He has behaved most dishonorably to you," he added.

"I have no complaint to make of Mr. Alden's conduct," said Brenda. "I shall not break my heart for him, but I wish he might have loved me. Let us go in to dinner."

Mr. MacLane was considerably surprised to observe as the meal progressed that his daughter ate with a good appetite. Having a shrewd faculty of observation, he perceived at last that Brenda's body was attending to the whole matter of its own sustenance and that her mind was elsewhere. As anxiety rises in intensity the thinking part of us interferes more and more with the grosser envelope and the processes of enlightened selfishness therein implanted by nature, but there comes a point of separation whence the mind goes its own way and the body likewise, to the great betterment of the latter temporarily.

After dinner Brenda and her father went into the library, a room of which he made great use for smoking, much preferring it to the apartment especially designed for the indulgence of that pernicious habit.

Brenda fell at once into deep thought, and her father, after several futile attempts to talk with her, sat down by a desk and endeavored to occupy himself with certain household accounts. He was a man of large frame and little flesh, rather handsome in a mildly aquiline style and with eyes like Brenda's, but gentler and with more of the blue tint in them. There was something womanish about him, hard to trace, but probably in his manner altogether and not in his looks. A nervous irritability made utter trifles tragic for him. Everything worried him more or less. At the desk there, as he puttered with the accounts, his pen fell from the rest where he had placed it, and he picked it up, with a groan.

His pleasures were few. His home was something to him; his pride, of various kinds, a staff to lean upon. He had considerable affection for his son and rather more for Brenda. He thanked God daily that her health was so good; but, even so, he was always afraid that it might fail.

His chief joy in life was a business journey. He could get nothing out of a pleasure trip because of the obvious waste of time. But to be one of three or four moderately congenial men absolutely forced to travel, preferably in some one's private car, perhaps to see a bit of industrial property in the west or even no farther than Washington when there was a bill affecting business interests before congress—that was genuine relaxation. It was necessary to go, and the responsibility for getting there was on the engineer in the cab ahead. One might smoke a good cigar meanwhile and speak of small matters. When one has reached a certain stage of nervousness, it is more tranquillizing to ride 65 miles an hour under another man's guidance than to sit still at home as a result of one's own volition.

To Brenda and her father in the library entered Willett, the butler, with a troubled countenance. It appeared that two men desired to see Miss MacLane and that their names were Barnes and Haggerty.

"They mentioned a Captain Neale, miss," said the butler, "presuming to say that you'd understand."

Brenda rose hastily.

"They have come to take me to the hospital," she said. "Tell them I will be ready in a few minutes, and see about the carriage."

"Are these people policemen?" demanded Mr. MacLane.

"Well, sir, I took them to be what they call ward detectives," murmured the butler, "and I dropped the hint to James that he'd do well to keep an eye on them. There's things in the small reception room, sir, as would go into a man's pocket."

"You did quite right, Willett," said Mr. MacLane. "Brenda, my child, I suppose it's entirely useless!"

"Absolutely. I must go," she said. "Then I must go, too," he growled. But Brenda put a firm veto upon this proposal.

"It is wholly unnecessary," she said. "With my maid and James I shall not be afraid, even if these men are all that Willett says they are. There will be the coachman and groom besides."

Her father came up to her and touched the diamond ornament which she wore at her throat.

Brenda gave the pin to her father and also removed a ring of more than ordinary value, which she knotted up in a handkerchief and thrust into the bosom of her dress. Her maid entered at this moment with such things as were necessary to prepare Brenda for the ride.

After his daughter's departure Mr. MacLane paced the floor of the library for a long hour in restless anxiety. Then he received a telephone message from Brenda informing him that she had learned that Mr. Alden was still detained at the police station, which was an injustice not to be overlooked by his friends. The financier then understood why he had been left at home. As a result of Brenda's presentation of the case Mr. MacLane called upon his lawyer, who was a near neighbor, and the two men rode down to the station house in a cab, stopping at a club on the way to cash a check.

Upon giving their names to the sergeant at the desk in the station they were ushered into the captain's room, where, to their surprise, they found both the officer and his prisoner. Neale was sitting by a desk in the corner. He had the cramped look and the dull eye of a man who has neither moved nor spoken in a long time. Half a cigar with a ragged end was between his lips, and it seemed to have been driven in with a hammer. Any one who had known Neale for ten years would have said that this was the same cigar he had always been smoking. There was a tradition that he had never been seen to light a fresh one.

Alden was standing by a barred window looking out into a narrow, dark court, with a dead wall on the opposite side. There was nothing to attract a rational man's eye, but Alden continued to stare even after MacLane and the lawyer entered the room. He turned, however, when Captain Neale greeted the two men by name. At the sight of Alden's face MacLane, who was advancing toward him, stopped short. It is not the barrier between them which keeps the spectator in the menagerie from intruding upon the privacy of the caged tiger; it is the look in the creature's eye.

MacLane started at the sound of the voice; it was so different from what he expected. "My daughter told me there was some sort of trouble," he began.

"It was very kind of her," said Alden.

"You probably heard that Mr. Alden was under arrest," said the captain. "That isn't so. He's held as a witness. There's no charge against him. He and I had a little disagreement about what was the right thing for him to do. You see, he doesn't understand my position. I'm held accountable in these cases. But I don't want to make no trouble for no man," he went on, with that profusion of negatives which is often an ornament of his language in moments of earnestness, "and if I could see a decent way of letting him go without getting myself into trouble, why, I'd be glad to oblige him and his friends."

"Permit me to consider the legal aspect of the case," said the lawyer, sitting upon a corner of the table that was in the middle of the room and facing Neale, while the others were behind him.

There was silence of half a minute, and then the lawyer got upon his feet. "It seems to be perfectly simple," he said at last.

And he bowed as the three men walked out, MacLane weak and trembling with excitement, Alden perfectly mechanical. As they passed the sergeant's desk the lawyer discovered that he had left his cane in the captain's room, and he returned. He was absent about five minutes, at the expiration of which time he joined MacLane upon the sidewalk. Alden was not there.

"He has gone to the hospital in our cab," said MacLane. "The man is in a trance. He scarcely spoke ten words. What detained you?"

"The captain was showing me a present that he had just bought for his little boy," replied the lawyer. "It's one of those iron banks. That'll make him thrifty, like his father," said the captain. So, to encourage the child, sinking his voice to a whisper, "I put $300 into the bank while the captain was looking out of the window. Perhaps you didn't notice that I counted

By Mrs. LILLIAN M. N. STEVENS, National President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union

THE saloon is a democratic institution and has come to stay. It is not conducted by bad men or used

We have no right to force by legislation our Christian sentiments on a community.

We would be fortunate if we could get the rich people of New York to keep the Sabbath as well as the workingman does.

If the Lord were back again, he would say that we, the people of New York, should work for six days and have rest and recreation on the Sabbath.

The Women's Christian Temperance union is made up of good women, who yet are doing the devil's work.

By HENRY CODMAN POTTER, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York

PROHIBITION is a fraud and a failure. Education, elevation and transformation are the notes the church must learn to strike.

What are you going to do about it?

In New York city we are going to screw up all the doors on Sunday, just as we have been doing.

We are going to raise a race of hypocrites, just as we have been doing, and we are going to furnish to the police an opportunity for blackmail, just as we have always done.

some of my fingers as I sat on the corner of the table; not so many as I had expected, but Neale was really glad to get rid of him. It's the easy way all around."

"Only $300?" exclaimed MacLane. "Well, that was easy."

Webster and the Plow.

"Daniel Webster, when at his home at Marshfield, would never speak on politics when here, but he would talk to the assembled neighbors and guests on matters pertaining to farming. On one occasion some Boston friends presented him with an enormous plow to use on his farm. Webster gave out word that on a certain day it would be christened. The day arrived, and the surrounding farmers for miles came to witness the event. A dozen teams with aristocratic occupants came down from Boston. It was expected by every one that Webster would make a great speech on the occasion, reviewing the history of farming back to the time when Cincinnati abdicated the most mighty throne in the world to cultivate cabbages in his Roman garden.

"The plow was brought out, and ten yoke of splendid oxen were hitched in front. More than two hundred people stood around on the tip-top of expectation. Webster soon made his appearance. He had been calling spirits from the vasty deep, and his gait was somewhat uncertain. Seizing the plow handles and spreading his feet, he yelled to me in his deep bass voice:

"Are you ready, Wright?"

"All ready, Mr. Webster," was the reply, meaning, of course, for the speech.

"Webster straightened himself up by a mighty effort and shouted:

"Then let her rip!"

"The whole crowd dropped to the ground and roared with laughter, while Webster, with his big plow, proceeded to rip up the soil. The same plow can now be seen on top of the Faneuil Hall market in Boston and is a conspicuous object for miles around."

NINETY-NINE out of every hundred clergymen in Maine believe in the prohibitory law. Dr. Rainsford and Bishop Potter either do not know the conditions as they exist in the prohibitory state of Maine or are too prejudiced to see things just as they are. Some people are prejudiced at the start against prohibition and can't see things as they really are. It is impossible for me to understand how in advocating Sunday opening of saloons Bishop Potter reconciles his position with the commandment regarding the sacredness of the Sabbath day. I believe his attack on prohibition will not have much weight among temperance people because he has made frequent outbreaks of this kind.

By W. M. SMITH, Ex-Candidate For Governor of New York on the Prohibition Ticket

WE prohibitionists must get our dander up over this attack upon prohibition by Bishop Potter. He says that prohibition is a fraud and that prohibitionists are hypocrites. I would like to put my fist in his face for that remark and would like to take Bishop Potter and Dr. Rainsford into a room—not both together, for they might get the better of me, but one at a time—and I believe that I might bring those distinguished clergymen back to the Lord's side.

Mummies.

In estimating the value of a mummy its medicinal qualities are no longer appraised, and thus the problem is easier of solution. Its value must have been greater when it formed a regular part of the materia medica. Until pretty late in the eighteenth century mummies entered into a great variety of drugs, balms and other medicinal preparations.

Bologna's Leaning Tower.

Bologna has two great square towers, the Asinelli, which is 315 feet high and was erected in 1109, and its rival the Garisenda, which was built one year later and was originally much higher and is rendered peculiar by its decided inclination to one side. Its origin is somewhat obscure, but it was certainly intended to outdo the Asinelli, and both were for retreat in troublous times. Some say the original intention was to make it lean, but others contend that either the ground had settled or there was a defect in the engineering. This unique relic was so little thought of by one of its later possessors that it was sold in 1295 for 22 lire, something less than $44.

CHAPTER IV. THE EARLY WAT.

POLICEMAN WALLACE did not consider it necessary to subject his prisoner to the indignity of handcuffs, but he kept a firm hold on Alden's left arm just above the elbow as they left the house. Alden seemed to be entirely indifferent to this attention. When he reached the sidewalk, he paused, bringing his right arm to a halt. The cab in which he had come was beside the curb, and Alden, using his free hand, helped Brenda into the vehicle.

It is not customary for New York policemen to daily while their prisoners perform the gentle courtesies of polite society, but Alden's deadly calmness prevailed in this instance.

"Home?" he asked.

"Mr. Winfield's," replied Brenda. "Please tell him to drive fast."

Alden gave the order and then, addressing the young woman, said: "I shall be there soon. They dare not hold me."

Brenda would have spoken, but the horse suddenly started under the whip, and the cab lurched on the rough pavement. The last glimpse of Alden lifting his hat while the huge policeman gripped his left arm remained with Brenda, like a persistent nightmare that survives the dawn. The conventional courtesy stuck in her mind. It was a little picture of the old days, the time of small pleasures and easy living, so sharply brought to an end. Everything in life had suddenly become difficult. Words must be weighed and one's conduct guided by a plan, not left to mold itself into the forms of mere usage. And thus she came to think of what she should do and say at the hospital. How meet the emergencies that might arise? Had Elsie regained her senses? Had she spoken, or did she lie dead at that moment in some small, bare room, watched by a stolid nurse who yawned and stretched herself as the day's work drew to a close? A portrait in a velvet frame—Elsie's mother beyond a doubt—recurring sharply to Brenda's memory, and she shuddered. It had stood on the dressing table—a woman not yet old; a pretty, smiling face. It was dreadful to think of that face smiling there all that afternoon, the eyes looking, yet seeing nothing, the lips unable to utter a cry.

"I must put it out of my mind," said Brenda to herself.

At the hospital there was little to be learned; nothing to be done. An elderly man who seemed to be in authority said: "The child is still living. We cannot predict the ultimate result of the injury as yet. You cannot see her nor send any message. Leave your address, and we will communicate with you in accordance with the event, whatever it may be. It will be useless to wait. If you are able to see her at all, there will be no great pressure of time."

Brenda rode to her home, and as the cab drifted through the clamoring whirlpools of the Avenue she was thinking that the white haired man had spoken almost tenderly of Elsie as "the child."

There was no mother in the Maclane mansion. She had been dead ten years. There was an aunt, an amiable old lady for whom Brenda entertained no little affection, but in the serious affairs of life she would as readily have taken counsel with her brother, who was not yet 12. Her father, for so strong a man as he was in the world of finance, was a weak man at home. He had no gift of sympathy, a deficiency which may have accounted for both the strength and the weakness. Brenda told him the story of her adventures as it has been here set forth, and he received it with painful surprise and lively alarm.

"Why did you go there?" he exclaimed. "What possible interest could you have in this wretched girl?"

"My dear father," she replied, with an excellent counterfeit of a smile, "let me remind you that my affection for Mr. Alden has been the one sincere emotion of a sadly artificial life. When I saw that terrible story, the

"The papers will be full of it," he growled. "I have always been afraid of Alden. You know I could never reconcile myself to him."

"I remember that you always admired him," said she.

Brenda smiled without effort this time. She knew that her will would dominate her father's in any conflict, and that he would permit her to have her own way to the end of the story. "I am not engaged to him any more," said she, and her father admitted cordially that that was something to be thankful for.

"I have no complaint to make of Mr. Alden's conduct," said Brenda. "I shall not break my heart for him, but I wish he might have loved me. Let us go in to dinner."

Mr. Maclane was considerably surprised to observe as the meal progressed that his daughter ate with a good appetite. Having a shrewd faculty of observation, he perceived at last that Brenda's body was attending to the whole matter of its own sustenance and that her mind was elsewhere. As anxiety rises in intensity the thinking part of us interferes more and more with the grosser envelope and the processes of enlightened selfishness therein implanted by nature, but there comes a point of separation whence the mind goes its own way and the body likewise, to the great betterment of the latter temporarily.

After dinner Brenda and her father went into the library, a room of which he made great use for smoking, much preferring it to the apartment especially designed for the indulgence of that pernicious habit.

Brenda fell at once into deep thought, and her father, after several futile attempts to talk with her, sat down by a desk and endeavored to occupy himself with certain household accounts. He was a man of large frame and little flesh, rather handsome in a mildly aquiline style and with eyes like Brenda's, but gentler and with more of the blue tint in them. There was something womanish about him, hard to trace, but probably in his manner altogether and not in his looks. A nervous irritability made utter trifles tragic for him. Everything worried him more or less. At the desk there, as he puttered with the accounts, his pen fell from the rest where he had placed it, and he picked it up, with a groan.

His pleasures were few. His home was something to him; his pride, of various kinds, a staff to lean upon. He had considerable affection for his son and rather more for Brenda. He thanked God daily that her health was so good; but, even so, he was always afraid that it might fail.

His chief joy in life was a business journey. He could get nothing out of a pleasure trip because of the obvious waste of time. But to be one of three or four moderately congenial men absolutely forced to travel, preferably in some one's private car, perhaps to see a bit of industrial property in the west or even no farther than Washington when there was a bill affecting business interests before congress—that was genuine relaxation. It was necessary to go, and the responsibility for getting there was on the engineer in the cab ahead. One might smoke a good cigar meanwhile and speak of small matters. When one has reached a certain stage of nervousness, it is more tranquilizing to ride 65 miles an hour under another man's guidance than to sit still at home as a result of one's own volition.

To Brenda and her father in the library entered Willett, the butler, with a troubled countenance. It appeared that two men desired to see Miss Maclane and that their names were Barnes and Haggerty.

"They mentioned a Captain Neale, miss," said the butler, "presuming to say that you'd understand."

"Permit me to consider the legal aspect of the case,"

"They mentioned a Captain Neale, miss," said the butler, "presuming to say that you'd understand."

Boston rose hastily. "They have come to take me to the hospital," she said. "Tell them I will be ready in a few minutes, and see about the carriage."

"Are these people policemen?" demanded Mr. Maclane.

"Well, sir, I took them to be what they call ward detectives," ventured the butler, "and I dropped the hint to James that he'd do well to keep an eye on them. There's things in the small reception room, sir, as would go into a man's pocket."

"You did quite right, Willett," said Mr. Maclane. "Brenda, my child, I suppose it's entirely useless—"

"Absolutely. I must go," she said. "Then I must go, too," he growled. But Brenda put a firm veto upon this proposal.

"It is wholly unnecessary," she said. "With my maid and James I shall not be afraid, even if these men are all that Willett says they are. There will be the coachman and groom besides."

Her father came up to her and touched the diamond ornament which she wore at her throat.

Brenda gave the pin to her father and also removed a ring of more than ordinary value, which she knotted up in a handkerchief and thrust into the bosom of her dress. Her maid entered at this moment with such things as were necessary to prepare Brenda for the ride.

After his daughter's departure Mr. Maclane paced the floor of the library for a long hour in restless anxiety. Then he received a telephone message from Brenda informing him that she had learned that Mr. Alden was still detained at the police station, which was an injustice not to be overlooked by his friends. The financier then understood why he had been left at home. As a result of Brenda's presentation of the case Mr. Maclane called upon his lawyer, who was a near neighbor, and the two men rode down to the station house in a cab, stopping at a club on the way to cash a check.

Upon giving their names to the sergeant at the desk in the station they were ushered into the captain's room, where, to their surprise, they found both the officer and his prisoner. Neale was sitting by a desk in the corner. He had the cramped look and the dull eye of a man who has neither moved nor spoken in a long time. Half a cigar with a ragged end was between his lips, and it seemed to have been driven in with a hammer. Any one who had known Neale for ten years would have said that this was the same cigar he had always been smoking. There was a tradition that he had never been seen to light a fresh one.

Alden was standing by a barred window looking out into a narrow, dark court, with a dead wall on the opposite side. There was nothing to attract a rational man's eye, but Alden continued to stare even after Maclane and the lawyer entered the room. He turned, however, when Captain Neale greeted the two men by name. At the sight of Alden's face Maclane, who was advancing toward him, stopped short. It is not the barrier between them which keeps the spectator in the menagerie from intruding upon the privacy of the caged tiger; it is the look in the creature's eye.

Maclane started at the sound of the voice; it was so different from what he expected. "My daughter told me there was some sort of trouble," he began.

"It was very kind of her," said Alden.

"You probably heard that Mr. Alden was under arrest," said the captain. "That isn't so. He's held as a witness. There's no charge against him. He and I had a little disagreement about what was the right thing for him to do. You see, he doesn't understand my position. I'm held accountable in these cases. But I don't want to make no trouble for no man," he went on, with that profusion of negatives which is often an ornament of his language in moments of earnestness. "And if I could see a decent way of letting him go without getting myself into trouble, why, I'd be glad to oblige him and his friends."

"Permit me to consider the legal aspect of the case," said the lawyer, sitting upon a corner of the table that was in the middle of the room and facing Neale, while the others were behind him.

There was silence of half a minute, and then the lawyer got upon his feet. "It seems to be perfectly simple," he said at last.

And he bowed as the three men walked out, Maclane weak and trembling with excitement, Alden perfectly mechanical. As they passed the sergeant's desk the lawyer discovered that he had left his cane in the captain's room, and he returned. He was absent about five minutes, at the expiration of which time he joined Maclane upon the sidewalk. Alden was not there.

"He has gone to the hospital in our cab," said Maclane. "The man is in a trance. He scarcely spoke ten words. What detained you?"

"The captain was showing me a present that he had just bought for his little boy," replied the lawyer. "It's one of those iron banks. That'll make him thrifty, like his father," said the captain. So, to encourage the child, sinking his voice to a whisper, "I put $300 into the bank while the captain was looking out of the window. Perhaps you didn't notice that I counted

some of my fingers as I sat on the corner of the table; not so many as I had expected, but Neale was really glad to get rid of him. It's the easy way all around."

"Only $300?" exclaimed Maclane.

"Well, that was easy."

Webster and the Plow.

"Daniel Webster, when at his home at Marshfield, would never speak on politics when here, but he would talk to the assembled neighbors and guests on matters pertaining to farming. On one occasion some Boston friends presented him with an enormous plow to use on his farm. Webster gave out word that on a certain day it would be christened. The day arrived, and the surrounding farmers for miles came to witness the event. A dozen teams with aristocratic occupants came down from Boston. It was expected by every one that Webster would make a great speech on the occasion, reviewing the history of farming back to the time when Cincinnati abdicated the most mighty throne in the world to cultivate cabbages in his Roman garden.

"The plow was brought out, and ten yoke of splendid oxen were hitched in front. More than two hundred people stood around on the tiptoe of expectation. Webster soon made his appearance. He had been calling spirits from the vasty deep, and his gait was somewhat uncertain. Seizing the plow handles and spreading his feet, he yelled to me in his deep bass voice:

"Are you ready, Wright?"

"All ready, Mr. Webster," was the reply, meaning, of course, for the speech.

Webster straightened himself up by a mighty effort and shouted:

PROHIBITION

A... Failure A... Success

By Mrs. LILLIAN M. N. STEVENS, National President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union

THE saloon is a democratic institution and has come to stay. It is not conducted by bad men or used by bad men.

We have no right to force by legislation our Christian sentiments on a community.

We would be fortunate if we could get the rich people of New York to keep the Sabbath as well as the workingman does.

If the Lord were back again, he would say that we, the people of New York, should work for six days and have rest and recreation on the Sabbath.

By HENRY CODMAN POTTER, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York

PROHIBITION is a fraud and a failure. Education, elevation and transformation are the notes the church must learn to strike.

What are you going to do about it?

In New York city we are going to screw up all the doors on Sunday, just as we have been doing.

We are going to raise a race of hypocrites, just as we have been doing, and we are going to furnish to the police an opportunity for blackmail, just as we have always done.

By W. M. SMITH, Ex-Candidate For Governor of New York on the Prohibition Ticket

WE prohibitionists must get our dander up over this attack upon prohibition by Bishop Potter. He says that prohibition is a fraud and that prohibitionists are hypocrites. I would like to put my fist in his face for that remark and would like to take Bishop Potter and Dr. Rainford into a room—not both together, for they might get the better of me, but one at a time—and I believe that I might bring those distinguished clergymen back to the Lord's side.

Mummies.

In estimating the value of a mummy its medicinal qualities are no longer appraised, and thus the problem is easier of solution. Its value must have been greater when it formed a regular part of the materia medica. Until pretty late in the eighteenth century mummies entered into a great variety of drugs, balms and other medicinal preparations.

As the genuine mummy was then expensive, recipes were given by many ancient writers for converting human flesh into mummy. Usually only certain portions of the body were used and these were beaten, dried, macerated and spiced out of all likeness to their natural condition; hence "beaten to a mummy."

Numerous allusions are made to the practice in ancient literature, and in old play, "Bird In a Cage," are the directions, "Make mummy of my flesh and sell me to the apothecaries."

Some say the original intention was to make it lean, but others contend that either the ground has settled or there was a defect in the engineering. This unique relic was so little thought of by one of its later possessors that it was sold in 1293 for 22c lire, something less than $44.

One More Eulogy.
Lieutenant A. W. Thomson says, in The Independent, that when the civil war was practically over he was sent from the camp at Lincoln to Charlotte, N. C., under a flag of truce. He entered the town and was conducted to General Echols' headquarters in a large upper room, evidently a school-room.

Our guide pointed out the general, a fine, portly gentleman, seated at a table. I advanced and laid my papers on the table. "General Echols, I presume?" I said. "These dispatches are from General Gillingham. Shall I wait for an answer?" "Please be seated," the general said. Glancing around, I saw 16 or 18 gentlemen, all with one or two exceptions, in military uniform. Colonel Morgan came up to me, shook hands and said: "I believe you and I are not entire strangers."

He had been our prisoner a year or so before. While we chatted a gentleman in a civilian gray suit turned to address General Echols. The cold stare of a glass eye caught my attention, and the features were somewhat familiar. "Ah, Jefferson Davis! Are you here, pressed to the wall?" was my first thought. His face was far more pleasant than our northern papers had pictured it.

A dispatch was handed to General Echols, who read and reread it with an earnest, anxious look. Half rising, he passed the paper to Mr. Davis, who read it slowly and then handed it back. "Well," said he, "we have lost a generous enemy."

It was the news of President Lincoln's assassination.

When They Say "Goodby."
Did you ever hear two married women take leave of each other at the gate on a mild evening? This is how they do it:

"Goodby!"

"Goodby! Come down and see us soon."

"I will. Goodby!"

"Goodby! Don't forget to come soon."

"No, I won't. Don't you forget to come up."

"I won't."

"Be sure and bring Sarah Jane with you next time."

"I will. I'll bring her up this time, but she won't be very well. She wanted to come awfully."

"Did she, now? That was too bad. Be sure and bring her next time."

"I will, and you be sure and bring the baby."

"I will. I forgot to tell you that he's cut another tooth."

"You don't say so! How many has he now?"

"Five. It makes him awfully cross."

"I dare say it does."

"Well, goodby! Don't forget to come down."

"No, I won't. Don't you forget to come up. Goodby!"

And they separate.

The Roar of Battle.

The roar of the navy's four point seven's, their crash, their rush as they passed, the shrill whine of the shrapnel, the barking of the howitzers and the mechanical, regular rattle of the quick firing Maxims, which sounded like the clicking of many mowing machines on a hot summer's day, tore the air with such hideous noises that one's skull ached from the concussion, and one could only be heard by shouting. But more impressive by far than this hot chorus of mighty thunder and petty hammering was the roar of the wind which was driven down into the valley beneath and which swept up again in enormous waves of sound. It roared like a great hurricane at sea. The illusion was so complete that you expected, by looking down, to see the Tugela lashing at her banks, tossing the spray hundreds of feet in air and battling with her sides of rock. It was like the roar of Niagara in a gale, and yet when you did look below not a leaf was stirring, and the Tugela was slipping forward, flat and sluggish and in peace.—From "With Buller's Column," by Richard Harding Davis, in Scribner's.

TAX MEASURES OF GOV. NASH

Wide In Scope and Include a Diversity of Business Interests.

INCREASE IN DOW TAX

Will Be Sought, But the Plan Will Likely Be Strongly Opposed—The Governor's Removal of Trustees at Dayton—Capital Notes.

Columbus, January 22.—(Special)—

To the extent of showing Governor Nash's purpose to conduct state institutions along lines of public economy and good, the removal of the entire board of trustees at the Dayton Hospital for the Insane undoubtedly had its effect; but nevertheless it was a matter of deep regret, and brought to the surface a condition of affairs that it was thought Ohio institutions were well rid of. The chief complaint seems to have been a disposition on the part of the trustees to go beyond the powers given them in their appointment and usurp the powers of the superintendent and steward. There was, of course, the consequent resentment on the part of the latter, and out of it all came a kettle of fish to stir up the whole state and bring a public institution into disrepute. Another thing seems to have been the idea of at least a part of the trustees that the hospital furnished a convenient and easy place to remain during a good share of the time and a taking advantage of the opportunity offered to go there. Upon the strength of the report submitted to him, Governor Nash concluded that an easy solution of the matter was the removal of the entire board without waiting to weigh the merits and demerits of each individual case, and the resignations were asked for to take effect at once. But as is always the case in matters of this kind, public interest is kept up and excitement furnished through a series of subsequent events. It is now claimed by the members of the trustee board that the report prepared by the state board of charities was not without prejudice, and unfair in many details. If they are to be removed it is not unlikely that they will demand the removal of the men who brought about their dismissal, and the public thus be treated to another washing of soiled linen.

Governor Nash, together with other of the state and legislative officers, is assiduously working upon the tax bills to be presented early in the present session. These measures are so wide in scope and comprehend such a diversity of interests as to make the preliminary work a task of considerable magnitude, requiring the exertion of delicate care in order that the best results may be obtained, together with a fair distribution of the burden. In a general way, the three most important of these bills will deal with corporations, insurance companies, and the Dow tax on saloons. If they all pass, another measure will follow to abolish the state levy at some future time. The most troublesome of the three proposed bills, and the one which party leaders feel is the least likely to pass, is the one increasing the Dow tax. This will be fought vigorously by the liquor element, and is regarded as a two-edged sword that may work more political harm than good. It will be submitted to the Republican house caucus, and may never get beyond there, although it will have back of it the powerful influence of many of the prominent men of the state. The bill proposes the increase of the tax from $350 to $500, the entire increase of $150 for each saloon in the state to go into the state treasury for the support of state institutions. It is figured that this would bring in many hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, and temperance advocates find in it an argument for their cause on the claim that many of the more vicious saloons would be forced out of business. It is contended that if the state levy is to be done away with entirely—and this is one of the things for which the state administration is firmly standing—it can not be brought about in any way better than by the raising of the Dow tax, unless it would be by raising the tax on corporations to a degree both unfair and out of proportion to their just share, provoking them to a determined warfare against any measure affecting their interests. The plan now advised by the framers of the bills is the placing of an annual fee on corporations of one-tenth or perhaps one-fifth of 1 per cent of their gross earnings, the entire amount to go into the state treasury and be used for the payment of the state's expenses. If the amount be placed at one-fifth instead of one-tenth of 1 per cent it would double the amount originally proposed and largely increase the state's revenues; but that one-fifth is even considered plainly shows that the total income of Ohio corporations does not reach within many millions what it was supposed was the case by those who made rough estimates. The bill to tax insurance companies would remove the local tax now collected and place a general tax of 2½ per cent upon their gross premium receipts. It is thought this would add from $500,000 to $600,000 to the revenues of the state, and that this, with the money derived from corporations and the increased Dow tax, would be sufficient to meet all the state's expenses and do away with the general levy now assessed for that purpose. The plan of the administration is to, in so far as possible, relieve the burden of state taxation from the people in general, who are now taxed by both their city and township or county, and raise the money for the conduct of the state from the liquor interests and the great corporations of industry. Another plan relating to taxation is the abolishing of a state levy for school purposes and the levying of only local taxes for this purpose. A bill for this purpose will be prepared and introduced together with or at about the same time as the other tax measures.

The work of gathering statistics as to the ill effects resulting from the use of tobacco has brought to light many interesting things, but none of a more startling nature than the evils which come from the constant and excessive use of cigarettes. Outside of those apparent and plainly seen results, such as hacking cough, yellow skin and dull eye, are others of even a more serious and harmful character, which, while harder to trace to the same cause, really have their beginning there. While a bill entirely prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in the state, as is done in Tennessee and other places, would find a hearty indorsement from many members, it would hardly pass and will not be presented. But a measure has been drawn by Representative Gear of Wyandot which it is hoped will in a measure check the growth of this rapidly spreading evil and make the cigarette harder to obtain. It is proposed to increase the tax on wholesale dealers to $200 and on retail dealers to $100, and prohibit the sale to any one under 20 years of age. The effect of this, it is argued, will be to make it impossible for dealers to sell cigarettes without raising the price to a degree that will prevent many on whom the habit is not yet too strong to abandon it. Moreover, the prohibiting of the sale to minors under 20 years will, if enforced, stop many young boys from forming the habit, as well as enforce a discontinuance of it on many who are now slaves to the smoking of cigarettes.

A very fitting and well chosen action by the general assembly has been the setting aside of Wednesday, Jan. 29, as a day for the holding of memorial exercises in honor of the late President McKinley. The exercises will be held in the hall of the house, commencing at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and lasting for several hours. It is the purpose to make the occasion one befitting the man in whose honor they are to be held, and for that purpose a most distinguished company will be invited to attend, including Senators Foraker and Hanna, Governor Nash, all the Ohio congressmen, and all Ohio office-holders, both federal and state. In so far as possible speeches will be made by all of these, together with members of the state legislature. There will be exercises beyond the talks of an appropriate character, and the day will be one which will not only help freshen the memory of the late president, but also stir anew feelings of patriotism and good citizenship. The full program has not yet been completed, and is awaiting word from Washington as to who of the Ohio delegates in congress can come.

Mayor Johnson of Cleveland, who is staying here almost constantly now, is a unique figure in the politics of the state, as exemplified in Columbus. He has taken a magnificent residence on East Broad street, the most aristocratic thoroughfare of the city, and this is to serve as the headquarters of the Cuyahoga county delegation during the session. Mr. Johnson is opposed to the giving of railroad passes or their acceptance by public officers, and not one of his delegation rides without the payment of the full legal fare. Altogether, Mr. Johnson is a new disciple of an old faith. His uniqueness comes from the fact that he seems to practice what he preaches.

GEORGE U. MARVIN.

What the Barber Pole Represents.
The barbers of long ago were barber surgeons, but the rapid advance of surgical science has caused them to fall from their high estate. The gilt knob at the end of the barber pole of today represents a brass basin, which but a few decades since was actually suspended from the pole. The basin had a notch cut in it to fit the throat and was used in lathering the customer preparatory to shaving him. The pole represents the staff held by the patient who came to the barber surgeon to be bled. The two spiral stripes painted around it signify two bandages, one for twisting around the arm previous to the act of phlebotomy, or blood letting, the other for binding when the operation was completed.

Great Industrial Discoveries.

It is not the boy who is surrounded by the best implements and tools that ingenuity can manufacture, but an Eli Whitney making a cotton gin in a cellar in the south with the simplest tools or a Cunard whittling the model of a ship with a jackknife that makes great industrial discoveries.—Success.

"And now that you are through college, what are you going to do?" asked a friend of the youthful candidate. "I shall study medicine," was the grave reply of the young man. "But isn't that profession already overcrowded?" asked the friend. "Possibly it is," answered the knowing youth, "but I propose to study medicine just the same, and those who are already in the profession will have to take their chances."

One More Eulogy.

Lieutenant A. W. Thomson says, in The Independent, that when the civil war was practically over he was sent from the camp at Lincoln to Charlotte, N. C., under a flag of truce. He entered the town and was conducted to General Echols' headquarters in a large upper room, evidently a school-room.

Our guide pointed out the general, a fine, portly gentleman, seated at a table. I advanced and laid my papers on the table.

"General Echols, I presume?" I said. "These dispatches are from General Gillingham. Shall I wait for an answer?"

"Please be seated," the general said. Glancing around, I saw 16 or 18 gentlemen, all with one or two exceptions, in military uniform. Colonel Morgan came up to me, shook hands and said: "I believe you and I are not entire strangers."

He had been our prisoner a year or so before. While we chatted a gentleman in a civilian, gray suit turned to address General Echols. The cold stare of a glass eye caught my attention, and the features were somewhat familiar. "Ah, Jefferson Davis! Are you here, pressed to the wall?" was my first thought. His face was far more pleasant than our northern papers had pictured it.

A dispatch was handed to General Echols, who read and read it with an earnest, anxious look. Half rising, he passed the paper to Mr. Davis, who read it slowly and then handed it back.

"Well," said he, "we have lost a generous enemy."

When They Say "Goodbye."
Did you ever hear two married women take leave of each other at the gate on a mild evening? This is how they do it:

"Goodbye!"

"Goodbye! Come down and see us soon."

"I will. Goodbye!"

"Goodbye! Don't forget to come soon."

"No, I won't. Don't you forget to come up."

"I won't."

"Be sure and bring Sarah Jane with you next time."

"I will. I'd brought her up this time, but she wasn't very well. She wanted to come awfully."

"Did she, now? That was too bad. Be sure and bring her next time."

"I will. I forgot to tell you that he's cut another tooth."

"You don't say so! How many has he now?"

"Five. It makes him awfully cross."

"I dare say it does."

"Well, goodbye! Don't forget to come down."

"No, I won't. Don't you forget to come up. Goodbye!"

And they separate.

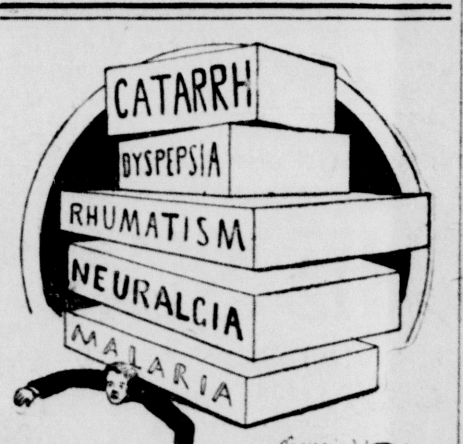

The Roar of Battle.

The roar of the navy's four point seven's, their crash, their rush as they passed, the shrill whine of the shrapnel, the barking of the howitzers and the mechanical, regular rattle of the quick firing Maxims, which sounded like the clicking of many mowing machines on a hot summer's day, tore the air with such hideous noises that one's skull ached from the concussion, and one could only be heard by shouting. But more impressive by far than this hot chorus of mighty thunder and petty hammering was the roar of the wind which was driven down into the valley beneath and which swept up again in enormous waves of sound. It roared like a great hurricane at sea. The illusion was so complete that you expected, by looking down, to see the Tugela lashing at her banks, tossing the spray hundreds of feet in air and battling with her sides of rock. It was like the roar of Niagara in a gale, and yet when you did look below not a leaf was stirring, and the Tugela was slipping forward, flat and sluggish and in peace. —From "With Buller's Column," by Richard Harding Davis, in Scribner's.

Owls.

Most birds are stoics compared to owls, and those who cultivate their acquaintance know that they have no time wherein to make their poetical complaints to the moon. Poets should not meddle with owls. Shakespeare and Wordsworth alone have understood them. By most others they have been scandalously libeled.

TAX MEASURES OF GOV. NASH

Will Be Sought, But the Plan Will Likely Be Strongly Opposed—The Governor's Removal of Trustees at Dayton—Capital Notes.

Columbus, January 22.—(Special)—To the extent of showing Governor Nash's purpose to conduct state institutions along lines of public economy and good, the removal of the entire board of trustees at the Dayton Hospital for the Insane undoubtedly had its effect; but nevertheless it was a matter of deep regret, and brought to the surface a condition of affairs that it was thought Ohio institutions were well rid of. The chief complaint seems to have been a disposition on the part of the trustees to go beyond the powers given them in their appointment and usurp the powers of the superintendent and steward. There was, of course, the consequent resentment on the part of the latter, and out of it all came a kettle of fish to stir up the whole state and bring a public institution into disrepute. Another thing seems to have been the idea of at least a part of the trustees that the hospital furnished a convenient and easy place to remain during a good share of the time and a taking advantage of the opportunity offered to go there. Upon the strength of the report submitted to him, Governor Nash concluded that an easy solution of the matter was the removal of the entire board without waiting to weigh the merits and demerits of each individual case, and the resignations were asked for to take effect at once. But as is always the case in matters of this kind, public interest is kept up and excitement furnished through a series of subsequent events. It is now claimed by the members of the trustee board that the report prepared by the state board of charities was not without prejudice, and unfair in many details. If they are to be removed it is not unlikely that they will demand the removal of the men who brought about their dismissal, and the public thus be treated to another washing of soiled linen.

Governor Nash, together with other of the state and legislative officers, is assiduously working upon the tax bills to be presented early in the present session. These measures are so wide in scope and comprehend such a diversity of interests as to make the preliminary work a task of considerable magnitude, requiring the exertion of delicate care in order that the best results may be obtained, together with a fair distribution of the burden. In a general way, the three most important of these bills will deal with corporations, insurance companies, and the Dow tax on saloons. If they all pass, another measure will follow to abolish the state levy at some future time. The most troublesome of the three proposed bills, and the one which party leaders feel is the least likely to pass, is the one increasing the Dow tax. This will be fought vigorously by the liquor element, and is regarded as a two-edged sword that may work more political harm than good. It will be submitted to the Republican house caucus, and may never get beyond there, although it will have back of it the powerful influence of many of the prominent men of the state. The bill proposes the increase of the tax from $350 to $500, the entire increase of $150 for each saloon in the state to go into the state treasury for the support of state institutions. It is figured that this would bring in many hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, and temperance advocates find in it an argument for their cause on the claim that many of the more vicious saloons would be forced out of business. It is contended that if the state levy is to be done away with entirely—and this is one of the things for which the state administration is firmly standing—it can not be brought about in any way better than by the raising of the Dow tax, unless it would be by raising the tax on corporations to a degree both unfair and out of proportion to their just share, provoking them to a determined warfare against any measure affecting their interests. The plan now advised by the framers of the bills is the placing of an annual fee on corporations of one-tenth or perhaps one-fifth of 1 per cent of their gross earnings, the entire amount to go into the state treasury and be used for the payment of the state's expenses. If the amount be placed at one-fifth instead of one-tenth of 1 per cent it would double the amount originally proposed and largely increase the state's revenues; but that one-fifth is even considered plainly shows that the total income of Ohio corporations does not reach within many millions what it was supposed was the case by those who made rough estimates. The bill to tax insurance companies would remove the local tax now collected and place a general tax of 2 1/2 per cent upon their gross premium receipts. It is thought this would add from $500,000 to $600,000 to the revenues of the state, and that this, with the money derived from corporations and the increased Dow tax, would be sufficient to meet all the state's expenses and do away with the general levy now assessed for that purpose. The plan of the administration is to, in so far as possible, relieve the burden of state taxation from the people in general, who are now taxed by both their city and township or county, and raise the money for the conduct of the state from the liquor interests and the great corporations of industry. Another plan relating to taxation is the abolishing of a state levy for school purposes and the levying of only local taxes for this purpose. A bill for this purpose will be prepared and introduced together with or at about the same time as the other tax measures.

The work of gathering statistics as to the ill effects resulting from the use of tobacco has brought to light many interesting things, but none of a more startling nature than the evils which come from the constant and excessive use of cigarettes. Outside of those apparent and plainly seen results, such as hacking cough, yellow skin and dull eye, are others of even a more serious and harmful character, which, while harder to trace to the same cause, really have their beginning there. While a bill entirely prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in the state, as is done in Tennessee and other places, would find a hearty endorsement from many members, it would hardly pass and will not be presented. But a measure has been drawn by Representative Gear of Wyandot which it is hoped will in a measure check the growth of this rapidly spreading evil and make the cigarette harder to obtain. It is proposed to increase the tax on wholesale dealers to $200 and on retail dealers to $100, and prohibit the sale to any one under 21 years of age. The effect of this, it is argued, will be to make it impossible for dealers to sell cigarettes without raising the price to a degree that will prevent many on whom the habit is not yet too strong to abandon it. Moreover, the prohibiting of the sale to minors under 20 years will, if enforced, stop many young boys from forming the habit, as well as enforce a discontinuance of it on many who are now slaves to the smoking of cigarettes.

A very fitting and well chosen action by the general assembly has been the setting aside of Wednesday, Jan. 23, as a day for the holding of memorial exercises in honor of the late President McKinley. The exercises will be held in the hall of the house, commencing at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and lasting for several hours. It is the purpose to make the occasion one befitting the man in whose honor they are to be held, and for that purpose a most distinguished company will be invited to attend, including Senators Foraker and Hanna, Governor Nash, all the Ohio congressmen, and all Ohio office-holders, both federal and state. In so far as possible speeches will be made by all of these, together with members of the state legislature. There will be exercises beyond the talks of an appropriate character, and the day will be one which will not only help freshen the memory of the late president, but also stir anew feelings of patriotism and good citizenship. The full program has not yet been completed, and is awaiting word from Washington as to who of the Ohio delegates in congress can come.

Mayor Johnson of Cleveland, who is staying here almost constantly now, is a unique figure in the politics of the state, as exemplified in Columbus. He has taken a magnificent residence on East Broad street, the most aristocratic thoroughfare of the city, and this is to serve as the headquarters of the Cuyahoga county delegation during the session. Mr. Johnson is opposed to the giving of railroad passes or their acceptance by public officers, and not one of his delegation rides without the payment of the full legal fare. Altogether, Mr. Johnson is a new disciple of an old faith. His uniqueness comes from the fact that he seems to practice what he preaches.

What the Barber Pole Represents.
The barbers of long ago were barber surgeons, but the rapid advance of surgical science has caused them to fall from their high estate. The gilt knob at the end of the barber pole of today represents a brass basin, which but a few decades since was actually suspended from the pole. The basin had a notch cut in it to fit the throat and was used in lathering the customer preparatory to shaving him. The pole represents the staff held by the patient who came to the barber surgeon to be bled. The two spiral stripes painted around it signify two bandages, one for twisting around the arm previous to the act of phlebotomy, or blood letting, the other for binding when the operation was completed.

Great Industrial Discoveries.
It is not the boy who is surrounded by the best implements and tools that ingenuity can manufacture, but an Eli Whitney making a cotton gin in a cellar in the south with the simplest tools or a Cunard whittling the model of a ship with a jackknife that makes great industrial discoveries.—Success.

19TH YEAR NO. 18.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1902.

A Very Successful Business by the
Company.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

Edward J. Owen Retires From the Board—Report of the Past Six Months Gratifying Beyond All Expectations of Those Interested.

Edward J. Owen, a director of the East Liverpool Potteries company, retired from the board of directors of
that company at the annual meeting
of the stockholders held in the directors' room of the company at Fourth
and Broadway last evening. Out of 23 stockholders only three were absent. Reports of the officers were presented which showed that since
the company was organized a large
business was handled.

as follows: Robert Hall, Sr., John J.
Purinton, George C. Murphy, Frederick B. Lawrence, Noah A. Frederick
and George W. Meredith.

The directors will meet probably
this evening to elect officers for the
year.

Soon after the company was organized last year a meeting of the officials
was held, at which time it was decided that if the company should make but a small per cent on its capital during the first six months of
their career, matters would be satisfactory. Instead of this, and through
the efforts of some of the officials,
four times the per cent decided upon
at the first meeting was made,
which showed profits from an immense
business.

After the new officers are elected
it is likely that some change will be made in the present office force.

A VEXED QUESTION.

After Three Weeks More Than Two
Sprigs Entitle Printers to Dinner Ware Prices.

The dispute of the printers, which
has been under discussion by members of the standing committees of the Western Manufacturing Potters' Association and those representing
the Brotherhood was settled at a joint meeting of the committees yesterday afternoon in the Potters' club. Many meetings had been held a which nothing but the printers' dispute was considered, but at the session yesterday,
final agreement was reached.

It was decided that on and after February 10 only two sprigs shall be placed on fruits and saucers instead
of three sprigs, as is now being used
in some potteries. If firms decide to place three sprigs on fruits and sau-
cers, the printers shall receive the regular dinner ware price, 5 3/4 cents a dozen. If two sprigs are used the price has been set at 4 1/2 cents a dozen.

The reason the potters were given
three weeks' time to make this change
was for the purpose of having new copper plates made. As soon as these are completed, the new schedule will
become operative.

The meeting yesterday afternoon
lasted from 4 until 5:30 o'clock, but
as there are other questions to be presented to the board another session will be held soon.

Between Youngstown People and Local Men Projecting a Pottery There.

Thomas V. Burton and E. W. Fisher
have returned from Youngstown,
where they met a committee from
the board of trade and discussed the
inducements which are being offered
by that city to locate the new pottery.

The gentlemen are highly pleased
with the treatment accorded them
by Mahoning's capital, but until certain further details are forthcoming
as to agreement plans cannot be outlined.

PROBATE MATTERS

Inquiry As to a Will—Sale of East
Ordered.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
The will of Jacob Beight has been

presented in court and Howard Ferris, of Cincinnati, has been commissioned to take the testimony of Dr.
C. F. McCloud, the only surviving witness.

Mary Wells, of East Liverpool,
brought action against Ida Wells,
asking to be permitted to sell property in which the defendant has an interest. As the defendant is an imbecile, Arthur E. Bowdler has been appointed trustee for the suit. In the
same suit W. K. Gaston, of East Liv-
of Alvin, Roy and Kenneth Mercer,
minors. Upon investigation the court
has ordered the real estate sold.

THE EXPERT FOUND FAULT
WITH RESERVOIR WORK.

Newspaper Causes Much
Amusement.

Reporters of the News Review staff
were much amused today on hearing
a number of discussions among interested business men over the "startling discovery" story published last
night concerning the new water works
reservoir.

The fact that the discovery referred
to was so "startling" to that paper
that it published an account of it more
than a week after the News Review
had done so, served as a huge joke
to hundreds about town, who knew
all along that the account as first
published was correct and reliable.

Since the time the News Review
called exclusive attention to the defects in the reservoir many inspections have been made by capable engineers, all of whom fully substantiated
the statements made in its columns. No person, only those directly
interested, offered any contradiction,
excepting that which came from the
"fly-up-the-creek" organ as the result
of humiliation over an important and
legitimate "scoop."

Additional details concerning the
reservoir have reached the News Review, tending to prove conclusively
that no mistake was made in the
claim that the basin is likely never to
be made safe in its present location.

A prominent business man is authority for the claim that Engineer
Hill, who came here from Philadelphia to inspect the reservoir after the
big break occurred in the wall, told
the members of the water works board
and other officials that the reservoir
had been badly located. It is also claimed that the engineer expressed
the opinion that its construction was
at fault and that the walls would
never hold the pressure expected of
them.

When the News Review makes
"startling discoveries" it doesn't wait
to print them a week or 10 days after
the facts of the discoveries become
the main topic of public comment.

JOLLY HUNTING PARTY

Will Leave Tonight in Search of Racoons in Vicinity of Sprucevale.

Raccoons that stray too far away
tonight from their happy homes in
the vicinity of Sprucevale will be responsible if their carcasses find a
resting place in the game bags of a party of local sportsmen who propose
to go hunting.

Mayor Davidson, whose appetite
for coon meat is said to be insatiable,
and who is claimed to be such a splendid marksman that he can hit the
"bull's eye" without even sighting his
gun, will head the hunting party,
among which will be Pat and Dan Mc-
Nicol, George and Ed Davidson, Jack
Powell, Frank Dickey, William Fergu-
son, together with several others. All
will leave in a sled tonight and drive
to Sprucevale, where the onslaught
will be commenced.

Definite Announcement That the Pennsylvania Company Will Soon Give Attention to the Needs
of That Prosperous Part of the City.

It has been definitely announced
that a freight and passenger station,
to cost not less than $6,000 will be
built in the East End the coming
spring or summer by the C. & P.
Railroad company. In fact, the matter has progressed so far, that at the next meeting of council plans for the
new building will probably be presented for the consideration of that body.

When W. D. Wood, engineer of
maintenance of way, and other officials of the Pennsylvania company,
were in the city last week conferring
with councilmen, the idea of the railroad company building a large brick
station on property in the East End
opposite the National pottery, was presented. It was suggested by the official that a building similar to the
new station recently opened at Leets-
dale, Pa., be built in the East End.
This station is of brick and is considered to be one of the best on the Western division of the Pennsylvania
lines. A councilman advised Mr. Wood
that such a station would likely be
acceptable to council and information
was given immediately that the matter would be brought before the directors of the C. & P. road at Cleveland at a meeting which was to be
held a few days after the visit of

the railroad officials to this city.

Mr. Wood, it is said, favors such a station for the East End, and it is
intimated that his opinion has much
weight with higher officials. If built
the new building will be divided into
a freight and passenger department,
one being separated from the other by
a siding.

Under the present method manufacturing potters owning plants in the East End load their ware into cars,
and for the transferring of these cars
to the main freight station on Walnut street, a fee of $2.50 is charged
by the railroad company. It is averred that by so doing the company
loses between $5 and $6 a car, as it
frequently occurs that casks are
brought from the East End to the
central station, from which they are
taken to the wharf to be shipped for
the accommodation of the manufacturers. By having a distributing point
in the East End, it can be readily
seen that much money would be saved
by the railroad, and shipments would be dispatched quicker than at present.

Surveyors have recently been running lines between Mulberry street
and Virginia avenue, along the main
line, and it is understood that an additional siding will be built, leading
to the site of the new station.

JOSEPH VONDRAK FINED $20 AND COSTS ON THREE COUNTS.

Give Bond—A Curious
Mistake.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Common pleas court convened at 1
p. m. today. Attention was given for
the first hour to liquor cases.

Joseph Vondrak, of East Liverpool,
was fined $20 and costs on each of
three counts for Sunday selling.

"Toughie" Walters, East Liverpool,
pleaded not guilty and renewed his
bond. There are about six counts
against him.

Harry Eppley and "Kid" O'Handlon, East Liverpool, pleaded not guilty and
furnished bond.

Martin Walsh, Lisbon, indicted on
six counts, pleaded not guilty.

Some mistake was evidently made
in the case of Gus McDermitt, East
Liverpool. A German named August
Schuttfeldt answered when the name
of McDermitt was called and explained that the sheriff had insisted that he come over, and he did so, although
his name was not McDermitt. He was not employed as a bartender at the
time charged in the indictment.

Wallace Shisler, New Waterford,
who has been in jail several days,
pleaded not guilty to the charge of
furnishing liquor to others. Shisler
looks to be about 17. He admits that
he bought liquor which he gave to
two boy companions, but claims that
all three of them "chipped in" to buy
the liquor.

The trial of those who have pleaded
not guilty will be set by the court,
perhaps for the latter part of next
week.

of K. of C. and C. M. B. A. Will Be Held Tomorrow
Evening.

Officers recently elected by the Knights of Columbus will be installed
at their meeting Thursday evening by District Deputy Thomas J. Duffy. In
the Carroll club rooms on the same
evening new officers will also be installed for the local branch of the
C. M. B. A. by Mr. Hogan, of Pittsburg.

After the completion of both installations a banquet will be given in Knights of Columbus hall by both
orders. Addresses will be made at the banquet by officers of both organizations.

Sued on a $43 Board Bill.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
George Zimmerman, a Lisbon restaurant keeper, was awarded a judgment
for $43 against Robert Nace in "Squire Dickinson's" court yesterday. The suit
was on a board bill.

He Was Injured on Monday And the Infirmary Directors Are Attending to His Case.

It has been found that Thomas
White, who was injured on Little Yellow Creek Monday by the blowing out
of a staybolt from a boiler, was more
seriously hurt than was at first supposed. White is 54 years old and single. He has boarded at the residence of Hiram Kountz, between East
Liverpool and Wellsville, and is there
at present.

The township trustees of East Liverpool were applied to for aid and
this morning turned the case over to
the directors of the infirmary. Medical attention and a nurse have been
cover.

His hands were frightfully scalded
and it is the opinion of the attending
physician that White may lose his eyesight completely.

The injured man had gone to one of the wells of the Lawson Oil and Gas company to procure some oil. On
passing the boiler he arrived just in time to be hurt. There was a terrific burst in his face of steam and scald-ing water. He was at first taken to Wellsville for treatment.

The man is a stone quarryman by occupation, but has been employed as
a laborer during the last several
weeks by different men about Wells-
ville and East Liverpool. He was not in the employ of the Lawson Oil and Gas company.

A Salem Lady Who Was Injured Demands $2,000 From the City.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Miss Sadie J. Probert, of Salem, has entered suit against that city for $2,- 000. Her petition says that on April
9, 1901, she fell through a board covering into a ditch three feet deep on
was broken and she was seriously
bruised and shocked.

Since the accident her sufferings
have not permitted her to perform
her ordinary duties and her nervous
system, she says, is impaired.

PLEASANT CARD PARTY

of Miss Martha
Porter.

One of the prettiest card parties
which has been given among the
younger set this season occurred yesterday afternoon when Miss Martha Porter entertained in honor of her
visiting friend, Miss Mame Scott, of Cambridge. Cards were the amusement, in which probably 40 ladies

took part.

The tally cards merited much comment, each being ornamented by a
fancy head in water color, the work
of Miss Nell Porter, a sister of the hostess.

The game ended, a very dainty
lunch was served, at which Miss Porter was assisted by Mrs. Charles Good-
win, Mrs. Will Reed, Mrs. John Good-
win, Miss Minnie Milligan and Miss
Nell Porter. The enviable reputation
of Miss Porter as a hostess was ver-
ified and the hospitality of the Porter
home was greatly enjoyed by all present.

EAST PALESTINE MAN LOOKING
FOR LOST HORSE.

With It Went a Top Buggy, an East Palestine Man And a Woman.

L. D. Overlander, of East Palestine,
is offering a reward for the return
of a horse and buggy hired at his stable on Friday, January 17. It was hired by Charles W. Eckerson, of East Palestine, and he was to return
the rig the next day. Neither the
man nor the horse has since been heard from.

Eckerson is about 25, light com-
plexioned and smooth faced and
weighs about 140. He was accompanied by a fair complexioned woman
of about 20, rather stoutly built, who is supposed to have been the wife of a man living east of East Palestine. The horse was a black one, weighing about 900 pounds, blind in the left eye, and
the vehicle a top buggy with maroon
running gear.

JOHN SHORT'S CASE

On Trial in Common Pleas at Lisbon.
Many Witnesses on Hand.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
The case of Ohio versus John Shorts,
East Liverpool, indicted for assault on
a little girl, began this afternoon and
will probably last till some time tomorrow.
About 20 witnesses are to be heard.

Prohibition Alliance Branch.

A branch of the Prohibition Alliance has been formed in this city, its
purpose is to do missionary work in
the interest of the party. The following officers have been chosen:
President, J. C. McClain; vice president, W. E. Mercer; secretary, W. V.
Harris; treasurer, W. A. Weaver;
marshal, Jere McMillan; chaplain,
Rev. S. C. George. Meetings will be on the first and third Fridays of
each month.

Union Barber Cards.

"Union" shop cards have been distributed to all union barbers. This
was done late yesterday forenoon by
a committee of journeymen barbers
appointed to do this work at a meeting held Monday evening. The cards
are not very large, measuring but 6x8 inches, and are inclosed in a neat
gold frame. The individual cards will be distributed soon.

Dismissed at Plaintiff's Cost.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
The case of John W. Post against
Edwin M. Hukill and R. J. Wallace
has been dismissed at plaintiff's cost.
Post leased land from the plaintiff in Knox township for coal and oil privileges and agreed to assist in the payment of certain rentals, but the defendants failed to pay their share of
the rentals.

Archer's Committee.

In the state senate Senator Archer
is chairman of the committee on rules,
chairman of committee on finance and
member of the committees on public
works and public laws, federal relations, fish and game, industrial schools,
mines and mining, municipal corporations No. 1, penitentiary, railroads
and telegraph, taxation and schools
for imbeciles.

A Party for Little Folks.

Mrs. David Wallace, of Thompson
Hill, entertained yesterday in honor
of the birthday of her little daughter,
Doris. The hours were from 2 to 5.
About 22 little folks were present
and helped to make memorable the
third birthday of their tiny hostess.

Lectured on Russia.

Lisbon, January 22.—(Special)—
Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, of New York city, lectured here last evening
on "Russia," under the auspices of the
young people's societies of local churches. There was a large audience.

USED HIS CLUB ON A PRISONER

Officer Salsberry Had an Encounter With a Treacherous
Colored Man.

And While the Policeman Was Mo-
mentarily Off His Guard the Cul-
prit Attacked Him—Subdued And Jailed With Difficulty.

Policeman Frank Salsberry had a
rough encounter last night with W.
H. Woods, a local colored man, whom
he undertook to arrest. The prisoner
was intoxicated and looking for trouble when the officer came upon him
and a fight ensued.

Previous to the man's arrest other
officers warned him to go home, but
he refused and continued to make
trouble in the vicinity of the Turner
hall until Salsberry was compelled to interfere.

When the officer took hold of Woods
he began to beg off, promising to go
home, and while thus expostulating,
which caused Salsberry to anticipate
no fear of an attack, the prisoner
made a vicious pass at him and a clinch resulted.

Though taken at a disadvantage the
policeman fought off his antagonist
until he finally got hold of his club,
which he then wielded with telling
effect. Woods was soon subdued, after which he was staken to jail in
the patrol. This morning he was fined $9.60 and is yet behind the bars.

The police say he is a treacherous
and desperate character and experience has warned them not to take
any chances with him in case of trouble.

MORE LIGHT WANTED

Residents of Pleasant Heights Say
the Streets Are Unsafe.

Complaint has been made by residents of Pleasant Heights about the manner in which that section of the city is lighted during the night. Yesterday morning the street lamps along Lisbon road stopped burning about 5
o'clock.

Joseph Harmon, employed in the
sagger shop of the D. E. McNicol pottery, while coming to work yesterday
morning accidentally stumbled over
a large stone in the roadway, causing him to fall heavily on the ground
and injuring his head. This stone
was within a few feet of a pole from
which is suspended an arc lamp, but
could not be seen on account of the
darkness, the lamp being out.

The Victim of the East End Accident
Laid to Rest
Today.

The funeral services of Albert Arn-
old, of the East End, who was drowned
on Sunday, occurred this morning at 9 o'clock from St. Aloysius' church.
High mass was said and Father Smyth
delivered the sermon.

Killed By C. & P. Train.

Toronto, January 22.—Westbound
passenger train No. 309, on the C. &
P. railroad, leaving here at 12:42 p.
m., struck and instantly killed an unknown man near Mingo yesterday
afternoon. The man was poorly
dressed, and is thought to have been a tramp. The body was horribly mangled.

Better Is Indicted.

Canton, January 22.—William Better, formerly a clothing merchant at Minerva, but now of Cleveland, was
indicted for obtaining the signature
of Wm. J. Adams, better known as
"McKinley's farmer," to a note for
$2,500 by false pretense.

Special Meeting Tonight.

A special meeting of the committee
who have charge of the arrangements of the ladies' social to be given
in the Elks' home on the evening
of February 4 will be held this evening.

Mystic Circle Social—The Fraternal Mystic Circle will give a social
and entertainment at G. A. R. hall
tomorrow evening. An interesting program has been arranged and an elaborate supper will wind up the
evening's entertainment. J. D.
Grimes, one of the supreme officers
of the lodge, will be present.

EAST END

REV. HUGH A. COOPER

A Former East End Pastor, Goes to a Large Church in Iowa.

The following is taken from the Paola (Kan.) Western Spirit of the date of January 17: "Rev. Hugh A. Cooper, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of this city, surprised the members by tendering his resignation to take effect on February 1, 1902. He goes to Centerville, Ia., a city of 7,000, on the Rock Island railroad, about 180 miles northeast of Kansas City—a larger field on a higher salary.

"Mr. Cooper has been here over eight years and leaves the church the strongest financially and in membership it has ever been. While the elders reluctantly join in his request of the presbytery to accept his resignation, the whole church membership regret his going. Rev. and Mrs. Cooper, and their two promising boys, Lester and Hugh, will move to Centerville the first week of next month."

The reverend gentleman began his pastorate in this city in 1890. He held the charges of the West End and the East End churches, but, after three years moved to Paola, Kan.

DOLLS' RECEPTION

Entertainment to Be Given By Junior League of Erie Street M. E. Church.

The Junior League of the Erie street M. E. church will give a dolls' reception at the home of Mrs. Sarah Dawson, of St. George street, beginning tomorrow afternoon and continuing all week.

Tomorrow will be known as "American day," when the children will have the dolls dressed in American styles. Friday will be "oriental day," when the dolls' costumes will be fashioned after those of the Chinese, Japanese and others of the oriental countries. Saturday will bear no particular description.

Japanese lanterns will illuminate the premises about Mrs. Dawson's home and every possible effort put forth to make the event a success.

ROOF OF A BARN FELL

Crushing a Cow Beneath It—The Heavy Snow Fall an Inconvenience.

The weight of the snow on the roof of a log barn on William Ellsworth's farm, northeast of Helena, caused the barn to collapse this morning. A heavy timber broke the back of the cow which was killed. Although the barn contained several more head of live stock they were uninjured.

The fall of snow caused a practical suspension of out-of-door labor on newly started building improvements.

The operation of street cars was interfered with in the early hours, but they soon got to running and no serious accidents are reported.

Presented at the Entertainment Given at the Second Presbyterian Church.

The Second Presbyterian church was filled last evening and the musical and literary entertainment was of a high order. Several recitations and readings were given by Miss Florence Sweeney, of Amsterdam, O. She is a fine elocutionist and impersonator. At the conclusion she gave a pathetic recital on the late President McKinley that was rapturously endorsed.

Selections by Miss Edith Caylor and Edward McCombs, of New Brighton, Pa., and other numbers were felicitous. The entertainment was a financial success.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

An illustrated lecture will be given Friday evening at the Second U. P. church.

Philip Cross, residing with his parents on First avenue, who has been ill for the past two weeks with pneumonia, is recovering.

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Reed, of Erie street, who has been ill with typhoid fever for several weeks, is improving.

Miss Lizzie Smith, of Service, Pa., who is seriously ill with pneumonia

at the residence of Lincoln Morley, was slightly improved this morning.

Miss Florence Sweeney, of Amsterdam, O., is a guest of Mrs. W. E. Baird on Mulberry street. She will be entertained with a luncheon by the Misses Carman this evening.

Frank Searight, of the East End, who has been employed on the Denver Post for several months, left Denver yesterday for Los Angeles, which place he expects to make his future home.

Rev. John Hanley, of the East End, who has been preaching at the U. P. church at Canton for several weeks, is expected to return to his home on Pennsylvania avenue within a few weeks.

FELL FROM A TIPPLE

Toronto Man Fatally Injured at the Miner Fire Brick Plant.

Toronto, January 22.—Clifford Baker fell from a 40-foot tippie at the Miner fire brick works and received injuries that will prove fatal.

Col. Barnett Has Retired and Harris Takes His Place.

Harrisburg, Jan. 22.—Frank S. Harris was formally declared elected state treasurer here, when the commission chosen at the last session of the legislature computed the returns of the fall election.

The commission was composed of Governor Stone, Judge Simonton, Senators Scott, Emory, Higgins and Mertz, Speaker Marshall and Representatives Thompson, Leard, Graybill, Palm, Reiff and Castner.

The vote for judge of the supreme court was not computed, Judge Potter's election having been certified by the state department.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

Mt. Olive, Ark., May 17, 1901. Messrs. Ely Bros.—Please send me one bottle of Cream Balm, family size. I think it the best medicine for catarrh in the world. Very respectfully, J. M. SCHOLTZ.

AN UNEQUALED RECORD

There is a Rapidly Increasing Volume of East Liverpool Evidence Rolling Up For the Great Medicine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

It would seem that hardly anyone can take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills without receiving marked benefit. The wonderful action of this medicine in putting people on their feet who are in a weak run down condition is the talk of every place they are known. It is only a short time since they first came to East Liverpool, but today they are more in evidence for merit with East Liverpool people than all other medicines combined.

Mr. B. L. Updegraff, of 269 Fifth street, East Liverpool, Ohio, says: "As a general and nerve tonic I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, East Liverpool, Ohio. I was at the time feeling run down and nervous, not up to the mark in health, and needed a tonic. The medicine did its work nicely, and I regained tone, strength and energy again."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

MERIT COUNTS MOST

In every station in life and in every kind of business. Merit in a newspaper is quickly recognized by the public.

THE EVENING NEWS REVIEW is extending its business every day at a rate unprecedented in the history of East Liverpool journalism.

How Does It Do It?

Simply by making its columns so interesting that the person who would keep posted on home affairs

Finds It Indispensable.

Thousands of new readers gained in the past few months are pretty good evidence of public recognition and public appreciation. Its value as the best advertising medium in East Liverpool is attested by hundreds of business men. Of this fact there is—

Plenty of Evidence.

For instance, during the month of December there were printed in the Classified Advertisement Column of this paper, 432 Want Ads.

A larger number than ever appeared in a like period in any news paper published in Columbiana County. This department of its business is growing at a marvelous rate.

People Who Advertise

And find that advertising brings the desired result return again and again. That is why, wants, for sales, for rents and similar notices are always numerous in the News Review. They cost but little and they

OFFICIALS ACCUSED.

INVESTIGATION WAS ORDERED.

Committee Appointed For the Purpose—Accused Woman Who Discovered Shortage of the Former Secretary.

Indianapolis, Jan. 22.—Charges against President Mitchell, Secretary Wilson and the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, were the first order of business before the convention yesterday afternoon, and the unexpected announcement that the charges would be taken up caused a flurry of excitement in the convention. President Mitchell, in addressing the convention, said:

"The election of officers was to have been the first thing on the program today, but I have to say with deep feeling and regret that charges have been made by Miss Millie Meredith, an ex-employee of the national office, affecting myself as president of the national body, against your national secretary, Mr. Wilson, and also against the national executive board.

Wanted an Investigation.

"The time has come for the election of national officers. I am unwilling to have this proceed until these charges have been heard. I therefore ask the convention to hear these charges and I will ask Mr. William D. Van Horn, of Indiana, to take the chair while the charges are being heard."

When Mr. Van Horn took the chair, Delegate Love, of Iowa, moved that the convention go in closed session and that all newspaper representatives be excluded while these charges were heard.

Delegate Nichols, of District No. 9, in the anthracite region, said that some delegates seemed too anxious to have the charges aired. He thought those making the charges ought to ask permission to appear and make them. A committee was appointed to escort Miss Meredith to the convention hall to explain her charges.

Miss Meredith insisted on reading the charges herself, despite the fact that those in the rear of the hall were unable to hear her. The statement concerned the alleged defalcation of ex-Secretary-Treasurer Pearce, and alleged that President Mitchell and Secretary-Treasurer Wilson did not give out all the facts concerning Pearce's actions and that they "willfully lied" to the miners' committee a year ago.

She demanded an investigation of the books to see how much Pearce's alleged defalcation really was. Miss Meredith intimated that both Mitchell and Wilson sought to protect Pearce and for that reason did not give out all the facts, and charged that Pearce frequently presented bills for double the amount of purchases. She also said that Pearce's "extra money" amounted to $2,000 a year, while Mitchell and Wilson reported that he had taken only $150.

Miss Meredith declared that Mitchell allowed Pearce to go away as a "sick man," and send in his resignation from French Lick Springs.

At the conclusion of Miss Meredith's statement Secretary-Treasurer Wilson arose and spoke at length. He denied the truth of the statement, and said it was the outgrowth of spite. Miss Meredith, he said, was recently let out as an assistant secretary. She is the young woman to whom a gold medal was presented for discovering the Pearce shortage.

Mitchell Made a Denial.

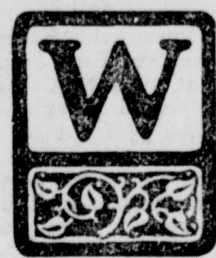

Later on Mr. Mitchell addressed the delegates, denying the stories contained in Miss Meredith's statement. His remarks were frequently interrupted by applause.

President Mitchell made affidavit that the statement he made to the mine workers' convention a year ago was the truth, and the whole truth. He submitted the affidavit to the convention.

Following the conclusion of President Mitchell's statement there was a protracted discussion, many delegates being desirous of being heard at the same time. A resolution was

Uncle Sam's Money

By Secretary of the Treasury LESLIE M. SHAW

WE HAVE A VOLUME OF COINED SILVER NOW IN THE VAULTS OF THE UNITED STATES SUFFICIENT TO FILL A CORNCRIB 8 FEET WIDE, 10 FEET HIGH AND 1,250 FEET LONG. THIS VOLUME COMMERCE REFUSES TO ABSORB.

In lieu thereof the government issues a warehouse receipt commonly called a silver certificate—stamps upon a piece of paper the statement that there have been deposited with the United States treasurer twenty silver dollars, to be paid to the bearer on the surrender of the receipt. But there is no provision for the exchangeability of either the silver or the certificate at par with gold.

Under present conditions there is no danger in this. The balance of trade is in our favor. We sell abroad $500,000,000 per annum more than we buy abroad, and this requires the importation of $500,000,000 of gold per annum or the purchase or redemption of $500,000,000 of outstanding national, municipal or personal obligations or the investment of that much money in foreign securities.

But these conditions may not last forever, and as soon as we begin to export gold in any large amounts the timid will begin to cast about for a place of safety. Knowing that this great volume of silver is not exchangeable or redeemable in gold, this timid fellow may deem it wise to hoard a little gold against a possible danger, and the next timid fellow will be induced to hoard also.

Please do not understand me as saying that silver certificates should be redeemable in gold; nor do I say that the national bank notes should be redeemable in gold. I am speaking theoretically and not advocating any specific measure. It might be safe to make national bank notes legal tender and redeemable in silver certificates and the silver certificates redeemable in silver if silver were redeemable in gold.

All I contend for is that every note signed by a solvent debtor, every draft on a solvent merchant, every deposit with a solvent bank, every piece of paper that circulates as money and every coin shall ultimately be payable, redeemable or exchangeable in the standard coin of this country. In no other way can it be protected from discount.

offered during the confusion expressing confidence in President Mitchell and the other accused officials and condemnation for Miss Meredith, but it was voted down, and National Organizer Evans submitted a substitute resolution calling for the appointment of a committee of seven to investigate all charges and report to the convention. This was adopted. President Van Horn appointed the following committee: J. H. Kennedy and Samuel Lynch, of Indiana, districts No. 8 and No. 11; W. D. Ryan, of district No. 12, Illinois; T. D. Nichols, district No. 1, Pennsylvania; J. D. Wood, district No. 23, Kentucky; W. H. Haskins, district No. 6, Ohio; Richard Gilbert, district No. 2, Pennsylvania.

Chairman Kennedy will call the committee together at once and the work of investigation will begin.

LAUTARO ALMOST HELPLESS.

Had No Steam Up When Attacked. Gunner First Man Killed in Battle.

Panama, Colombia, Jan. 22.—An exchange of prisoners was responsible for Monday's disaster to the government. From the former the revolutionists heard of the plans of the government. The Lautaro's circulating pump was out of order and she had no steam up when she was attacked by the Padilla.

The Padilla, which was recently painted white so as to deceive the government officers as to her identity, advanced unrecognized to a spot about 300 metres from the Lautaro. She then began firing at the Lautaro. The position of the latter prevented her from using her two big guns mounted forward, but she returned the Padilla's fire with her small after guns. Her gunner, however, was the first man killed. The foreign crew of the Lautaro refused to obey orders.

General Alban, who displayed daring courage, was shot on the steamer's deck.

General Garcia, a veteran officer, has been appointed military commander of the district in succession of General Alban. Senor Arjona is the civil governor.

It is believed that the revolutionary warships were damaged.

The capture of Panama by the revolutionists is considered impossible, owing to the number of government troops there.

New York, Jan. 22.—The Colombian consul, Mr. Bugard, received the following dispatch yesterday from Panama, dated Jan. 20:

"General Alban attacked the rebel fleet today and perished on board steamship Lautaro. Have turned over command and am prepared to defend city with 1,000 men."

The dispatch was signed by Arjona, who was General Alban's secretary.

Panama, Colombia, Jan. 22.—General Herrera, the revolutionary leader, informed Captain Mead, of the United States cruiser Philadelphia, that he came here to prevent the Colombian government using the steamer Lautaro against the Liberals. He had accomplished this, and therefore retired.

The revolutionists had 17 wounded in Monday's engagement. The number killed cannot be precisely ascertained.

Of the government forces five men were killed and four wounded.

Pennsylvania Superior Court Decides That He Is Not Entitled to Special Clemency.

Scranton, Jan. 22.—The superior court decided that Alexander Berkman, who attempted to assassinate H. C. Frick in 1892, must serve his full term of 21 years, less the usual allowance for good behavior.

Berkman's attorney recently asked for his release, claiming the benefit of the new commutation law passed by the last legislature.

Berkman was convicted on six indictments and was sentenced to a term of imprisonment on each. In the petition presented to the superior court Berkman claimed that three of the indictments charged no offense against the state laws and that he had served the time imposed for the other indictments, less the time taken off by the new law.

Fitzsimmons Injured by Fall.

New York, Jan. 22.—Robert Fitzsimmons, the ex-champion heavyweight pugilist, fell down a flight of stairs in the Orpheum theater, in Brooklyn, yesterday. It was believed that he seriously injured himself. He complained of very severe pains in his back and side and it was feared his spine had been hurt.

TAX CORPORATIONS.

It Also Has the Endorsement of the Governor—The Two Measures, If Enacted, Expected to Yield Not Less Than $1,600,000. In Revenues.

Columbus, Jan. 22.—Two important tax bills endorsed by Governor Nash were introduced in the legislature. One provides for an annual tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent upon the authorized capital stock of all Ohio corporations and upon the proportion of capital stock of foreign corporations represented by property or business in Ohio. All companies paying excise taxes are exempted.

The other law increases the excise tax from 1/2 to 1 per cent upon the gross receipts of electric light, gas, pipe line, railroad, electric railway, express, telegraph, telephone and messenger and signal companies. It is estimated that the two bills, if enacted into laws, will yield not less than $1,600,000 in revenues.

A COLLEGE PROFESSOR.

One of Georgia's Useful Educators is Grateful For What Pe-ru-na is Doing For Suffering Humanity.

F. A. Curtright, A. B., Principal of the Georgia Normal and Industrial Institute, and editor and proprietor of the "Georgia Helping Hand" writes the following glowing words concerning Peruna, and its efficacy in the cure of catarrh.

He says: "I was induced to try Peruna by the advice of a friend, and certainly believe that suffering humanity would be relieved if they only gave Peruna a fair trial. Would that I could frame words sufficient to express my gratitude for the benefits derived from its use."—F. A. CURTRIGHT, Greensboro, Ga.

Hon. W. N. Roach, United States Senator from North Dakota, in a letter written from Larimore, North Dakota, says:

"Persuaded by a friend, I have used Peruna as a tonic, and am glad to testify that it has greatly helped me in strength, vigor and appetite. I have been advised by friends that it is remarkably efficacious as a cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—W. N. Roach.

Senator Roach's wife recommends Peruna also. She says: "I can cheerfully recommend your excellent remedy, Peruna. Indeed, I know of no other remedy as good as yours. It is a grand tonic, and many of my friends have used it for catarrh with good results."—Mrs. W. N. Roach.

The most common phases of summer catarrh are catarrh of the stomach and bowels. Peruna is a specific for summer catarrh.

Mr. Wm. Hebley, Duquesne, Pa., writes:—"I am cured of catarrh of the stomach of two years standing. I had it so bad that I could not eat anything but milk. I doctored with several doctors and they could give me relief for a short time only. I saw Peruna recommended and thought I would try it, and I now think I am cured of catarrh. I have worked two months and did not lose a day."—Wm. Hebley.

Mr. Moses F. Merrill, Columbus, Cherokee Co., Kansas, Rural Route No. 3, writes:

"I had been troubled with systemic catarrh, which affected the lower bowels especially. I was troubled with running off of the bowels and troublesome catarrh of the bronchial tubes which caused spitting of thick mucus. Since taking Peruna my improvement has been wonderful. My bowels are regular as clock-work. I can now eat like other people and my vitals digest."—Moses F. Merrill.

Hon. Willis Brewer, Representative in Congress from Alabama, writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman:

House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.: Gentlemen—"I have used one bottle of Peruna for lassitude, and I take pleasure in recommending it to those who need a good remedy. As a tonic it is excellent. In the short time I have used it it has done me a great deal of good."—Willis Brewer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1902.

Governor Nash has called upon the people of Ohio to observe Wednesday, January 29, as McKinley day. The proclamation has been endorsed by the legislature, and the governor's example, in calling for the appropriate observance of the anniversary of the late president's birth, has been followed by the governors of other states and territories. It is proposed, as a special feature of the day, to make diligent effort to collect contributions for the national memorial to be erected at Canton. The Sunday preceding the 29th the churches of Ohio are requested to hold special memorial exercises and to give all who desire an opportunity to help to swell the monument fund. We trust that East Liverpool, which certainly has every reason to honor the name of McKinley and for gratitude and thanksgiving for his noble services and wise statesmanship, will see to it that both days are duly and fittingly observed. It has been decided that no concerted effort be made to raise money in the schools, but this does not mean that school children or other persons wishing to contribute to the memorial fund will be denied the privilege. Plans should be formulated at once for McKinley day, and East Liverpool should do her part nobly in response to the governor's suggestions.

Democrats in the house, according to a Washington dispatch, are discussing the advisability of opposing all the pending bills providing for the punishment of anarchists and persons who make an attempt upon the life of the president of the United States. This opposition is based on the broad ground that any such legislation would be a curtailment of states rights, and in violation of the constitutional guarantee of equal rights. Democrats in the house or elsewhere who oppose such universally desired legislation as is proposed will pursue a most effectual method of plunging their party into deeper political disrepute than ever.

The commissioner of Indian affairs has ordered the Indians to cease putting paint on their face. He also wants them to have their hair cut. Congressman Curtis, of Kansas, who claims to understand Indians, does not believe the order will produce good results. Indians can be coaxed, but not driven. Mr. Curtis suggests every Indian should be given a showy uniform and told that he is a special policeman, charged with keeping good order in his neighborhood. This, he thinks, would settle the dress question and prevent disorder.

An alleged newspaper of this town said several days ago that the story of the walls of the new reservoir being cracked was a "reporter's dream." Now it reprints the information which the News Review gave its readers a week or two ago and calls it a "startling discovery." Sometimes that alleged newspaper, after ludicrous flip-flops, lights upon the truth, but it is usually one to seven days after it has ceased to be news.

The only duty we owe the Cubans is that of helping them to help themselves. Tariff concessions are necessary to fulfill this obligation. If the tariff duties are so heavy that Cuban industries cannot thrive there is small chance that the new Cuban government will thrive either.

Governor Nash demanded the resignation of the entire board of trustees of the Dayton hospital for the insane because he wanted trustees that could be trusted. The governor never

hesitates to do his duty, however disagreeable it may be.

The Democracy of Ohio shows very little alacrity about accepting Tom Johnson's invitation to climb into his band wagon.

George Washington Cline.

The death of George Washington Cline, aged 28 years, 1 month and 21 days, occurred at his home on Trentvale street from pneumonia yesterday afternoon. He had been ill for several days and leaves a widow and several small children to mourn his death. The occupation of the deceased was that of kilnman. Interment will be in the cemetery at Friendly, W. Va., and the remains will be shipped to that town tomorrow morning.

AT THE THEATER

"Are You a Mason?" the latest metropolitan comedy success, is an adaptation from the German of Laufs & Kratz, voted the most instantaneous comedy success of a decade. The future of the season, 100 nights at Wallacks', all summer at Power's theater, Chicago. Rich in humorous situations, a laugh in every line. "Are You a Mason?" is a series of high class comedy situations logically put together and artistically carried to a well conceived finale. Will be presented at the opera house January 27 by a strong company of farceurs and comedians.

"The Power Behind the Throne," in which Mildred Holland scored an emphatic success last year, will be retained by her the greater part of this season. The play is so dramatically strong and so gorgeously mounted and presented by an excellent company that a large house should greet Miss Holland at the Grand opera house on her return appearance here, Friday evening, January 24.

The successful play, "Lovers' Lane," was the attraction at the stage hands' benefit last night. There was a good house. Some of the company were very clever in their roles, and the production was fairly satisfactory as a whole.

Tolstoy's Sense of Honor.

At one music party at Count Tolstoy's a lady's singing displeased the count's boys, and they adjourned to another room and made a noise. Their father lost patience and vent after them, and a characteristic admonition ensued.

"Are you making a noise on purpose?" he asked.

After some hesitation came an answer in the affirmative, "Y-y-yes."

"Does not her singing please you?"

"Well, no. Why does she howl?" declared one of the boys, with vexation.

"So you wish to protest against her singing?" asked Lyeff Nikolaevitch in a serious tone.

"Yes."

"Then go out and say so or stand in the middle of the room and tell every one present. That would be rude, but upright and honest. But you have got together and are squealing like grasshoppers in a corner. I will not endure such protests."—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

Would Draw a Crowd.

A singer named Gordon once complained to Handel of the style of his accompaniments, which attracted the attention from the singer, saying that if he did not accompany him better he would jump upon the harpsichord and destroy it.

"Very well," said Handel. "Tell me you will do that, and I will advertise it. More people will come to see you jump than to hear you sing."

How Needles Are Made.

Needles are all made by machinery. The piece of mechanism by which the needle is manufactured takes the rough steel wire, cuts it into proper lengths, files the point, flattens the head, pierces the eye, then sharpens the tiny instrument and gives it that polish familiar to the purchaser. There is also a machine by which needles are counted and placed in the papers in which they are sold, these being afterward folded by the same contrivance.

POTTERY NEWS

John Moses, for many years one of Trenton's foremost business men and very prominently connected with the pottery business of that city, died Monday night as the result of paralysis. Mr. Moses was more than 70 years of age. In 1863 he formed a partnership with the late Samuel K. Wilson and Isaac Weatherby, under the firm name of John Moses & Co. and purchased the Glasgow pottery. A few years later he acquired the interests of his partners in the pottery and has operated it ever since. At the time of his death he had been in the pottery business longer than any one in the city of Trenton, and was the first president of the United States Pottery association. He was most active and influential in procuring tariff legislation advantageous to the American potters, and for more than 20 years was the representative of the potters' association before the ways and means committee of congress. Mr. Moses was one of the organizers of the Trenton Flint and Spar company and its treasurer from the time of its organization.

The deal for the purchase of the American pottery at Toronto by the Union Pottery company, that was hanging fire for several months, has been declared off. Such was the announcement of an official of that company who was in the city yesterday. It is the intention of the Union company to greatly increase the capacity of their output, and if another factory cannot be purchased in this locality a new pottery will be built. The matter has been thoroughly considered by the officials and final decision has been reached.

Jiggermen's local No. 12 held an interesting meeting last evening in Brotherhood hall. The most important part of the meeting was the reconsideration of the new "bonus schedule" presented to the jiggermen of the Union Pottery company last week. This matter was discussed at the meeting last week, but no action taken. At the meeting last evening the schedule was rejected. Two candidates were obligated by the local last night.

It has been announced that work on the improvements to be made at the East End pottery will begin as soon as the weather opens. It is the intention of the company to build three new kilns, one glost and two biscuit, which will give the plant a six-kiln capacity. This change will cause quite an addition to be made in the number of employees in the factory.

"Ben" Harker, manager of the several plants of the Laughlin Pottery company, who has been confined to his home on Cook street for a week, was able to be out yesterday afternoon for the first time. He spent several hours at the office No. 2 and it is said he will take a short trip for the benefit of his health.

William Calhoun, who has been employed at the Laughlin pottery for some time as a kilnman, has taken a position as bench boss on the glost end at the new pottery at Niles. Lot Haney, who was also employed as a kilnman at this pottery, has taken a position with Mr. Calhoun.

Everett Roe, of Third street, has taken a position as glider at the Laughlin No. 2. He commenced work yesterday afternoon. He had been employed at the Severs pottery in the same capacity since that plant was purchased from the Sebring brothers.

Lyman Earl, a kilnman at the Laughlin pottery No. 2, has secured a leave of absence for several days. He will enter the political arena, assisting one of the many candidates making the race for a county office.

J. M. Davis, a buyer from Oakland, Md., was in the city yesterday. He placed some large business with the K. T. & K. pottery and the National company. He will return to his home within a few days.

Clell Smith, the young son of W. C. Smith, of St. George street, a kilnman at Laughlin's No. 2, is ill with pneumonia. His condition was somewhat improved this morning.

William Chaney, employed in the warehouse of the National pottery, who has been off duty for several days on account of the death of his sister, returned to work yesterday.

During the holidays gas was placed in all three kilns at the East End pottery. In the past these kilns were fired with coal, and the change has made quite an improvement.

Albert Townley, an underglaze printer at Laughlin's No. 2, who has been absent from his bench since the holidays on account of illness, returned to work this week.

The East End pottery is having

quite a run on its new toilet shapes recently placed on the market. They are the "Alaska" and "Dewey."

The Union pottery has orders booked for several carloads of ware. One car was shipped today and others will be shipped later in the week.

Frank Pittinger has taken a position as glider at the National pottery. He commenced work yesterday afternoon.

WELLSVILLE

JOSIAH ALLEN'S WIFE

CAVE PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT TO WELLSVILLE FOLK.

Lady Helpers of Church of the Ascension Provided a Superb Exhibition.

"Samantha Allen at the Court of Fame," given by the Lady Helpers of the Church of the Ascension, under the supervision of Miss Harriet Harris, of Boston, in the Cooper opera house last evening, was a success beyond expectations.

The stage was artistically decorated with flags, draperies and many ornamental fixtures appropriate to the time and place of the play. Every participant in the entertainment acquitted herself most charmingly and nothing but words of sincere praise are being uttered by the several hundred friends and relatives who were present.

The arrangement of the entertainment was as follows: The Goddess of Fame was about to crown as Queen of Fame the most worthy claimant of that honor and she had for her choice 40 historical characters who were arranged in beautifully designed costumes. Columbia, represented by Miss Grace Parke, was chosen by the goddess and was crowned amid applause.

Miss Susan Swearingen, working about a mangle in the Wellsville steam laundry, had her fingers painfully squeezed this morning.

Minor News of Wellsville.

Miss Harriet Junkin is confined to her home by illness.

John Rose has returned from a visit in Alliance and Cleveland.

Miss Ida McQuoid, of Gaver's, is visiting her uncle, J. M. Le Clere.

Clarence Snediker, West End, is suffering with facial neuralgia.

Peter Davidson, who was recently stricken with paralysis, is no better.

Mrs. W. H. Sheets is visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. K. Riley, in Pittsburg.

Frank Smith arrived from Ft. Wayne and has accepted a position in the West End shops.

Will Paul and several others left yesterday for Waynesburg to accept positions in a rolling mill.

Miss Martha Daniels, West End, will leave here next week for an extended visit with friends in Denver, Col.

Mrs. Thomas Butler left last evening for Cleveland to visit her daughter, Mrs. Robinson, who is dangerously ill.

Several people from Wellsville attended the social and oyster supper in Congo last evening for the benefit of the foreign missions.

Sherman Atchison, of Salem, a candidate for the nomination of clerk of courts, was in the city yesterday furthering his political interests.

Edward Irwin, of Greenville, O., is in the city and has employed a force of men who are finishing the sewer outlet at the depot. Mr. Irwin has an immense sewer contract at New Castle.

INVASION OF PEDDLERS

Caused an Emphatic Protest on the Part of Chester Merchants.

Business men of Chester were very indignant this morning owing to the invasion of five "pack peddlers" selling blankets and rugs. They say these peddlers in a few days can ruin the trade of the merchants for a year and they protested.

'Squire Johnston advised Marshal Allison to hunt them up and bring them before him and he would impose a fine upon them which would make them give Chester a wide berth hereafter. The marshal failed to find them.

FINED $5 AND COSTS

Result of "Babe" Rinehart's Alleged Attack Upon J. S. Paulley.

As a result of his assault upon J. S. Paulley yesterday morning, "Babe" Rinehart was fined $5 and costs by 'Squire Johnston.

Rinehart was before the 'squire upon another charge, that of crossing the bridge without paying sufficient toll, but the case was continued until next Tuesday. He was released upon furnishing a $200 bond, which was secured by Thomas Cunningham.

Coal Deal About to Be Closed.

The deal for the purchase of a large tract of coal land in Hancock county, which has been fostered by Aaron McDonald, of near Hookstown, for several months, will probably be closed not later than February 1. The papers will be delivered by Mr. McDonald at a meeting of the intended purchasers which will be held at Hookstown at that time.

Three Lots Sold.

Attorney Ingram, Henry Riley and James D. Johnston have purchased lots on Montana avenue, near Second street. The lots were owned by Ephraim Johnson and the purchasers may build dwellings. Mr. Johnson expects soon to record other sales.

CHESTER NOTES.

Miss Rebecca Finley is slowly recovering from a severe illness.

Mr. and Mrs. George Silverthorne are the proud parents of a girl baby, which arrived Monday evening.

A. B. Smith and wife went out to the Fairview oil fields this morning. Mr. Smith is a driller and is working in the Fairview territory.

Much Important Business Transacted at Their Meeting—New Candidates Initiated.

A meeting was held last night of Garfield camp, Sons of Veterans, and aside from considerable routine business two candidates were mustered into the order.

Arrangements were begun for the observance of Lincoln's memorial day and a committee appointed to make up a program, which will be submitted at the next meeting. Arrangements were also made for the division encampment, which will be held next May in Lancaster.

For some time it has been agitated by the members of the local order, which is one of the largest in the state, that an effort be made to get greater representation by the appointment of a division officer. It was decided to take measures to get a colonel for this city.

CRANBORNE TOLD THE TRUTH

Austrian Foreign Office Confirms His Statement—Germany Denies Hostile Attitude.

Vienna, Jan. 22.—Inquiries made by the Associated Press at the Austrian-Hungarian foreign office confirm the essential points of the statement made by Lord Cranborne, the British foreign under secretary in the house of commons, Monday. The dynastic relations of Austria with Spain, the queen regent being an arch-duchess of Austria, led Austria before the declaration of war between Spain and the United States to begin a peace propaganda, which was carried on not only in England, but throughout Europe. France was ready to second the efforts of Austria. Germany and Russia maintained a passive attitude. Great Britain was at first disposed to sign the proposed note, but after a confidential report from Washington, declined either to sign such a note as the Austrian ambassador proposed or to take any further steps. Afterwards Austria and France made direct representations at Washington, but ceased their efforts after the declaration of war, from that time forward relying on the efforts of the pope, who was backed by the tacit approval of all the powers.

Berlin, Jan. 22.—The following statement was handed to the correspondent of the Associated Press: "The foreign office declares with all positiveness that Germany, neither before the outbreak of the Spanish-American war nor during its course, proposed intervention to other powers. Neither did Germany support such a proposition made by other powers. It is true that in several instances suggestions (Anregungen) were made to the German government from another source, in the sense of intervention. But the German government, without exception, maintained a negative attitude toward such suggestions and made known its negative standpoint whenever occasion offered. It must further be remarked that it was not from an Austrian source (Nicht Gerade von Oesterreichischer Seite) that such suggestions reached the German government."

MAN TO BE EXTRADITED WANTED IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Denver, Jan. 22.—Governor Orman granted the requisition for the extradition of C. A. Weldon, now at Colorado Springs, and who is said to be wanted at Canonsburg, Pa., on a charge of obtaining $11,000 under false pretenses.

Colorado Springs, Jan. 22.—When it became known here yesterday that Governor Orman had granted the requisition for the return of C. A. Weldon, of this city, to Allegheny county, Pa., for trial on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, counsel for Weldon applied in the district court for a writ of habeas corpus, which is made returnable today. An attachment suit was begun against Weldon in the district court here by the National bank of McKeesport, Pa. The bank alleges that Weldon owes the institution $9,912. Weldon was secretary of the Weldon Grocery company, which was capitalized at $412,000, and made an assignment during the great Pennsylvania strike. Weldon was sent to jail pending the court's decision. A detective from McKeesport is on his way to this city to take the prisoner back.

Washington, Jan. 22.—After a conference lasting several hours with his counsel, Admiral Schley approved the appeal from the findings of the court of inquiry, and it was delivered to the president late yesterday afternoon by Mr. Teague. The appeal sets out the grounds of error upon points of law and fact alleged by Admiral Schley, and concludes with a lengthy argument in support of his contention that he has been unfairly dealt with. Admiral Schley and his counsel refused to make the appeal public. They say it must be given out at the White House.

Attempt to Burn a Town.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 22.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to burn the town of Shinston, in Harrison county. Trouble over illegal liquor traffic is said to be the cause.

The Front End.

A young couple had been married by a Quaker, and after the ceremony he remarked to the husband:

"Friend, thou art at the end of thy troubles."

A few weeks after the man came to the good minister boiling over with rage, having found his wife to be a regular vixen, and said:

"I thought you told me I was at the end of my troubles!"

"So I did, friend, but I did not say which end," replied the Quaker.

The Talipot Palm of Ceylon.

The talipot palm of Ceylon has gigantic fanlike leaves, which when fully expanded form a nearly complete circle thirteen feet in diameter. Large fans made of them are carried before people of rank among the Cingalese. They are also commonly used as umbrellas, and tents are made by neatly joining them together. They are used as a substitute for paper, being written upon with a stylus. Some of the sacred books of the Cingalese are composed of strips of them.

Silenced.

A young man in a railway carriage was making fun of a lady's hat to an elderly gentleman in the seat with him.

Travel.

Travel frequently improves the human being, and it does the same for crude whisky, which, after a sea voyage, returns home ripened, and then there is the case of cottonseed kernels which go abroad from the United States and come home again as the "best quality" of olive oil.—Mexican Herald.

Imagination.

It is imagination, rather than reason, that distinguishes man from brute, and no person who is devoid of imagination can know extremes of happiness or misery. Happiness greatly depends on the faculty for forgetting.

CHAPTER IV. THE EASY WAY.

POLICEMAN WALLACE did not consider it necessary to subject his prisoner to the indignity of handcuffs, but he kept a firm hold on Alden's left arm just above the elbow as they left the house. Alden seemed to be entirely indifferent to this attention. When he reached the sidewalk, he paused, bringing his captor to a halt. The cab in which he had come was beside the curb, and Alden, using his free hand, helped Brenda into the vehicle.

It is not customary for New York policemen to daily while their prisoners perform the gentle courtesies of polite society, but Alden's deadly calmness prevailed in this instance.

"Home?" he asked.

"St. Winifred's," replied Brenda.

"Please tell him to drive fast."

Alden gave the order and then, addressing the young woman, said: "I shall be there soon. They dare not hold me."

Brenda would have spoken, but the horse suddenly started under the whip, and the cab lurched on the rough pavement.

The last glimpse of Alden lifting his hat while the huge policeman gripped his left arm remained with Brenda, like a persistent nightmare that survives the dawn.

The conventional courtesy struck in her mind. It was a little picture of the old days, the time of small pleasures and easy living, so sharply brought to an end. Everything in life had suddenly become difficult. Words must be weighed and one's conduct guided by a plan, not left to mold itself into the forms of mere usage.

And thus she came to think of what she should do and say at the hospital. How meet the emergencies that might arise? Had Elsie regained her senses? Had she spoken, or did she lie dead at that moment in some small, bare room, watched by a stolid nurse who yawned and stretched herself as the day's work drew to a close? A portrait in a velvet frame—Elsie's mother beyond a doubt—recurred sharply to Brenda's memory, and she shuddered.

It had stood on the dressing table—a woman not yet old; a pretty, smiling face. It was dreadful to think of that face smiling there all that afternoon, the eyes looking, yet seeing nothing, the lips unable to utter a cry.

"I must put it out of my mind," said Brenda to herself.

At the hospital there was little to be learned; nothing to be done. An elderly man who seemed to be in authority said: "The child is still living. We cannot predict the ultimate result of the injury as yet. You cannot see her nor send any message. Leave your address, and we will communicate with you in accordance with the event, whatever it may be. It will be useless to wait. If you are able to see her at all, there will be no great pressure of time."

Brenda rode to her home, and as the cab drifted through the clamoring whirlpools of the Avenue she was thinking that the white-haired man had spoken almost tenderly of Elsie as "the child."

There was no mother in the MacLane mansion. She had been dead ten years. There was an aunt, an amiable old lady for whom Brenda entertained no little affection, but in the serious affairs of life she would as readily have taken counsel with her brother, who was not yet 12. Her father, for so strong a man as he was in the world of finance, was a weak man at home. He had no gift of sympathy, a deficiency which may have accounted for both the strength and the weakness. Brenda told him the story of her adventures as it has been here set forth, and he received it with painful surprise and lively alarm.

"Why did you go there?" he exclaimed. "What possible interest could you have in this wretched girl?"

"My dear father," she replied, with an excellent counterfeit of a smile, "let me remind you that my affection for Mr. Alden has been the one sincere emotion of a sadly artificial life. When I saw that terrible story, the

"The papers will be full of it!" he growled. "I have always been afraid of Alden. You know I could never reconcile myself to him."

"I remember that you always admired him," said she.

Brenda smiled without effort this time. She knew that her will would

Brenda rose hastily.

"They have come to take me to the hospital," she said. "Tell them I will be ready in a few minutes, and see about the carriage."

"Are these people policemen?" demanded Mr. MacLane.

"Well, sir, I took them to be what they call ward detectives," ventured the butler, "and I dropped the hint to James that he'd do well to keep an eye on them. There's things in the small reception room, sir, as would go into a man's pocket."

"You did quite right, Willett," said Mr. MacLane. "Brenda, my child, I suppose it's entirely useless."

"Absolutely. I must go," she said.

"Then I must go, too," he growled. But Brenda put a firm veto upon this proposal.

"It is wholly unnecessary," she said. "With my maid and James I shall not be afraid, even if these men are all that Willett says they are. There will be the coachman and groom besides."

Her father came up to her and touched the diamond ornament which she wore at her throat.

Brenda gave the pin to her father and also removed a ring of more than ordinary value, which she knotted up in a handkerchief and thrust into the bosom of her dress. Her maid entered at this moment with such things as were necessary to prepare Brenda for the ride.

After his daughter's departure Mr. MacLane paced the floor of the library for a long hour in restless anxiety. Then he received a telephone message from Brenda informing him that she had learned that Mr. Alden was still detained at the police station, which was an injustice not to be overlooked by his friends. The financier then understood why he had been left at home. As a result of Brenda's presentation of the case Mr. MacLane called upon his lawyer, who was a near neighbor, and the two men rode down to the station house in a cab, stopping at a club on the way to cash a check.

Upon giving their names to the sergeant at the desk in the station they were ushered into the captain's room, where, to their surprise, they found both the officer and his prisoner. Neale was sitting by a desk in the corner. He had the cramped look and the dull eye of a man who has neither moved nor spoken in a long time. Half a cigar with a ragged end was between his lips, and it seemed to have been driven in with a hammer. Any one who had known Neale for ten years would have said that this was the same cigar he had always been smoking. There was a tradition that he had never been seen to light a fresh one.

Alden was standing by a barred window looking out into a narrow, dark court, with a dead wall on the opposite side. There was nothing to attract a rational man's eye, but Alden continued to stare even after MacLane and the lawyer entered the room. He turned, however, when Captain Neale greeted the two men by name. At the sight of Alden's face MacLane, who was advancing toward him, stopped short. It is not the barrier between them which keeps the spectator in the menagerie from intruding upon the privacy of the caged tiger; it is the look in the creature's eye.

MacLane started at the sound of the voice; it was so different from what he expected. It was so different from what he expected.

"My daughter told me there was some sort of trouble," he began.

"It was very kind of her," said Alden.

"You probably heard that Mr. Alden was under arrest," said the captain.

"That isn't so. He's held as a witness. There's no charge against him. He and I had a little disagreement about what was the right thing for him to do. You see, he doesn't understand my position. I'm held accountable in these cases. But I don't want to make no trouble for no man," he went on, with that profusion of negatives which is often an ornament of his language in moments of earnestness, "and if I could see a decent way of letting him go without getting myself into trouble, why, I'd be glad to oblige him and his friends."

"Permit me to consider the legal aspect of the case," said the lawyer, sitting upon a corner of the table that was in the middle of the room and facing Neale, while the others were behind him.

There was silence of half a minute, and then the lawyer got upon his feet.

"It seems to be perfectly simple," he said at last.

"If you say so, that settles it," replied Neale, rising and walking toward the door. "Sorry to have troubled you, Mr. Alden. Good night."

And he bowed as the three men walked out, MacLane weak and trembling with excitement, Alden perfectly mechanical. As they passed the sergeant's desk the lawyer discovered that he had left his cane in the captain's room, and he returned. He was absent about five minutes, at the expiration of which time he joined MacLane upon the sidewalk. Alden was not there.

"He has gone to the hospital in our cab," said MacLane. "The man is in a trance. He scarcely spoke ten words. What detained you?"

"The captain was showing me a present that he had just bought for his little boy," replied the lawyer. "It's one of those iron banks. 'That'll make him thrifty, like his father,' said the captain. So, to encourage the child," slinking his voice to a whisper, "I put $300 into the bank while the captain was looking out of the window. Perhaps you didn't notice that I counted

some of my fingers as I sat on the corner of the table; not so many as I had expected, but Neale was really glad to get rid of him. It's the easy way all around."

"Only $300?" exclaimed MacLane.

"Well, that was easy."

Webster and the Plow.

"Daniel Webster, when at his home at Marshfield, would never speak on politics when here, but he would talk to the assembled neighbors and guests on matters pertaining to farming. On one occasion some Boston friends presented him with an enormous plow to use on his farm. Webster gave out word that on a certain day it would be christened. The day arrived, and the surrounding farmers for miles came to witness the event. A dozen teams with aristocratic occupants came down from Boston. It was expected by every one that Webster would make a great speech on the occasion, reviewing the history of farming back to the time when Cincinnati abdicated the most mighty throne in the world to cultivate cabbages in his Roman garden.

"The plow was brought out, and ten yoke of splendid oxen were hitched in front. More than two hundred people stood around on the tip-top of expectation. Webster soon made his appearance. He had been calling spirits from the vasty deep, and his gait was somewhat uncertain. Seizing the plow handles and spreading his feet, he yelled to me in his deep bass voice:

"Are you ready, Wright?"

"All ready, Mr. Webster," was the reply, meaning, of course, for the speech.

"Webster straightened himself up by a mighty effort and shouted:

"Then let her rip!"

OFFICER AMBUSHED.

Capt. Hartshorne, Jr., of the Seventh Infantry Killed on Samar Island.

REBEL LEADER SURRENDERED.

Laque rendered in Batangas Prov. on Time to Round Up and Scatter Men—Captain Porter and Marines Turned Up.

Manila, Jan. 22.—Captain Benjamin M. Hartshorne, Jr., of the Seventh Infantry, was shot from ambush and killed, Jan. 2, in the eastern part of the island of Samar. Captain Hartshorne was recently transferred from the Ninth to the Seventh Infantry. Owing to the lack of telegraphic communication in Samar the news of Captain Hartshorne's death came by mail in a report from Second Lieutenant George W. Wallace, of the Ninth. Lieutenant Wallace gives no particulars of the occurrence.

The insurgent leader Briccio Laque and his entire command on Jan. 20 surrendered unconditionally to the American military authorities in Batangas province. Laque's command had become so scattered that it was unable to hold out any longer. He has been given one week to round up and hand over his entire party to the Americans. Laque has been operating in the neighborhood of Mount Macolod, in Batangas province, Luzon.

The anxiety recently felt concerning the whereabouts of Captain David D. Porter, of the Marine corps, and 35 marines, who have been absent in the interior of Samar, has been relieved by the arrival on the coast of that island of Captain Porter and 23 members of his command. The other marines are expected to reach the coast soon.

Captain Porter and his party have been in the interior for two weeks past, having started on an expedition provided with rations for five days. Their progress was delayed and they suffered great hardships.

EXCEEDINGLY SLUGGISH

Was the Movement of Prices in the Stock Market, Tuesday—Some of the Features.

New York, Jan. 22.—Tuesday's stock market had the same appearance of indigestion and somnolence which has pervaded it of late. The movement of prices was exceedingly sluggish and narrow and the volume of dealings fell away further. The changes are small and mixed. To understand the character of the market comparison with previous conditions will be helpful. This time last year was a period of constantly developing projects for combinations and centralization of control on a scale never before witnessed. There was a progressive advance from month to month in the volume of the trade balance in favor of this country. This and the operation of the currency and refunding law were rapidly expanding the country's circulation and providing the requisite financial facilities for the vast loan expansion in connection with the great projects in hand. At present the stock market misses these stimulating influences. While there is nothing positively unfavorable in the outlook, there is a surfeit of feeling from the undigested mass of last year's great projects. The country's foreign trade balance, although still in our favor, shows progressive decline from month to month, compared with the corresponding months of last year. The national banks, instead of putting out additional note issues, are retiring their circulation up to the monthly limit allowed by the law, and applications are already on file for withdrawal of circulation sufficient to exhaust the legal limit into March. Talk of new combinations is heard, but only with scepticism and distrust. There is a latent fear that such combinations may be for noster purposes, rather than for mutual benefit. Rumors have circulated for a few days that all the great banks and trust companies in New York, and even the insurance companies, are crystallizing into two groups along the lines of cleavage that developed in the financial battle of last May. It is such general considerations as these that must be looked to to gain light on the present stock market. There was a show a strength in Sugar and Metropolitan, but the gains were subsequently wiped out. Glucose continued its recent advance to the extent of a point, but afterwards fell 1 1/2 below Monday night. There was an active demand for Mexican Central at an advance of 1 1/2, accompanied by reports of a new bond issue and the acquisition of additional lines. National Salt, after a long period of inactivity, was offered down over 11 points below the last sale, and then rallied 5. The preferred lost 4. No explanation was offered beyond the obstruction to the plan of reorganization. American Tobacco was stricken from the stock exchange list, owing to the insignificant amount of the stock outstanding and the facility thus offered for manipulation and the possible working of a corner. The market showed some recovery and closed irregular.

THE CAGE IS EMPTY. CAN YOU FIND THE BIRD, ALSO THE CAT THAT THE GIRL FEARS HAS EATEN HER PET?

Consolidated Tobacco is continued to make up the largest part of the bond market and were reactionary. Total sales, par value, $3,730,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

SEVEN PERISH IN A FIRE.

Lumber Camp Shanty Destroyed. Thirty-three Persons Escaped From Trap.

Hambledon, W. Va., Jan. 22.—The following named persons were burned to death in a camp belonging to the Otter Creek Boom and Lumber company:

John Morrissey.
John Riley.
George Van Horn.
Arthur Hedsick.
Thomas Hickey.
Mike Cronan.
Forrest Manard.

Bud Welch was badly burned and is in a critical condition.

The lumbering plant named is located here, but the camp was several miles up in the forest. The building was two stories, 22 by 52 feet. Forty workmen were sleeping in the upstairs, which was in one room. About 4 o'clock the smoke woke some up and they hurriedly aroused the others, and frantically they pushed each other down the stairs, tumbling over each other like sheep. Two small windows were in the room and these were broken out, and a dozen or more crawled through these and jumped to the ground. This they did without dressing and were left in the snow without clothing until they could get to another camp, one mile away. Clothing was taken to them. The remains of the burned were brought here last evening. There is not 40 pounds of all seven of them. They could not be recognized at all. Two were made known by metal possessions, the others by positions they were sleeping in. Monday night the men were paid off and several hundred dollars were burned.

COL. METCALFE MADE DENIAL.

Witness Told of Two Men Telling Him They Killed Two Filipinos.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Colonel W. S. Metcalfe, whose nomination to be pension agent for the Kansas district is held up in the senate on charges that he killed a Filipino while the latter was on his knees begging for mercy, was heard in his own behalf by a sub-committee of the senate committee on pensions, of which Senator Simon is chairman. He entered a positive denial of all knowledge of the killing with which he is charged and said that the statements against him have emanated from political opponents and from persons who, as fellow members of the Twentieth Kansas Infantry, were jealous of his rise in that regiment. Fred D. Heisler, formerly a private in the regiment, now employed in the government printing office, was the next witness and testified in Colonel Metcalfe's behalf, showing that the incident which gave rise to the report occurred in the colonel's absence and without his knowledge. His testimony was, however, hearsay. He said he had been told by two members of his company, Corporal W. J. Coleman, now dead, and Private W. E. Cummings, who is now in Kansas City, that on one occasion they had been left in charge of two Filipino prisoners with orders to take them to the rear. They refused to budge, despite attempts to force them, expecting shortly to be released by Filipino reinforcements.

The two Americans being left alone, their regiment having gone ahead, finally killed their prisoners to be rid of them and then caught up with their comrades. Colonel Metcalfe was not present on this occasion, nor did he have anything to do with the incident. Mr. Heisler thought it was this affair that was responsible for the charges against Metcalfe. The committee adjourned without taking any action, but it is expected that Private Cummings, the survivor of the two who put the Filipino prisoners to death, will be summoned as a witness.

WANTS CONGRESS TO REQUEST SCHEEPERS BE NOT KILLED.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Representative William Alden Smith, of Michigan, introduced a resolution in the house reciting the report that the British military authorities have passed sentence of death upon Commandant Scheepers; also that the "world suffers because of the war waged between any family of nations," and that the people of the United States are moved in behalf of the sufferers from the terrible warfare being conducted in South Africa, and then proposing a resolution by the senate and house that the British government be requested to set aside the death sentence on Scheepers.

Wide Latitude of Debate.

Washington, Jan. 22.—In the absence of other pressing business, the house managers are allowing the widest latitude in the debate on the urgent deficiency bill now before the house. The irrigation of arid lands in the west and the advisability of retaining control of the Philippines were the main topics under discussion yesterday. The speakers were Mr. Sibley (Pa.), Mr. Dinsmore (Ark.), Mr. Newlands (Nev.), Mr. Mondell (Wyo.), Mr. Robinson (Ind.), Mr. Kerns (Ills.), Mr. Gaines (Tenn.), Mr. Vandiver (Mo.) and Mr. Green (Pa.).

REPARATION FOR MURDERS.

China Must Secure It Before Beau Presents Credentials.

Paris, Jan. 22.—The foreign office here has received confirmation of the statement contained in a dispatch from Peking, that the French minister there, M. M. Beau took the same stand at the beginning of January, in connection with the murder of missionaries in Kan-Su province.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah.

The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument—the conclusion is self-evident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops down below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. This is especially true of the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western between Denver and Ogden at all seasons of the year. Facts speak for themselves, and the fact is that travel over "The Scenic Line of the World" has gone on with less interruption from snow blockades during the last ten winters than it has upon the majority of railroads in other localities which are popularly supposed to be more free from such delays than the mountain systems. CLARKSON

Clarkson, January 22.—Rev. Mr. Cowles, who is still absent in Erie, sent a substitute who occupied the pulpit very acceptably Sunday.

An oyster supper was given in music hall Tuesday evening for the benefit of the church.

Harry Warrick and cousin, Miss Bessie Moore, have left for Canfield, for the purpose of attending the normal college there.

George D. Moore, of Dakota, is visiting his parents and brothers and sister, Mrs. Clark Shannon, here. He spent many years ago and this is his first visit home.

The remains of Mrs. Lavina Shannon were brought here from East Liverpool for funeral services and burial on Saturday. A large number of friends and relatives and old schoolmates had gathered in the Presbyterian church, of which she and her husband, William Shannon, were members. Rev. Mr. Sudder, of Long Sun Presbyterian church, Calcutta, preached a fine discourse and the choir rendered the usual appropriate hymns. She leaves a husband, twin sons, aged 12 and 14 years, a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William Chaney; three brothers, Frank, John and William Chaney, and many friends.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature and of Matters About Town.

Examinations Are at Hand—The mid-year examinations will occur in the high school and throughout all the grades the first week in February.

Home Guards Meet—The members of the local order of Home Guards will meet tonight in their hall in the Oyster block. Several candidates are to be initiated.

Funeral of Mrs. McGrew—Funeral services of the late Mrs. Sarah Jane McGrew will take place at 1 p. m. tomorrow in the Presbyterian church at Smith's Ferry.

Will Entertain—Miss Emma King will entertain a number of lady friends at her home on Thompson hill Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. John Keley, of Cleveland, who is visiting in the city.

Evangelist's Sermon—Dr. S. E. Dunham spoke last night with his usual power to a fair-sized congregation at the First M. E. church. Six persons were at the altar. Services will continue each day at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Ill With Fever—Miss Mary Hurley, of this city, is very ill at the home of her parents in Salineville, suffering with typhoid fever. Miss Hurley's illness is the third case of fever in the family during the past few months.

A Lesson About Cold—Prof. G. N. Armstrong, of the high school, took about 20 members of the junior physics class down to the ice plant last night after school. The class is at present studying "heat and cold," and Prof. Armstrong desired to give them a practical lesson.

Clerks' Meeting—Butchers' and grocery clerks' local No. 292 met in the Oyster block last evening, but nothing but routine business was considered. Three candidates were obligated. This was the first meeting of the clerks in their new hall, and the attendance was very large.

Couldn't Prove Charge—A man named Rawlins was in the mayor's court yesterday afternoon and wanted to file a charge against a young man named Powell, employed at the Dresden pottery, who, Rawlins alleged, had pointed a pistol at him. He couldn't produce satisfactory proof and the complaint was not entertained.

Fine job work—News Review office.

IT IS OUR PRICES, OUR METHODS OF DEALING, AND THE HAVING WHAT YOU WANT THAT MAKES OUR BUSINESS SUCCESSFUL. THESE POINTS WE HAVE IN MIND IN OFFERING THE SALE OF THE PROPERTIES LISTED HERE.

$1,250—New 6 room slate roofed house with front portico, water, gas and cellar and lot 30x100. Situate within 8 minutes walk of the Diamond; 7 minutes walk of 1/2 dozen factories and within 1/2 square of paved streets.

Call any time, we'll show it to you.

$1,325—New 4 room house, well built. Slate roof, good cellar, lot 30x100. Situated in central East End, 1 short square from the street car line.

Inquire of us for it, it will pay you.

$1,575—Four room slate roof house, with cellar, lot 40x100. Lot fronts on two streets; nice place to live; convenient and not far from center of the city.

It pays you to talk Real Estate with us.

$4,500—Won't attempt to describe it's advantages and conveniences, it has them all; its rooms number six; its location is on a paved street within 5 minutes walk of the Diamond.

We want to show it to you.

$2,300—Double house; 5 rooms on each side; rents for $25 per month; lot 40x110. Buy it, live in one side; the rent of the other side will help you pay for it.

A home and an investment.

VACANT LOTS—We have them everywhere, from the Pennsylvania line to the mouth of Yellow Creek; from the river to Calcutta; at prices commensurate with their location, size and conveniences. It matters not what locality, street, addition or allotment; you had better see what we have; get our prices and terms.

OTHER PROPERTIES—We have scores of them at any price, on any street, in any locality. Come in and see us about them; ordinary prudence and business caution should compel you to do this for we can give you price and values of properties in all parts of the city. We know of a lot of misguided folks who ignored the real estate dealer and consequently paid more for their properties than they were listed at in our office. Lots more are doing it every day. WHY CAN WE GIVE YOU A BETTER PRICE? Because we must, and because of our experience and knowledge of value of real estate.

TEST US—If we don't measure up, don't deal with us. There will be no hard feeling on our part. All we ask is to be allowed to consider your wants, quote our prices and show you our properties.

One More Eulogy.

Lieutenant A. W. Thomson says, in The Independent, that when the civil war was practically over he was sent from the camp at Lincoln to Charlotte, N. C., under a flag of truce. He entered the town and was conducted to General Echols' headquarters in a large upper room, evidently a school-room.

Our guide pointed out the general, a fine, portly gentleman, seated at a table. I advanced and laid my papers on the table.

"General Echols, I presume?" I said. "These dispatches are from General Gilliam. Shall I wait for an answer?"

"Please be seated," the general said. Glancing around, I saw 16 or 18 gentlemen, all with one or two exceptions, in military uniform. Colonel Morgan came up to me, shook hands and said: "I believe you and I are not entire strangers."

He had been our prisoner a year or so before. While we chatted a gentleman in a civilian, gray suit turned to address General Echols. The cold stare of a glass eye caught my attention, and the features were somewhat familiar.

"Ah, Jefferson Davis! Are you here, pressed to the wall?" was my first thought. His face was far more pleasant than our northern papers had pictured it.

A dispatch was handed to General Echols, who read and reread it with an earnest, anxious look. Half rising, he passed the paper to Mr. Davis, who read it slowly and then handed it back.

"Well," said he, "we have lost a generous enemy."

When They Say "Goodby."

Did you ever hear two married women take leave of each other at the gate on a mild evening? This is how they do it:

"Goodby!"

"Goodby! Come down and see us soon."

"I will. Goodby!"

"Goodby! Don't forget to come soon."

"No, I won't. Don't you forget to come up."

"I won't."

"Be sure and bring Sarah Jane with you next time."

"I will. I'd brought her up this time, but she wasn't very well. She wanted to come awfully."

"Did she, now? That was too bad. Be sure and bring her next time."

"I will. I forgot to tell you that he's cut another tooth."

"You don't say so! How many has he now?"

"Five. It makes him awfully cross."

"I dare say it does."

"Well, goodby! Don't forget to come down."

"No, I won't. Don't you forget to come up. Goodby!"

And they separate.

The Roar of Battle.

The roar of the navy's four point seven's, their crash, their rush as they passed, the shrill whine of the shrapnel, the barking of the howitzers and the mechanical, regular rattle of the quick firing Maxims, which sounded like the clicking of many mowing machines on a hot summer's day, tore the air with such hideous noises that one's skull ached from the concussion, and one could only be heard by shouting. But more impressive by far than this hot chorus of mighty thunder and petty hammering was the roar of the wind which was driven down into the valley beneath and which swept up again in enormous waves of sound. It roared like a great hurricane at sea. The illusion was so complete that you expected, by looking down, to see the Tugela lashing at her banks, tossing the spray hundreds of feet in air and battling with her sides of rock. It was like the roar of Niagara in a gale, and yet when you did look below not a leaf was stirring, and the Tugela was slipping forward, flat and sluggish and in peace.—From "With Buller's Column," by Richard Harding Davis, in Scribner's.

TAX MEASURES OF GOV. NASH

INCREASE IN DOW TAX

Will Be Sought, But the Plan Will Likely Be Strongly Opposed—The Governor's Removal of Trustees at Dayton—Capital Notes.

Columbus, January 22.—(Special)—

To the extent of showing Governor Nash's purpose to conduct state institutions along lines of public economy and good, the removal of the entire board of trustees at the Dayton Hospital for the Insane undoubtedly had its effect; but nevertheless it was a matter of deep regret, and brought to the surface a condition of affairs that it was thought Ohio institutions were well rid of. The chief complaint seems to have been a disposition on the part of the trustees to go beyond the powers given them in their appointment and usurp the powers of the superintendent and steward. There was, of course, the consequent resentment on the part of the latter, and out of it all came a kettle of fish to stir up the whole state and bring a public institution into disrepute. Another thing seems to have been the idea of at least a part of the trustees that the hospital furnished a convenient and easy place to remain during a good share of the time and a taking advantage of the opportunity offered to go there. Upon the strength of the report submitted to him, Governor Nash concluded that an easy solution of the matter was the removal of the entire board without waiting to weigh the merits and demerits of each individual case, and the resignations were asked for to take effect at once. But as is always the case in matters of this kind, public interest is kept up and excitement furnished through a series of subsequent events. It is now claimed by the members of the trustee board that the report prepared by the state board of charities was not without prejudice, and unfair in many details. If they are to be removed it is not unlikely that they will demand the removal of the men who brought about their dismissal, and the public thus be treated to another washing of soiled linen.

Governor Nash, together with other of the state and legislative officers, is assiduously working upon the tax bills to be presented early in the present session. These measures are so wide in scope and comprehend such a diversity of interests as to make the preliminary work a task of considerable magnitude, requiring the exertion of delicate care in order that the best results may be obtained, together with a fair distribution of the burden. In a general way, the three most important of these bills will deal with corporations, insurance companies, and the Dow tax on saloons. If they all pass, another measure will follow to abolish the state levy at some future time. The most troublesome of the three proposed bills, and the one which party leaders feel is the least likely to pass, is the one increasing the Dow tax. This will be fought vigorously by the liquor element, and is regarded as a two-edged sword that may work more political harm than good. It will be submitted to the Republican house caucus, and may never get beyond there, although it will have back of it the powerful influence of many of the prominent men of the state. The bill proposes the increase of the tax from $350 to $500, the entire increase of $150 for each saloon in the state to go into the state treasury for the support of state institutions. It is figured that this would bring in many hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, and temperance advocates find in it an argument for their cause on the claim that many of the more vicious saloons would be forced out of business. It is contended that if the state levy is to be done away with entirely—and this is one of the things for which the state administration is firmly standing—it can not be brought about in any way better than by the raising of the Dow tax, unless it would be by raising the tax on corporations to a degree both unfair and out of proportion to their just share, provoking them to a determined warfare against any measure affecting their interests. The plan now advised by the framers of the bills is the placing of an annual fee on corporations of one-tenth or perhaps one-fifth of 1 per cent of their gross earnings, the entire amount to go into the state treasury and be used for the payment of the state's expenses. If the amount be placed at one-fifth instead of one-tenth of 1 per cent it would double the amount originally proposed and largely increase the state's revenues; but that one-fifth is even considered plainly shows that the total income of Ohio corporations does not reach within many millions what it was supposed was the case by those who made rough estimates. The bill to tax insurance companies would remove the local tax now collected and place a general tax of 2 1/2 per cent upon their gross premium receipts. It is thought this would add from $500,000 to $600,000 to the revenues of the state, and that this, with the money derived from corporations and the increased Dow tax, would be sufficient to meet all the state's expenses and do away with the general levy now assessed for that purpose. The plan of the administration is to, in so far as possible, relieve the burden of state taxation from the people in general, who are now taxed by both their city and township or county, and raise the money for the conduct of the state from the liquor interests and the great corporations of industry. Another plan relating to taxation is the abolishing of a state levy for school purposes and the levying of only local taxes for this purpose. A bill for this purpose will be prepared and introduced together with or at about the same time as the other tax measures.

The work of gathering statistics as to the ill effects resulting from the use of tobacco has brought to light many interesting things, but none of a more startling nature than the evils which come from the constant and excessive use of cigarettes. Outside of those apparent and plainly seen results, such as hacking cough, yellow skin and dull eye, are others of even a more serious and harmful character, which, while harder to trace to the same cause, really have their beginning there. While a bill entirely prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in the state, as is done in Tennessee and other places, would find a hearty indorsement from many members, it would hardly pass and will not be presented. But a measure has been drawn by Representative Gear of Wyandot which it is hoped will in a measure check the growth of this rapidly spreading evil and make the cigarette harder to obtain. It is proposed to increase the tax on wholesale dealers to $200 and on retail dealers to $100, and prohibit the sale to any one under 21 years of age. The effect of this, it is argued, will be to make it impossible for dealers to sell cigarettes without raising the price to a degree that will prevent many on whom the habit is not yet too strong to abandon it. Moreover, the prohibiting of the sale to minors under 20 years will, if enforced, stop many young boys from forming the habit, as well as enforce a discontinuance of it on many who are now slaves to the smoking of cigarettes.

A very fitting and well chosen action by the general assembly has been the setting aside of Wednesday, Jan. 29, as a day for the holding of memorial exercises in honor of the late President McKinley. The exercises will be held in the hall of the house, commencing at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and lasting for several hours. It is the purpose to make the occasion one befitting the man in whose honor they are to be held, and for that purpose a most distinguished company will be invited to attend, including Senators Foraker and Hanna, Governor Nash, all the Ohio congressmen, and all Ohio office-holders, both federal and state. In so far as possible speeches will be made by all of these, together with members of the state legislature. There will be exercises beyond the talks of an appropriate character, and the day will be one which will not only help freshen the memory of the late president, but also stir anew feelings of patriotism and good citizenship. The full program has not yet been completed, and is awaiting word from Washington as to who of the Ohio delegates in congress can come.

Mayor Johnson of Cleveland, who is staying here almost constantly now, is a unique figure in the politics of the state, as exemplified in Columbus. He has taken a magnificent residence on East Broad street, the most aristocratic thoroughfare of the city, and this is to serve as the headquarters of the Cuyahoga county delegation during the session. Mr. Johnson is opposed to the giving of railroad passes or their acceptance by public officers, and not one of his delegation rides without the payment of the full legal fare. Altogether, Mr. Johnson is a new disciple of an old faith. His uniqueness comes from the fact that he seems to practice what he preaches.

GEORGE U. MARVIN.

What the Barber Pole Represents.

The barbers of long ago were barber surgeons, but the rapid advance of surgical science has caused them to fall from their high estate. The gilt knob at the end of the barber pole of today represents a brass basin, which but a few decades since was actually suspended from the pole. The basin had a notch cut in it to fit the throat and was used in lathering the customer preparatory to shaving him. The pole represents the staff held by the patient who came to the barber surgeon to be bled. The two spiral stripes painted around it signify two bandages, one for twisting around the arm previous to the act of phlebotomy, or blood letting, the other for binding when the operation was completed.

Great Industrial Discoveries.

It is not the boy who is surrounded by the best implements and tools that ingenuity can manufacture, but an Eli Whitney making a cotton gin in a cellar in the south with the simplest tools or a Cunard whittling the model of a ship with a jackknife that makes great industrial discoveries.—Success.
